CERMAK VEXED WITH POLICE; HE TELLS THEM SO

Organizes a Cleanup Squad of His Own.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Cermak on three different occasions yesterday expressed vexation against his police department and conditions that he himself has approved.

In midafternoon he telephoned to the manager of the Rialto theater, on South State street.

"Clean up or be closed up!" he ordered. "I saw your show last night."

Later the mayor sent a letter to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock directing the creation of a gambling and vice squad which will operate solely under the mayor's personal orders. He has had his own investigators in this field for some time.

Hits Police "Soft Snaps."

In the morning he denounced the failure to carry out his orders two months ago for abolishing forty-one "soft snap" jobs, those of police lieutenants whose day's work consists of one trip to the city hall with the daily reports from the stations.

The mayor also criticized the failure of the police force to carry out his instructions for aggressive action against violators of city ordinances as well as the criminal code. He mentioned specifically the absence of arrests of motorists who fail to display the license stickers on the windshields of their cars.

Recent Events Recalled.

Two months have elapsed since Mayor Cermak was inaugurated and recently the signs that he has been disgusted with the police situation have begun to multiply.

First there was a trip of inspection through several stations in the early hours of the morning, a discovery of the lack of captains and lieutenants, and criticism of the hours kept by the district commanders, from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. The mayor expressed the opinion that in busy night centers the commanders should be on duty at night.

Then came the mayor's personal order to transfer two police captains, not on the ground that he was allowing gambling places to operate flagrantly, the other because he seemed too old for the busy district to which he was assigned. This subject of elderly policemen also has been taken up with a view to retiring men over 60 years of age.

Mayor Feels Responsibility.

Mayor Cermak, his friends say, feels that he is responsible for the functioning of the force. Every complaint to him, oral or written, even anonymous, has been investigated, it is said. There is evidence that he is dissatisfied with what he has found, that he feels he is not receiving coöperation, and is even being disobeyed.

The mayor made a charge of disobedience in the department yesterday morning when he saw four husky young policemen acting as messengers.

"It must be fully two months ago," he said, "that I ordered these men put on regular police duty. My instructions were that four motorcycle men make the circuit of the stations picking up these reports and let 37 more men go on beat."

Warns Theater Manager.

During a lull in other business later in the day, Mayor Cermak directed a secretary to get the manager of the Rialto theater on the telephone.

"This is the mayor's office," he said. "This is the mayor speaking. I am calling you to warn you that you've got to clean up your show. I saw it last night. It's not only immoral and indecent, but debasing and disgusting. It's plain filth. If you don't clean up you'll be closed up."

The same secretary took to the mayor then some letters he had dictated earlier. One of them was addressed to Acting Commissioner Alcock. It said:

"Kindly transfer Capt. Martin E. Mullen from Austin avenue police station to duty in charge of vice and gambling and permit him to select whatever men you and he may deem necessary to carry on the work. Assign Capt. Thomas Duffy to fill the place vacated by Capt. Mullen."

The mayor was asked the reason for his order.

"Scores of complaints come to me about gambling and vice," he replied. "Up to this time I have had my own investigators look into them and make such places closed up. The number of my investigators is limited and there are more important matters for which I need them. I believe Capt. Mullen can handle this and with the free hand I intend to give him."

CHURCH TO ACT WITH FASCISM TO TRAIN YOUTH

Italian Flag Made Banner for All.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 3.—Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius XI. today buried their disputes of three months' standing over the Catholic Action society—a dispute which had worldwide echoes.

Unexpectedly at noon the Italian government officially announced the terms of an accord which had been reached through a month of direct negotiations, defining so rigorously the competence of the Catholic Action and its dependent associations that it is believed it will in the future be impossible for the Catholic Action's activities to devolve in other than strictly religious lines.

The new accord will be a supplementary and interpretative document to the Lateran treaty of 1929, which, including article 43 concerning the Catholic Action, remains integral.

What Pact Provides.

The essential points of the accord are:

FIRST—That the Catholic Action shall abstain from politics.

SECOND—That it shall be governed directly by the bishops, and that none of its directors shall be chosen from men opposed to Fascism.

THIRD—That associations of the Catholic Action shall have no other banner but the Italian national flag.

FOURTH—That the Catholic Action shall not organize or have in its program the constitution of any professional organization or trade syndicates, or in any way compete with the prerogative claimed by the state in this respect.

FIFTH—Youth clubs closed last May will be reopened, but they shall in future be designated as "youth associations of the Catholic Action society."

Barred from Athletics.

Local associations will abstain from any kind of athletic or sports activities, limiting themselves strictly to religious activities and leaving all sports and gymnastics to the state's Balilla organizations.

At the same time, the church gains more scope and authority in directing the purely religious activities within Fascist organizations, such as the Balilla and Dopolavoro, the organization which provides recreation for workingmen. The church also is to have more control over productions given by Fascist dramatic societies.

From Vatican sources it is learned that other questions not specified in the accord were solved by verbal agreement or in an exchange of letters.

Italy Admits She Was Wrong.

In one instance the Italian state recognized it had been in the wrong in taking direct action against the Catholic Action instead of reverting to article 44 of the concordat, which provides that, in case of a dispute over terms of the concordat, matters shall be settled by negotiation in a friendly and common sense manner.

The Fascist government also recognized that nothing of a compromising nature had been found among the letters and documents taken in raids on the archives of the Catholic Action society.

Reparation for damaged property and insults to the person of the pontiff was also arranged for in the exchange of notes.

Vatican Authorities Satisfied.

In expressing satisfaction with the accord, Vatican authorities pointed out that it makes no fundamental change in the Catholic Action society. They hold that the central organization of the Catholic Action still remains, since, while now designated as diocesan in character, the pope as primate of Italy is head of it.

Furthermore, it is pointed out by Vatican authorities that the Catholic youth clubs are reopened as before, with only a slight change in name, and at the same time these clubs may carry flags which are only of a different color.

In many respects it is expected that while Mussolini has won most of his contentions, the accord will see a greater coöperation and mutual interpretation between Catholicism and Fascism than before. The Fascist party directorate tonight pledged to

GAS BOMBERS CAPTURE RUM PLANE, CARGO

Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—U. S. border patrolmen today, after throwing two or three bombs, captured an airplane which landed in a field here with a cargo of contraband liquor from Canada. Three men were arrested.

Fred A. Bradley, customs collector, said two of his men first seized a liquor running automobile and two men, took the men to jail and drove to the Becker flying field. As they drove onto the field an airplane landed alongside the car and the pilot tossed out a sack of ale.

The two patrolmen drew out their gas guns and made known their identity. In order that the pilot should not be able to take off again the agents fired two or three tear gas bombs.

Stern Warned of $200,000 Theft by Phone

A mysterious telephone call warning Lawrence F. Stern of a burglary plot forty-eight hours before his Glencoe residence was looted of jewelry valued at upwards of $200,000 was being investigated last night as the newest clew in the case.

The theft was committed Monday afternoon, a matched pearl necklace, four platinum, jewel set bracelets, and a large diamond ring being taken. The necklace alone was valued at $85,000.

On the preceding Saturday Mr. Stern, who is president of the investment house bearing his name at 231 South La Salle street, received a telephone call. An unidentified man spoke to him. "There is a plot under way to rob your home," he told Mr. Stern. The latter tried to question the informant, but the man hung up.

Guards Posted at Estate.

Puzzled over the call, Mr. Stern decided, however, to take precautions. Several guards were added to patrol the 17 acre estate, which is at 981 Sheridan road, Glencoe. They were on duty at night. Nothing unusual occurred Saturday or Sunday nights, and the services of the extra watchmen were deemed unnecessary.

The next afternoon the theft of the jewelry occurred. The thief may have entered by the front door, for that door later was found to have been unlocked. The jewels were taken from a dresser drawer in Mrs. Stern's bedroom after the drawer had been opened with a key supposedly taken from another compartment in which it was kept. No force was used in entering the house or in the actual theft.

Servants Are Questioned.

Glencoe and private police were notified. They questioned the eleven servants employed at the residence, but learned nothing of especial value toward solution of the case. Among those quizzed was Miss Wilma Harjes, 27 years old, Mrs. Stern's personal maid, who discovered the burglary. Further inquiry will be made today by Lieut. William Helke of the Glencoe police.

The police last night had a report that an unidentified married man was under suspicion, being involved with a woman servant in the household.

FALLS 17 FLOORS TO DEATH FROM HOTEL IN LOOP

George N. Saum, 61 years old, 1718 West 90th place, a master car builder, was instantly killed early this morning when he plunged from a seventeenth floor window of the Atlantic hotel, 216 South Clark street. He landed on the roof of the dining room, the total drop being fifteen floors. Saum was employed by the Chicago and Western Indiana railway. He was in charge of the yards at 51st and Wallace streets.

Investigation by House Detective Ray Ericson disclosed that Saum plunged from the room occupied by Charles Beaumont of Decatur, Ill. Beaumont, a representative of a railway supply house and a friend of Saum, said that he had invited Saum on a party. The two had some drinks, he said. About midnight Beaumont, according to his story, fell asleep, leaving Saum sitting in a chair. He awoke to find Saum missing. He said he did not know whether or not the fall was accidental.

Farmer-Labor Meet Picks Townley for President

Rochester, Minn., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A. C. Townley, founder of the Nonpartisan league, tonight was nominated for President of the United States on the Farmer-Labor ticket at the regional conference here, subject to approval of the national convention to be held within 60 days.

Officials Give Union 5 Days' Work a Week

Members of the Sanitary Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union will return to work for the city this morning after a week's strike during which garbage disposal throughout the city was practically at a standstill.

Three hundred members of the union voted unanimously to return to work at a special meeting last night at union headquarters, 639 South Ashland boulevard. Terms under which the men return to work, decided at a conference yesterday afternoon between Fred Sass, business agent of the union, and Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, acceded to several of the union demands.

Get Five Days' Work.

A minimum of five days' work a week will be given the men for the present. The chief cause of the strike was the fact that the men were working only four days a week. The question of overtime, half day's pay on days on which inclement weather prevents working and the possibility of more work will be decided by an arbitration board of three men. One of the members will be appointed by the union, one by the city and one by the two appointees.

Urgent Need of Collection.

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Duffey said the city's consent to the arrangement had been given only because of the urgent need of getting the strikers back to work, and that the question of whether it is to continue will be settled by the arbitration committee.

"Although I cannot discuss the arrangements made, I will say that we won," Sass said last night. "We've been fighting for a five day week and we got it, or we wouldn't have gone back to work."

Last night's meeting was something unusual in Chicago labor circles. There was a police squad there, furnished by the state's attorney's office, and newspaper men were invited to attend.

Union Gets Clean Bill.

Duffey, who had been investigating the union and who seized all union records on Tuesday, was invited to speak. He gave the union under the present officers a clean bill of health and told them an investigation of the records disclosed nothing illegal. The records will be returned this morning.

Sergt. Michael Ahern spread his men throughout the crowd to watch for disorder or any intimidating, as had been expected by members of the union. The four policemen, Henry Scherping, John Walsh, Leo Anderson and J. Zegar, mingled in the crowd, but there was no symptom of disorder.

KING ABOLISHES DICTATOR RULE IN JUGO-SLAVIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 2.—King Alexander tonight, of his own accord, gave up the dictatorship which he established in 1929 and returned the government to a parliamentary basis. The king's declaration, which was made at a dramatic cabinet meeting, came as a complete surprise.

King Alexander himself drew up the new constitution. It provides for a parliament of two houses, elected by secret universal suffrage among persons over 21 years of age.

Half of the members of the upper house will be elected and half will be appointed by the king. Three official languages, Serb, Croat, and Slovene, will be recognized as the official languages of the state and complete religious freedom will be established.

Board of Trade Will Quiz Brokers.

A search was begun yesterday to uncover possible accomplices of Walter E. Wolf, former trusted employé of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, whose speculations on the stock and grain markets were financed by thefts from the bank which may total $2,000,000 in stock certificates and bonds. Auditors of the bank worked throughout the day on the inventory of securities, which is expected to show the exact amount of the defalcation, first estimated at $3,500,000.

JAMES R. LEAVELL. (U. & U. Photo.)

Wolf, who is held in informal custody by Toplis & Harding, representatives of Lloyds of London, which had insured the banks against loss to the amount of $3,000,000, said he was lured into embezzlement by stock salesmen and brokers. Bank officials said they were certain he had no accomplices in the bank. The bank refused to give out the names of the brokers with whom Wolf dealt.

Board of Trade Plans Inquiry.

James C. Murray, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, announced last night that the business conduct committee of the board will investigate brokerage houses which handled Wolf's dealings in the grain market. This investigation will be made when the names of the concerns are made public by the underwriters and the bank.

The investigation is to determine whether the brokers were culpable or negligent in taking Wolf's account and whether salesmen, seeking commissions, encouraged him by false promises.

The Chicago Stock exchange also is expected to conduct an inquiry on Wolf's dealings with brokers in securities.

The search for accomplices and efforts to salvage a portion of the securities taken from the bank by Wolf may bring prolonged litigation, it was indicated. The liability of brokers or outsiders who might have encouraged Wolf's playing of the market is difficult to determine, the underwriters said.

Responsibility a Problem.

The responsibility of brokers who failed to exercise "reasonable care" in determining whether their client was a bank employé without authority to use the bank's funds was regarded as another difficult problem.

From the fact that most of the stolen securities were used as margins in market deals underwriters said a substantial salvage is anticipated. It was pointed out that on $1,000,000 in bonds, under common practice of brokers, a client would be allowed credit of $500,000. The balance and the market value of the stock purchased is salvage.

The rule is not binding, however, and Wolf may have been allowed even greater credit, dependant on the type of bonds, it is said. Recovery is also contingent on the brokers' claim to the securities held and can be determined only through litigation, it is believed.

Story of the Embezzlements.

The story of Wolf's downfall was revealed by the underwriters and James R. Leavell and Abner J. Stilwell, president and vice president of the bank. They were certain Wolf had not ultimately gained a penny through his market transactions.

In 1919 Wolf was told by a friend that Allis Chalmers stock was a good buy. He went to a brokerage office and asked to buy ten shares for cash—the greater portion of his life's savings. He was persuaded he could make more money by buying 100 shares on margin. Confident of a quick rise, he took the advice.

The stock dropped and he was asked for more margin. He took a bond or two from the bank. The stock went down still further and he had to put up more security. The broker, he said, suggested he buy more to recoup the loss. He did, and took more bonds to offer as collateral.

He lost again. Wolf said he became frightened and began to play all sorts of information on highly speculative stocks. He opened several brokerage accounts.

Sometimes he won and periods of time would pass when he would not touch the bank's securities. But his winnings did not last and when he lost he would again have recourse to the stock certificates and bonds in the bank's vaults, taking more and more of them as the years passed.

Meanwhile, he said, he continued to live within his salary of $4,000 a year in his rented home at 302 Ashland avenue, River Forest.

When Wolf began his peculations he was employed by the Illinois Trust and Savings bank. This merged in 1918 with the Merchants Loan and Trust company to form the Illinois Merchants Bank and Trust company. The latter institution merged in 1928 with the Continental National bank to form the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company.

Becomes Coupon Manager.

Wolf remained with the banks throughout these mergers and became manager of the coupon department of the Continental bank. Wolf said he abstracted securities coming to his department after giving the customer a receipt. He would then abstract the records relating to the bond.

As the bonds placed with the bank for collection and sale usually were due, or coupons on them were due, within periods of not more than six months, Wolf frequently had to exchange the bonds offered as margins with brokers. His knowledge of the department enabled him to do so without detection. He could not sell the bonds because of the limited time they were in the department.

Goes Into Grain Market.

As the years went on Wolf said he was encouraged from one bad venture to another, salesmen promising him he would make a killing on various stocks. He shifted brokers frequently. Recently, he said, he was persuaded to attempt speculations on the grain market, with the promise of a "big killing." His losses mounted to greater proportions.

Wolf said he never took money from the petty cash account until last month and then only $500. Thus his books were always in order during audits.

Wolf did no drinking. Investigators were certain there are no women in his life. He was home every evening with his wife and daughter, Marjorie, 18 years old. They had no domestic trouble. During the entire period of his speculations his wife knew nothing of his activities.

Leader in His Church.

The Rev. H. W. Prange, pastor of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church of River Forest, described Wolf as "a pillar of the church." He attended church regularly and serving as an usher when his daughter was confirmed last spring.

"Wolf is not a criminal," Mr. Prange said. "He was well liked by all who knew him though he was somewhat reserved in manner. He gave modestly and cheerfully to the church and charities. I say this revelation comes as a distinct shock to me and all who knew him. He was a man of no bad habits—the expression is trite but in no case more applicable than his. His hobby was his flower garden, which was one of the finest small gardens in River Forest."

Auditor Signs Immunity Waiver, Testifies.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson spent two hours before the Lake county grand jury at Waukegan yesterday, testifying to the relations existing between the defunct Waukegan State bank and its Chicago correspondent, the National Bank of the Republic, now merged in the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. The auditor owns 66 shares of the Republic bank's stock.

Contrary to an earlier determination, Mr. Nelson made no objection to the demand of State's Attorney A. V. Smith that he sign an immunity waiver. The auditor also took occasion to deny a published statement in which he was quoted as saying a verbal attack upon him by Col. Smith had been inspired by political motives.

The appearance of the state auditor before the jury followed charges made by Prosecutor Smith last Monday that the bank was insolvent last fall and that Mr. Nelson failed to perform his official duty to close the bank, but instead consented to a plan of reorganization. It is reported that Auditor Nelson told the jury yesterday that the bank was solvent at the time he consented to the reorganization last November, eight months before the bank voluntarily closed its doors.

Examined by Smith.

The examination was conducted by Col. Smith personally. The jury was reported to have shown interest in the fact that two former officials of the bank, Norman C. Geyer, president, and John Murray Connors, vice president, whom the jury has indicted, are now acting as bank receivers by appointment of the auditor. Mr. Geyer is receiver of the Second Northwestern Trust and Savings bank of Chicago and Connors of the Citizens bank of Keithsburg, Ill.

The auditor is reported to have pointed out that neither official had been indicted at the time they were named receivers.

In response to a question, Mr. Nelson is said to have stated that he once held 200 shares of stock in the Republic bank and that he had reduced his holdings to the 66 shares he now owns. He is said to have assured the jury that he held no stock in the Waukegan bank.

Asks Reports of Examiners.

At the conclusion of his testimony he was requested to return about two weeks hence with reports of the state bank examiners on the Waukegan bank covering the period from 1928 to its closing.

The jury also heard three officers of the Republic bank; Hugo Otte, vice chairman of the board of directors; John W. O'Leary, president, and Ward C. Castle, vice president. All were required to sign immunity waivers.

George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of the Republic bank, whom deputy sheriffs had failed to subpoena after waiting all day at his Chicago apartment, 1500 Lake Shore drive, came voluntarily to the Lake county courthouse at 5:30 p. m., a few minutes after the jury had adjourned. Mr. Woodruff apologized for his tardiness, explaining that he had misjudged the distance from Chicago to Waukegan. He was instructed to return next Tuesday.

Meanwhile the Cook county grand jury, recessing from any further testimony from receivers and attorneys of closed Chicago banks, took steps to insure that sufficient funds will be provided for continuing the general banking investigation undertaken by State's Attorney Swanson. The grand jury's term expires today.

Mr. Swanson, his bank prosecutor, Henry E. Ayers, and Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, were before the jury for more than an hour.

No Funds Available.

Mr. Whealan was reported to have reiterated his previous assertion that the county had no funds for grand jury investigations, but to have added a pledge of coöperation and a promise to endeavor to obtain funds by Dec. 1. A $10,000 fund remaining from the appropriation for the last special grand jury will be employed until new funds are available, Mr. Swanson said.

At the auditor's Chicago office it was announced that Mr. Nelson was considering a petition of Tomax F. Deuther, chairman of the reorganization committee of 100 of the Northwestern Trust and Savings bank, 1201 Milwaukee avenue, to reopen the institution as a new bank to be called the Smulski Trust and Savings bank. The list of 26 petitioners was headed by Mrs. Harriet Smulski, widow of John F. Smulski.

FREED ON GAMBLING CHARGE.

Jack Stern, 29, owner of an alleged handbook raided at 841 Grace street, was discharged yesterday by Judge Thomas A. Green in the Town hall court because the police did not have a warrant to enter the place.

BROKER'S SALESMAN GIVES SELF UP AS $15,000 EMBEZZLER

A. J. Weeg, 31 years old, 5212 Cornell avenue, father of a 15 month old baby and trusted employé of a brokerage house for seven years, was locked up at the detective bureau yesterday on his own admission that he had embezzled $15,000 from his employer. A warrant was sworn out for him and his bond fixed at $10,000.

Weeg, who was employed as a bond salesman by A. C. Allyn & Co., 100 West Monroe street, had been playing the stock market for several years, according to his own story. When bonds were presented to his office for sale he would take them, in many instances, and put them up at other brokers' offices to cover his speculations, he said.

His wife and baby went away recently on a vacation and he decided to give himself up. His employer sent him to the offices of the Maryland Casualty company, 175 West Jackson boulevard, where he told his story. The casualty company called the detective bureau.

CHILEAN CABINET RESIGNS; PLANS STATE OF SIEGE

BULLETIN.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Chilean cabinet resigned late tonight and a special session of congress was called for 1 a. m. tomorrow to decide on the declaration of a state of siege requested by Vice President Trucco.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Air attack and coast defense plans were made by a special board of strategy tonight at the same time that naval officials, with full powers, were conferring in Coquimbo harbor with leaders of the naval mutiny in an effort to quell the uprising peaceably. The men are revolting against proposed salary reductions.

The crews had thus far failed to show any inclination to accede to the government's demand that they turn over the ships they control and release the imprisoned officers.

From an authoritative source it was learned that the crews of the ships threatened to land their officers tomorrow unless their demands are met and to sail the ships to sea, to a destination which is not revealed, but which the report said might be Valparaiso.

May Attack with Submarines.

Rear Admiral Edgardon von Schroeders is in charge of the negotiations. He flew to Coquimbo from Santiago. Vice Admiral Abel Campos, commander of the fleet, was reported to be a prisoner aboard one of the ships, together with a number of other officers.

The government proceeded today with plans to guard the coast points and to attack the fleet with airplanes and submarines if necessary. The submarine crews continued loyal.

A battleship, a cruiser, and seven destroyers are involved in the uprising. About 3,000 men are aboard them.

Telegraphic reports from Coquimbo said business was paralyzed there and great excitement prevailed.

Army Remains Loyal.

The army and the air corps were reported remaining loyal. It was predicted that, if necessary, the government would use the bombing division of 30 airplanes against the mutineers.

Juan Esteban Montero, candidate for president, who has the support of many of the important elements in Chile, was asked to return to Santiago by special train from Valparaiso to assist the government in stamping out the mutiny.

The Chilean navy, which played an important part in the war of independence and the war with Peru, consists of 2 battleships, 2 armored cruisers, 3 light cruisers and 7 destroyers.

Arturo Alessandri, former president of Chile, who recently returned from exile, today withdrew as a candidate for the presidency. He said that in view of the national situation he deemed it wise to remove himself completely from the political picture.

Five Slain in Ecuador.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

QUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Sept. 2.—A squad of cavalry killed five persons and wounded fifty at Quito last night, breaking up a mob which began rioting as the result of discussion in congress concerning cancellation of the Swedish match monopoly.

After a resolution canceling the contract had passed congress on second reading, an excited mob rushed Senator Cueva Garcia, defender of the monopoly, when he left the senate chamber, but other senators saved him.

The mob then started for the residence of the match company's lawyer, Luis Felipe Borja, near Alameda park, where it encountered the cavalry. When an order to disperse was not heeded, the cavalrymen fired.

GEN. CROWDER ILL IN COLORADO SPRINGS; TO GO TO ROCHESTER

Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Enoch Crowder, retired army officer and diplomat, is confined to his room at a hotel here by a general breakdown in health.

Friends said tonight he would be taken to a hospital at Rochester, Minn., when able to travel. They did not regard his condition as critical.

The general attributed his poor health to infirmities of age rather than to any specific ailment. He is 72. He came to Colorado Springs from Chicago to visit his sister, Mrs. H. E. Siebert. He is unmarried.

During the world war, Gen. Crowder supervised the selective draft system. On his retirement in 1923 after a brilliant army career, he became ambassador to Cuba, serving until 1927.

From 1906 to 1908 he was secretary of state and justice in Cuba under Governor General Leonard Wood and in 1919 aided in the revision of the Cuban election laws.

A native Missourian, Crowder, saw service in the Indian campaigns of the west, played a prominent part in the military occupation of the Philippines, and was an observer with the Japanese army in the Russo-Japanese war.

THIS RACCOON MAY FEAR FUR COAT WEATHER

When Albert Hallett, Oak Park youth, finished his law course at Yale last spring and returned to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hallett, at 216 South East avenue in the suburb, he brought a pet raccoon with him.

Last Tuesday young Hallett went to Lawrenceville, Ill., to go to work, leaving his pet with his parents. The raccoon was disconsolate. He refused his food and last night suddenly scuttled out the door of the Hallett home and up a tall elm in front of the house.

He took refuge on the highest limb, a furry bundle of misery. The Oak Park fire department was summoned. Chief William Watters, an old hand at rescuing marooned cats, ordered a ladder raised.

The raccoon retreated to the tip of his limb, clinging with all four paws. It required half an hour's work, and eventually the sawing of the limb to which he clung, before the coon was carried down, snarling and clawing, and restored to Hallett's parents.

Here's a Lovely Town; It Doesn't Levy Taxes

Warsaw, Ind., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Citizens of Sidney, a small town in the southeast part of Kosciusko county, are not worrying over the tax situation for 1932. The town board has found money already on hand and the amount to be collected this fall will be more than enough to care for everything. Therefore no tax was levied.

CLARKSBURG TO PUT SOFT PEDAL ON BLUEBEARD

City Fathers Dislike the Publicity.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—West Virginia is awearying of the publicity heaped upon this commonwealth because of the crimes of Harry Powers, the Bluebeard who chose this city as his murder site and burial ground.

SHERIFF GRIMM.

All over the nation the doings of the correspondence swain have been chronicled, to the distaste of the Clarksburg patriots who care little for such advertising.

So Saturday Chief of Police Duckworth and Sheriff Wilford B. Grimm, after a conference with Prosecuting Attorney William Morris, announced it had been decided to halt most investigating activities and to let the sensation cool for a time at least.

"We have a perfect case against Powers," Prosecutor Morris explained. "He will go to the gallows for certain. He has signed a confession that he murdered the widow Eicher and her children from Park Ridge, Ill., and he has admitted also that he murdered Mrs. Dorothy Pressler Lemke of Worcester, Mass.

Plenty of Corroboration.

"In addition to that, we have circumstantial evidence, letters he wrote his victims, his visits to their homes and conversations with relatives, friends and police in the cities he went to, all of which by itself is more than sufficient to convict Powers and send him to his doom."

As a sample of the interest with which the city fathers are urging on the investigation, the city council met last night and voted a "contingent fund" of one hundred dollars with which to aid Chief Duckworth in completing the inquiry. The sum is the only appropriation made for the extra expenses of the inquiry, and the plan for taking a steam shovel out to Quiet Dell to turn over all the ground about the garage dungeon in which Powers killed his victims seems to have been abandoned. It has been suggested that additional bodies might be found if this type of search were conducted.

Powers' Bruises Shown.

Plans for the defense of Powers were going forward with greater activity. J. Edward Law, the Bluebeard's attorney, visited the jail today with a photographer and a physician. The photographer took five pictures of Powers, who was stripped to the waist, and the extent of the beating administered to the prisoner while he endured the questioning of the officials was clearly shown.

"Powers is black and blue from his head to his feet," Attorney Law asserted. "The physician fears that his skull may have been fractured."

The lawyer asserted the confession obtained from Powers had been repudiated, and that in view of the third degree methods used in getting Powers' signature to it, it would not be admitted in the trial, set for November.

Wife Turns on Powers.

The husky, red headed mail order wife of Powers today turned against her husband. Turning from her "I still love that kid" attitude, Mrs. Powers said today to Chief of Police Duckworth that she was well rid of a bad lot, and that she would not have Powers return home "for a hundred million dollars."

Incidentally it was learned that Mrs. Powers had been previously wed. She had left the impression that she was a spinster, but today it was learned that she had been married on April 21, 1923, to Ernest Knisley, and was divorced from him on July 3, 1924. Knisley, prior to his marriage to the then Luella Strother, had been tried for the murder of John Wheeler, a farmer, in a fight. Knisley was acquitted on a plea of self-defense.

The bodies of Mrs. Eicher and her three children were cremated in Pittsburgh today and preparations were being made to send the ashes to relatives in Park Ridge.

His Trial in Ohio.

Mansfield, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Operations here of Harry F. Powers, confessed killer of two women and three children at Clarksburg, W. Va., were investigated by police today. Powers, known here as Joseph Gildaw, resided in Mansfield in 1924, '25 and '26, police said.

In the belief that Powers might have killed some of his women friends here, city and county authorities were considering searching two garages rented by the man while in Mansfield.

Police records showed Powers was in custody here twice—once in December, 1924, when he tried to sell some articles to a second hand dealer, and the second time in April, 1925, when he was arrested for Chicago Heights, Ill., authorities.

AS HIS VICTIMS SAW HIM

Red Headed Wife Here with Slayer Powers, Woman Says

A supposed visit of Harry Powers, West Virginia Bluebeard, and two women for a reading at the studio of Mrs. Jean Campbell, consulting psychoanalyst, was told last night by Chief Johnson of the Park Ridge police.

One of the women, Mrs. Campbell believes, was Mrs. Luella Powers, red haired wife of the murderer. The other, she says, was Mrs. Asta Buick Eicher, the widow slain by Powers. Chief Johnson said last night that he believed Mrs. Campbell's story, but would question her further today.

Visited by Two Women.

Mrs. Campbell said that shortly before Mrs. Eicher disappeared last June Powers, under the name of Pierson, arranged a meeting of two women with her. The women appeared next day. One was Mrs. Eicher, she says. The other, Mrs. Campbell declared, resembles pictures of Mrs. Powers. The former gave her name as Mrs. Buick, the latter as Mrs. Drexel.

Mrs. Buick sought advice on the sale of some property and bonds, according to Mrs. Campbell, who replied that she did not give advice on such matters. Powers, she said, represented himself as a wealthy bachelor.

Chief Johnson said that Mrs. Campbell's address was 15 East Ohio street. This is the address of the Berkshire hotel. The room clerk there stated last night that Mrs. Campbell had moved out six weeks ago.

A Pathetic Memento.

Meanwhile other investigations here turned up a pathetic memento of Greta Eicher, one of the three children slain with the Park Ridge widow. It was found yesterday by the public administrator's office in the Eicher family possessions, which may be auctioned next week.

The memento was an informal biography of the girl, kept by her mother since her birth. There was a lock of golden hair, marked "one year old," a record of all the parties and festivities of the child's life, including such details as her birthday presents and favorite songs.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eicher, Greta, and the two other children, Harry and Annabel, will probably be held Saturday afternoon in Park Ridge. William S. Moritz, Park Ridge undertaker, received word yesterday from the Pittsburgh establishment where the four bodies were cremated, that the ashes will be placed on a train leaving Pittsburgh for Chicago at noon today, and will arrive here tomorrow morning.

50 MILLION FACE HUNGER IN FLOOD AREAS OF CHINA

SHANGHAI, Sept. 2.—(AP)—President Chiang Kai-Shek today estimated that fifty million Chinese flood victims were on the verge of starvation.

While national effort was being made to relieve Hankow, Wuchang, and Hanyang, where 350,000 persons were estimated to have died of flood, starvation and exposure during August, attention was diverted to northern Kiangsu province where the once fruitful and happy basin between the grand canal and the sea has been transformed into a death trap for scores of thousands.

The flooded area there approximates 5,000 square miles in which 10,000,000 persons dwell. The Rev. Thomas L. Harnsberger, a Presbyterian missionary from Staunton, Va.

WOMAN HUNTED AFTER ACCUSER IS FOUND SLAIN

Leonard Ingstrom, a quiet young fellow who worked as an insect exterminator, had two exciting moments in his life. One came last June, when he caught another roomer, named Catherine Ricardi, slugging his landlady in an attempt to rob her. The other cost him his life. Three men kidnaped him on the night of Aug. 19 and took him on a gang ride, supposedly to prevent his testimony in court against Miss Ricardi. His body was found in a ditch yesterday in Du Page county, three miles from Hinsdale.

The day before the fatal ride Miss Ricardi met Ingstrom, the police were told, and, when he refused to perjure himself in her favor at her pending hearing, threatened his life. She was sought last night.

Mystery About Woman.

Ingstrom, who was 27 years old, had lived for six years in the rooming house of Mrs. Lena Rogers, 217 South Throop street. Miss Ricardi was something of a mystery when she came to live there. She carried a revolver and asserted that she was an undercover investigator for the police. The police deny this and say that she was once arrested as a prostitute under the alias of Catherine Thompson.

Mrs. Rogers was accustomed to keeping considerable sums of money about the house. On June 26, it is alleged, Miss Ricardi saw her tucking $145 into an old stocking, and slugged her with a hammer in an attempt to rob her of the money. Ingstrom, who came to his landlady's rescue, was the only other witness to the affair.

Due to Appear in Court.

Miss Ricardi was due to appear in the jury court two weeks ago on charges growing out of the assault on Mrs. Rogers. On Aug. 18, it is charged, she met Ingstrom on the street and asked him to change his testimony to favor her. He refused.

"I won't be in court," the woman told him, he said later, "and you and Mrs. Rogers won't either. You're going to be taken for a ride, and I may have her taken, too. You won't be the first one my friends have taken care of."

"Ingstrom warned me to watch my step that evening," Mrs. Rogers said yesterday.

The following evening J. C. Miller, another roomer in the house, saw three men force Ingstrom into a car in front of Mrs. Rogers' rooming house.

Ingstrom's body was hidden in a ditch several hundred yards from any dwelling, on the edge of West 79th street, west of the Cook county line. The closest habitation is the estate of Emil Denemark. The discovery was made when a road grading machine was driven along the ditch, parting the weeds which covered the body.

Ingstrom's hands had been bound behind his back. It appeared that several shots had been fired into the back of his head and his throat slashed.

BULLDOG ROUTS 2 ROBBERS WHO BEAT MISTRESS

Queenie, a fighting bulldog, was a heroine last night in the household of Mrs. Anna Kelly, 6940 South Green street.

Shortly before noon yesterday two men, posing as prospective roomers, called at Mrs. Kelly's home. They selected a room and said they would return later.

They returned late in the afternoon. One of the men struck Mrs. Kelly with a blackjack. The other grabbed her hand, on the fingers of which were three rings valued at $500. Mrs. Kelly screamed and struggled with the men. Her screams were heard in the basement below by her granddaughter, Ruth Gail, 9 years old, and the child ran up the stairs with Queenie at her heels. As they entered the room they saw Mrs. Kelly struggling with the men. Queenie leaped upon the strangers. She bit one, then the other, and drove them off.

The dead are James M. Martin, 23, of Alton and Oscar M. Dillon, 19, of Godfrey.

WAR VETERAN SHOOTS BANDIT FLEEING HOLDUP

A youthful bandit was shot and seriously wounded yesterday when a world war veteran, summoned by a buzzer alarm installed by merchants in the neighborhood, arrived on the scene. The robbery took place at the C. H. Nygren Men's Clothing store, 3400 Fullerton avenue.

The war veteran is Ellsworth D. Pixley, owner of a cigar store at 3406 Fullerton avenue, who armed himself, dashed into the street and fired at the fleeing bandit. The youth, shot in the back, was taken to the Bridgewell hospital where he was identified as Lawrence Wysocki, 26 years old, 2933 North Ridgeway avenue.

Bandits Enter the Store.

Wysocki and a companion, who escaped, had just taken $30 from the cash drawer in Nygren's store. The pair drove to the establishment, entered and asked to see some shirts. Their actions were suspicious, Nygren said, and he pressed the buzzer. In an undertone he told his clerk, Edwin Wilcox, 17 years old, 2423 Central Park avenue, to get Pixley.

When Wilcox started for the door, Wysocki drew a revolver and said, "No you don't." Tony Pollacki, a mail carrier, entered at this moment, and the three men were locked in the washroom. The unidentified bandit went to his car at the curb and started the motor while Wysocki lingered inside the store.

Ordered to Throw Up Hands.

Pixley was running toward the store with a drawn revolver. Herman Marshall, 63 years old, 2418 Kimball avenue, who was passing, told the merchant that he thought the man in the car was a bandit. Pixley ordered him to throw up his hands and he complied.

Seeing the gun in Pixley's hand, Wysocki dashed out of the store and started to cross Fullerton avenue. Pixley fired one shot and the bandit fell on the street car tracks. Herman Clausen, a grocer at 3402 Fullerton avenue, who was answering the neighborhood alarm system, picked up Wysocki's revolver. The other bandit leaped from the car and escaped on foot.

Capt. Charles Larkin of the Shakespeare avenue police, said that Wysocki was paroled in 1929 from Pontiac, where he had been serving a sentence for robbery.

Denied Bunco Parties, So Wife Sues for Divorce

Her husband's objections to her attendance at bunco parties, and his refusal to buy her new clothing were the complaints which Mrs. Rose Sandrock, 3240 Sheridan road, made against her husband, George, in a divorce bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday. Sandrock is head of the Premier Sanitary Products company, 2147 Ainslie street. In her bill Mrs. Sandrock also charges that her husband often broke dishes if he did not like his food. The couple have been married for 27 years and have three children.

Japan Paves Way for Hop of Herndon and Pangborn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 2.—The possibility of an air race across the Pacific loomed today, when a customs duty exemption permit was granted to Hugh Herndon Jr. and Clyde Pangborn, American aviators. This will enable them to start work on their plane. Meanwhile, officials at the last minute, delayed the proposed hop of Don Moyle and C. E. Allen, California flyers. Their permit was held up because the war and navy departments were said to have decided their plane was obsolete.

M'DONALD CALLS SPECIAL SESSION TO MEET SEPT. 8

Cabinet Will Demand Vote of Confidence.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Parliament was summoned tonight to meet in special session next Tuesday, Sept. 8, to pass upon the economy program and budget of Prime Minister MacDonald's national cabinet. The budget was completed at a five hour session of the cabinet.

This is the first special session of parliament called since the world war, and while it will probably be short, it is expected to mark a momentous period in Great Britain's history.

The first business in the house will be the setting up of a ways and means committee to deal with the cabinet's financial proposals. The debate on this motion will be made the occasion for a challenge by the government for a vote of confidence. The debate will be opened by Prime Minister MacDonald. Stanley Baldwin will speak on behalf of the Conservatives and Sir Herbert Samuel for the Liberals. The division will be accepted as an indication of the support the new ministry can expect during the remainder of its lifetime.

Financiers Are Reassured.

Whatever else the cabinet does to balance national revenues and expenditures, the financial district revived immediately today after it had received official assurance that there are two things it will not do—it will not launch a compulsory conversion of war loans and it will not tax fixed interest bearing securities. This news was given out in London by Mullens, Marshall, Steer & Lawford, government brokers.

Neither of these steps had been considered probable by most financiers, but consistent publicity of new taxation had been kept up in the realization that there was a remote possibility of such action, and the markets were depressed accordingly. Government securities advanced as soon as the news was received.

MacDonald Refuses to Quit.

Another issue definitely settled today was the anticipated negative answer by Prime Minister MacDonald to the demands of his constituents at Seaham Harbor to resign his seat in parliament because he went in with the national government.

"Any action I may take," Mr. MacDonald declared, "in response to any resolution passed will only be after I have finished the duty I am undertaking and not before.

"Our position has been dictated by a determination to keep standards of living, unemployment pay, and such like at the maximum possible. If you are able to discuss these things now, with the nation free of collapse and panic, you owe this solely to my colleagues and myself who took action when we did last week."

PRISCILLA

PRINCESS MARIA OF SAVOY.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 2.—(AP)—King Carol of Rumania is reported to be seeking the hand in marriage of Princess Maria Francesca, second daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy.

Court circles in Bucharest says M. Manollescu, a former cabinet member and personal friend of the king, will visit Rome on a vacation soon and will ask Victor Emmanuel to consent to the betrothal.

Princess Maria, 17, has been mentioned as the fiancé of Archduke Otto, pretender to the throne of Austria, but the rumor has been denied. King Carol was divorced by Queen Helen during his lengthy absence from Rumania, but the Rumanian holy synod annulled the decree after his return. It was considered to be a moral and not a legal annulment.

WOMEN JURORS ARE CONVICTED OF CONTEMPT

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Culbertson and Mrs. Gladys Garrett were convicted on contempt of court charges by Circuit Judge Edward Shurtleff today.

The court ruled the women had violated their oaths as jurors in an automobile accident damage suit last March. Mrs. Lucy Avey, injured in the accident, was awarded $500 damages against Walker Medaris. She asked $10,000.

Mrs. Avey's counsel, in preferring the contempt charges against the women, said they were jealous of Mrs. Avey and were prejudiced.

The court's ruling culminated a hearing that has lasted for several weeks. Another defendant, Mrs. Mary Helt, a court bailiff at that time, was excused after she collapsed in court.

YORKSHIRE BIDS FOR MAC DONALD; LIKES HIS PLUCK

LONDON, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A penciled postcard from a Yorkshire working man was in Prime Minister MacDonald's mail this morning.

"Come to Yorkshire," it said, "and we will find thee a seat in the commons. All Yorkshire labor is proud of you. The dole has been much abused and we workers are tired of keeping those who will not work. You did a fine thing and we are proud of you. Yorkshire likes pluck."

Berlin Boerse Opens Today After 7 Weeks' Suspension

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—The board of directors of the Berlin boerse today issued an appeal to traders and to the public to avoid all activities which might disturb trading tomorrow, when the exchanges will be reopened after an interruption of seven weeks.

Exchange customers are especially warned against spreading rumors, the board announcing that it will relentlessly prosecute any attempts of that kind. It also emphasizes that trading above or below the officially determined quotations is strictly forbidden.

CRISIS BARES WHY BRITAIN SOUGHT TO CUT U. S. NAVY

Figures Show Her Unable to Stay in Race.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Why Great Britain "accepted" parity in naval strength with the United States at Washington in 1921 and why she has pressed America and Japan so strongly ever since for further limitation in the sea power of these nations, respectively, is revealed by the present financial and economic crisis, which has now come to a head.

The May committee report on national expenditure, which sought to bridge the gap created by the estimated $600,000,000 deficit in this year's budget, has dared to recommend reductions in the "fighting services" approximating $5,000,000 and strongly urges the government to continue its efforts at the league of nations disarmament conference next February for further drastic reductions in military forces to effect further savings.

(The pound sterling today is quoted at $3.86, but as Mr. Wales uses round figures in some cases in this article, the round figure of $5 is used as the value of the pound in converting his figures into dollars.)

List of Expenditures.

This year's budget provides for the following expenditures:

Navy	£ 51,605,000	($258,025,000)
Army	39,930,000	($199,650,000)
Air	18,100,000	($ 90,500,000)
Total	£109,635,000	($548,175,000)

The gross expenditure totals £122,515,720 [$612,578,600], but this is reduced by receipts from interdepartments, dominions, India, and colonial contributions, amounting to £12,880,720 [$64,403,600].

The May report proposes specifically: "We would respectfully suggest that his majesty's government in considering the recommendations to be made on their behalf at the disarmament conference should have clearly before them the effect of their proposals on the national finances. We further recommend that each of the services should be examined immediately after the conference to determine in the light of the conditions then prevailing the organization best fitted to carry out the national requirements with the least expense."

Opposes Merger of Forces.

The May report decides against the project to combine the admiralty, war office, and air force into a single "ministry of defense" on the ground that merging the three services would not effect the economies claimed and might interfere with the efficiency of the various arms.

Strong recommendations are made that the government reopen its fight against the 8 inch gun 10,000 ton "Washington cruisers" at the next disarmament conference, in furtherance of the policy which imposed a certain tonnage of 6 inch gun, smaller cruisers on the United States at the naval conference held in London last year. The plea is also made that capital ships should be further decreased in size and gun power from 35,000 tons carrying 16 inch weapons, authorized by the Washington conference in 1921, to the 20,000 or 25,000 ton type carrying 14 inch guns which were suggested in London in the winter of 1930.

"It is common knowledge that varied opinions are held in the navy itself as to the wisdom of the policy embodied in the design of ships of war," the report says. "How far considerations of cost enter into the decision of the admiralty to adopt, say, the 8 inch 10,000 ton cruiser or the 16 inch 35,000 ton capital ship, we have not inquired. But the difference to the taxpayer, owing to the selection of these in preference to smaller types, has undoubtedly been very substantial, running into millions of pounds.

The Question of Costs.

"No new ships exceeding 7,000 tons are being laid down at the moment, and the admiralty have assured us that when the new program for the year is under consideration the question of comparative costs is constantly in the minds of the board. We appreciate that the size of the ship is determined by the qualities she is to possess, which, in turn, depend on the services she is expected to perform and on the quality of the foreign ships she is likely to meet. When the question of the capital ship comes up for further consideration at the 1935 conference it is clear that decisions will have to be taken which will gravely affect the total cost of naval defense."

Savings of a total of £979,000 [$4,895,000] are proposed by the May report, but they are concentrated almost entirely in the administrative departments of the respective forces and scarcely affect the actual striking power of any of the three arms. They are:

GENERAL.
Reduction of expenditure on research and technical development by 12½%	£300,000	[$1,500,000]
Reduction of education votes by 16⅔%	150,000	[750,000]
Reduction of inspection costs by 10%	100,000	[500,000]
Reduction of works votes over a period of years	150,000	[750,000]
Reduction of clothing allowance by 10%	154,000	[770,000]
NAVY.
Saving by introduction of royal marine police at dockyards	50,000	[250,000]
ARMY.
Discontinuing subsidies for mechanical transport	20,000	[100,000]
Discontinuance of the light horse breeding scheme	30,000	[150,000]
AIR.
Abandonment of new program for research in civil aircraft	25,000	[125,000]
Total	£979,000	[$4,895,000]

There are additional recommendations for reductions of pensions in the "fighting forces", which effect enormous economies, and the adoption of which will exert a certain repercussion over the personnel affected.

Wink at New Expenditures.

Despite the crying need for economy and the lopping off of these small items by the May report, the committee made no protest over the admittedly increased expenditures for new construction by the admiralty for next year and 1933 and 1934.

It is estimated that construction will increase from £5,570,515 [$27,852,575] this year to £8,230,500 [$41,152,500] next year, £8,393,180 [$41,965,900] in 1933, and £8,532,750 [$42,663,750] in 1934.

"The reduction last year and this was made with the object of creating the desired atmosphere for the naval conference," it is naively suggested. "The curtailment of the program produced two abnormally low years in expenditure."

Warning is also uttered that these estimates include no provision for capital ships.

Desperate Struggle Revealed.

Examination of the situation reveals the desperate efforts that Britain has been forced to make to maintain her navy at its present strength and also indicates the impossibility of the government according the necessary credits for further substantially increasing its fighting forces.

Admiralty experts assert that this situation is responsible for the protracted Italo-French naval deadlock over parity, as both the Rome and Paris governments realize fully that their inability to agree cannot shatter the London treaty provisions by provoking Britain to build beyond the tentative ratio agreed on with the the United States and Japan and which would automatically nullify the treaty.

In other words, under existing conditions it is impossible for Britain to enforce her "two power standard" policy by building up to the combined strengths of the two strongest continental nations [France and Italy] and her sole solution is to induce them to reduce their aggregate strength by mutual agreement down to a position which ipso facto leaves the admiralty policy inviolate.

LEAGUE IS GOING BROKE; NATIONS FAIL TO PAY DUES

35 Countries Owe More than $4,000,000.

It's Psychological

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The economic coördinating committee of the European commission declared tonight the psychological factor dominated the economic crisis throughout the world and no single remedy was likely to bring relief from the prevailing difficulty.

The committee's declaration was made in a statement adopting recommendations which will be submitted to the commission in plenary session tomorrow.

In proposing a number of measures for improving the present condition of international commerce, industry and finance,

The committee said it was inspired by certain major guiding principles and "the first of these is that the psychological factor dominates the economic crisis affecting most nations today, and it is for the politicians, above all, to influence men's minds by spreading through the world a general feeling of confidence."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 2.—The chronic failure of some 35 countries to pay membership dues is one of the major preoccupations of the league of nations secretariat on the eve of the meeting of the league assembly, and some of the officials are wondering if they will have to declare a moratorium.

At the time of the last assembly, Aug. 31, 1930, more than $4,000,000 was owed the league by its members. This is about four times the working capital of the league and only a trifle over $1,000,000 of the sum is due for the current year, the rest representing unpaid arrears going back to 1922.

Deficit Going Up.

No later figures are available—in fact, these figures were only available recently—but it is understood that the world economic crisis has run up the deficit at an alarming rate and collections of arrears are virtually nil. An increase of between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 in uncollected assessments is given as a conservative estimate for the current year.

Several league assemblies in the past have given serious attention to this problem, and it is understood that the secretariat's report, which will be turned over to the assembly in the next two weeks, will urge energetic action against the defaulters, with a warning that a dangerous budget deficit will ensue unless something is done.

At the same time sweeping economies will be urged and league functionaries fear their salaries and fat traveling expenses may be sacrificed. An attempt probably will also be made to grapple with the problem of wasting printed matter. It is felt here that the people in some European countries is beginning to regard the league as an expensive luxury.

China Owes for 8 Years.

A good idea as to how the big powers are being soaked for the benefit of the weaker nations is obtained in the minutes of the last assembly.

China has not paid the league a cent for eight years and at the end of 1930 owed more than $1,872,000. This details the fact that every year some new commission or assistance has been granted the celestial republic.

Peru also has found the league a good meal ticket for the last eight years, paying nothing and owing $325,000 plus $49,475 for last year and an unknown assessment for this year.

Bolivia, Argentina, Cuba, Guatemala, Honduras, Liberia, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay and the Dominican Republic all have big arrears on which has been paid little or nothing.

Several big powers, though not in arrears at the beginning of 1930, had not paid the full amount of contributions at the end of the fiscal year. France owed $105,000 and Italy owed $160,000, but has subsequently paid something on account. Germany owed slightly over $195,000, and there are grave doubts that anything has been collected since.

Expenditures Are Cut.

Altogether only 64 per cent of the 1930 budget has been collected and the league's expenditures necessarily have been curtailed 36 per cent.

The minutes likewise disclose that in response to the appeal of the recent assembly for voluntary contributions, only Abyssinia, Finland, Germany and Latvia responded. A total of $30,700 was collected.

WHIP AND HOSE ARE EXHIBITS IN POLICE INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A leather whip, the handle of a sledge hammer, and a length of rubber hose, taken from the First precinct by department of justice agents investigating recent brutality charges against Washington police, were among exhibits placed before the district grand jury today as that body began taking testimony in the case of James Henry Harker.

Harker's charge that he was beaten unmercifully by policemen of the First precinct while being held as a robbery suspect precipitated the local police brutality scandal and the subsequent department of justice investigation of third degree methods here. Five other cases involving police brutality, which came to light following Harker's assertion, also will be presented to the grand jury before its adjournment.

In addition to the rubber hose and other articles taken from the First precinct, it is understood that the government will submit press photographs of Harker taken after his release which plainly show that he received a severe beating from some one either just before his arrest or during the time he was held by the police.

U. S. SOUNDS OUT FRENCH CHIEFS ON FINANCIAL PLANS

Wonders What Paris Will Do as Money Dictator.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 2.—France has arrived at a virtual financial dictatorship of Europe and the United States has just come to realize that fact and its importance to America's economic future. Therein appears to lie the significance of unexpected conversations which Ambassador Edge had with Premier Laval and Minister of Finance Flandin yesterday and today.

Ambassador Edge's visits to M. Flandin yesterday and to Premier Laval tonight have aroused much interest here, happening, as they did, coincidentally with the cabled statement to a Paris newspaper that Washington was studying the possibility of a debt revision, and also coincidentally with the publication by a New York bank of another declaration urging the necessity for cancellation of reparations and war debts.

Sounds France on Policy.

The American embassy denies that debt revision or the extension of President Hoover's moratorium had any part in Ambassador Edge's conversation. But there developed an apparently eager significance.

The embassy spokesman said Ambassador Edge was merely informing himself regarding the European financial situation, having been away from Paris on a vacation for several weeks. But it came out that Mr. Edge was seeking to learn France's intentions financially and its program at the league of nations at Geneva.

The Edge-Laval conference took on a big meaning here in view of France's new position in the European financial and political scheme, particularly since its $200,000,000 loan last week to Great Britain, with which France placed that last stumbling block to her ambitions for European hegemony definitely under political domination.

Customs Union Fades.

And tomorrow, according to news received from Geneva, Austria and Germany will renounce their customs agreement pact without waiting for the world court's decision. French financial dominance, it is admitted, particularly in Austria, forced that renunciation.

It is also rumored that France may have its own way with Italy, the latter being reported ready to abandon her claim to naval parity in order to win a badly needed loan from French coffers.

These two victories, if and when consummated, will confirm France's domination over Europe, where America has more than $40,000,000,000 invested and which is an indispensable market for American surplus production.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Fascisti "barracks" throughout Berlin were raided early this morning by the police. They failed to find any arms. The "barracks" are used as a shelter for Fascist stalwarts who can be rushed as reinforcements wherever their comrades are in trouble. The police were more successful in the raids on the homes of a number of communists. They seized a dozen rifles, a quantity of seditious literature and made some arrests.

STERLING DEFIED IN TEXAS FIGHT OVER OIL CURB

Governor Will Continue Martial Law.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The railroad commission today accepted the challenge of Gov. Ross S. Sterling that he would continue martial law in east Texas if the commission adhered to its proposed order fixing the allowable production of the oil field on a basis of 225 barrels a well daily. The commission signed its original order late today, despite the governor's stand.

Production under the board's order was estimated at 340,000 by Chairman C. V. Terrell, but operators told the governor that the field would start off with not less than 380,000 barrels daily and that production would mount to 450,000 barrels in a few days.

Gov. Sterling was informed that there were sixty-five wells, in addition to the existing 1,750 completed wells, now ready to be brought in and that other wells would be drilled at the rate of 250 a week, should the governor permit the commission's order to become effective.

C. F. Reser of Fort Worth, an independent operator, spokesman for a delegation that visited the governor today, pleaded with him to continue martial law in the field. He said if this were not done many small operators would be ruined.

"The order won't go into effect until I put it in," the governor declared.

Gov. Sterling, asked if he could not, under martial law, issue an executive order fixing an allowable production for the field, said he would have to examine into that question before he could answer.

The order is to go into effect Sept. 5 and is for a period of thirty days.

Modern Ditch Diggers Go to Work by Plane

Mishawaka, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Modern ditch diggers who fly to work are Claude Grose and Frank Lipka of Mishawaka, who are digging a drainage ditch at Baldwin Lake. Both are aviators and each owns a plane. Each day the two fly to their work.

AN OBSCURE PRIEST BRINGS MUSSOLINI AND POPE TO PEACE

ROME, Sept. 2.—(AP)—An obscure Jesuit scholar who holds the confidence of both Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius XI. is the principal peacemaker between the Catholic church and the Italian state.

He is Father Pietro Tacchi Venturi, 55, born in Rome, the man chiefly responsible for the agreement just reached on the Catholic Action controversy. For weeks Father Venturi has been going from Premier Mussolini to Pope Pius, carrying offers and counter offers, objections and acceptances of each, until the accord was chiseled out, word by word, sentence by sentence.

A simple priest without ecclesiastical rank other than that of his priesthood, Father Venturi is noted within his order as a historian. Six years ago he narrowly escaped assassination because of his position as negotiator in preliminary exchanges between il duce and the pontiff. A man entered his study in a Jesuit church and stabbed him in the neck. Father Venturi has known Mussolini personally for many years.

BUSCH ANSWERS QUERY: WHEN IS BEER RETURNING?

August A. Busch Jr., vice president and general manager of the Anheuser-Busch company, Inc., of St. Louis, arrived in Chicago last night on business and had a few words to say on prohibition. He was seen at the Blackstone hotel.

Asked if he had an idea as to when beer might be restored, he said: "If you mean when the legal, commercial and hygienic manufacture of beer will be restored, I can only say it will be when the American people get tired of the crime, corruption, racketeering, hypocrisy and enormous cost of the present situation and voice indignation at congressional and presidential elections."

Mr. Busch cited figures prepared by his father, president of the brewing company, in a recent controversy with Richard H. Scott, president of the Reo Motor Car company and head of the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation. The figures indicated that if legal beer returned 1,250,000 workers would be employed, with his own company putting on between 25,000 and 30,000; 80 million bushels of grain would be used; more than 3,000,000 tons of coal would be purchased, and $400,000,000 would be added to the government treasury in taxes annually.

Mussolini to Call on Pope.

As a symbolic ratification of the accord, it was semi-officially announced that Mussolini will request and be granted an audience with the pope some time before the end of the Fascist year, Oct. 28. He has not called on the pope since the signing of the Lateran accord.

One outstanding feature of the present agreement is the rapidity with which the quarrel has been settled after the apparent bitterness in the negotiations and acts and declarations, which in normal diplomacy would likely have led to a breach in relations.

This fact has raised a question in some minds now as to whether the obstacles and divergences between the two parties were ever as great as was represented in reports to the world outside Italy.

Accord in Three Sections.

The accord is embodied in three main paragraphs. The first paragraph deals with the matter which led to the first outburst last May, when a Fascist paper charged that the Catholic Action was harboring many members of the old Populari party, who, it was charged, were trying to set up inside the Catholic Action an organization rivaling Fascism and engaging more in politics than in religion.

This is settled in the first paragraph, which excludes adversaries of Fascism from the direction of the Catholic Action and specifically lays down the rule that it must abstain from politics and be directed by ecclesiastic authority.

The second paragraph covers Fascism's charge that the Catholic Action society was invading the syndical field and was attempting to organize the workingmen, or at least to form welfare organizations for them. It will be remembered that an outcry was raised in syndical circles last May at the pope's organization of an anniversary celebration of Pope Leo XIII.'s encyclical, "Rerum Novarum," which was a pronouncement on the relations between labor and capital, to which the present pontiff added his own encyclical, "Quadrigesimo Anno."

By the second paragraph of the accord, the church relinquishes all organizations within the Catholic Action which might have a syndical aspect and agrees that its existing organization shall conform to the labor charter of 1926 and that its activities shall respond to the principle of collaboration between the classes and to social and national ends which the state proposes to reach.

Youth Clubs Reopened.

The final paragraph reopens the Catholic youth clubs and provides that nothing must be done to conflict with the inculcation of national ideals. Thus, these associations are allowed to wear distinctive badges, but must not carry pontifical banners or any other than the national flag.

Furthermore, the practice of parish priests in some country districts of organizing athletic contests must be given up and this field left exclusively to Balilla organizations.

RUBIO REFUSES TO INTERFERE IN CHURCH ROW IN VERA CRUZ

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The federal government's announced determination not to intervene in the Vera Cruz religious controversy, which recently has led to a series of bombings and riots, was received with dismay by Catholic circles today. President Rubio in his annual address to congress yesterday said the Vera Cruz legislature acted within its rights in passing an anti-church measure and he considered federal intervention a violation of state sovereignty, which he was not willing to commit.

The Vera Cruz law limited to thirteen the number of priests allowed to perform their offices in the state and rather than comply with these restrictions the church has permitted itself to be practically eliminated from Vera Cruz.

Simultaneously with the president's announcement, a serious riot was reported in Orizaba, Vera Cruz, where several thousand Catholics demonstrated in protest against an unsuccessful attempt to burn three Orizaba churches. The demonstrators stoned the Masonic temple and a Protestant church and resisted troops. Order finally was restored and several arrests made.

SWEATER LEADS TO CAPTURE OF 'PHONE' BURGLAR

The police for six months have been hunting a mysterious "telephone" burglar wearing a blue sweater with yellow stripes. Sergt. William Lawler of the detective bureau yesterday arrested a suspect wearing a sweater of that description. The prisoner identified himself as Otto Schoenberg, 35 years old, of 6440 Ellis avenue, and said he was the "telephone" burglar.

Schoenberg's plan was to tamper with wires outside a building and then go to an apartment where he would pose as a repairman from the telephone company. While unobserved he would ransack the apartment. He said he could not remember how many places he had looted, but admitted he had worked his scheme for six months in the west and north suburbs.

He recalled robbing the homes of Louis Arotlin, 1737 Hiatt boulevard; Floyd Thompson, 1018 Randolph street, Oak Park; Martin Hobbs, 520 Manor drive, Highland Park, and Mrs. M. A. Carberry, 1035 Dempster street, Evanston. They will be called to the detective bureau to identify the burglar, the police said.

ITALY CONDEMNS BELGIAN TEACHER TO PRISON TERM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Sept. 2.—For having come to Italy as a tourist, but bringing with him a trunk with a false bottom containing anti-Fascist pamphlets and letters to anti-Fascists in Italy, Leo Moulin, 26 year old Belgian professor, will have his stay in Italy lengthened to two years.

He will spend that time in a Fascist jail, in accordance with the sentence imposed on him today by Gen. Cristini, president of Premier Mussolini's special military tribunal for defense of the state. At the expiration of his prison term Moulin will be expelled from Italy.

Moulin's lawyer pleaded for leniency on the grounds of his youth and in the name of the united royal dynasties of Italy and Belgium. He pointed out that Moulin's offense was political and that the stability of the Fascist state is not really menaced now by the activities of its enemies.

Two accomplices, both Italians, were given similar sentences.

CITY OFFICIALS FACE CONTEMPT CASE OVER CIVIL SERVICE JOBS

Mayor Cermak and representatives of nine city departments were notified yesterday to appear before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude today to answer a contempt citation growing out of the discharge of civil service employes who were replaced by temporary appointees in various city hall offices.

The action was brought by the Civil Service Laborers' league through Attorney Samuel Kart and the Chicago Civil Service Protective association, represented by Attorneys W. R. Crowe and M. G. Loeff. They assert that the injunction issued by Judge Hugo Friend restraining the former city administration from discharging civil service employes is still in force. The provisions of the order have been violated by Mayor Cermak and the other department heads, the attorneys say.

In addition to the mayor, notices were served on the corporation counsel, the city controller, the commissioner of public works, the commissioner of gas and electricity, the fire commissioner, the board of local improvements, the mechanical engineer, the harbor master, and the civil service commission.

MIDDIES FORCED OUT OF ACADEMY BY ESCAPADES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—For escapades in foreign ports four men in their final year at the Annapolis naval academy today were forced to resign.

They were: Colwell E. Beers, Keyesville, Mo.; John R. Parks, Columbia, Mo.; George R. Fink, Haddon, N. J.; and Earl S. Schweitzer of McKeesport, Pa.

Announcing acceptance of their resignation, Secretary Adams said a fifth student, whose case is under consideration, may be asked to resign. He added that several other midshipmen had been involved but escaped with less severe punishment.

"Unfortunate behavior" was given by the secretary as the reason for the enforced resignations. It was reported this consisted in part of engaging Copenhagen's police in a fistic battle.

GERMAN FLYERS FETED IN WORLD FAIR BUILDING

Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau and the seven youthful members of his crew, who hoped a new air trail from Germany to Chicago over the north Atlantic and the icy wastes of Greenland, arriving in their seaplane, Gronland Wal, late Tuesday, were made welcome by Chicago yesterday.

After meeting Mayor Cermak and being greeted for the second time by Chicago Greeter George D. Gaw, the flyers left the city hall at noon and were escorted to the Century of Progress administration building, where the officials of the 1933 World's Fair were their hosts at luncheon in the mayor's room.

Co-Pilot Chats in German.

At the head of the long table Captain S. Peterson, presiding, chatted with the lean, smiling Capt. Von Gronau. At the other end of the table Alfred Zimmer, co-pilot of the Gronland Wal, who is in his early twenties and looks more like a blond German schoolboy than a skilled aviator, spoke shyly in German with prominent Chicagoans of German descent.

Across from Zimmer sat Franz Fick, the mechanic who when the engines of the Gronland Wal broke down in the sea off Godthaab Greenland, repaired them with the tools he had with them. Later when the flyers and the flyers were photographed together, Franz stood as far in the background as possible and hung his head.

Fritz Albrecht, radio operator, who had three radios to manipulate on the seaplane, also conversed in German. Although he knows "school English," can read and write and understand English in code, he has difficulty in speaking English, it was said.

Mayor Welcomes Flyers.

Mayor Cermak welcomed the flyers, saying: "We hope to have you with us oftener from now on." Werner Schueller, German consul, and Ernest J. Kruetgen, chairman of the German committee of the World's fair foreign nationalities group, also spoke.

"Like your World's Fair," said Capt. von Gronau, in reply," we pilots are working for progress, and want to see progress to all the world. It was not a mere chance that we came to Chicago. We saw last year that it was a most wonderful city, even much more beautiful than New York because of its position on the lake and its tall buildings."

He closed by expressing the wish that he and his crew might return to Chicago by plane for the World's Fair. They were then taken for a tour of the administration building, evincing great interest in the studio where the lighting effects which will be employed at the World's Fair are being tried out. They will be guests of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker at a 12:45 o'clock luncheon today in the Tavern club. The flyers plan to remain about a week in Chicago.

CLEARED

EDWINA BOOTH.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Edwina Booth, blond heroine of the moving picture, "Trader Horn," did not alienate affections of Duncan Renaldo, the picture's leading man, while the pair were filming the romance under Africa's burning sun, according to Superior Judge Carl Stutsman's finding today. Judge Stutsman ruled for the defendant in a suit filed by Mrs. Suzette Renaldo, the actor's ex-wife, demanding $50,000 damages for asserted alienations of affections.

Mrs. Renaldo did not appear, her attorney saying she was in New York. Judge Stutsman denied the attorney's plea to continue the case.

Miss Booth testified she did not make love to Renaldo, as charged, and stated she did not know Renaldo was married at the time they worked on location in Africa. She denied Mrs. Renaldo's charge that she induced Renaldo to file a divorce action against his wife.

Program Called Off by Bad Weather.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Heavy rain last night and this morning caused the postponement of today's session of the national air races until tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock because of a very muddy airport and the 412 aircraft registered at the field remained grounded, except for the Curtiss fledgling to be flown by Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherley of Great Britain.

R. L. R. ATCHERLEY

Flight Commander Atcherley, who was slightly injured last Friday before the opening of the races when his Blackburn Lincock pursuit plane was wrecked by a broken landing gear, took off beneath a sullen sky and low clouds for the first time since his accident "to get the feel of the plane" and gave a remarkable show of his own brand of crazy flying—the same type of flying with which he amused crowds at Chicago's air races last year. He has attached a siren to the exhaust, making the act more amusing than ever.

Navy Flying Boats Delayed.

Four of twelve naval patrol boats flying from Norfolk, Va., to the races have been forced down between Buffalo and Cleveland, but are expected in by tomorrow afternoon. Word has been received the Akron, great dirigible just finished for the navy, will not be able to visit the races because of necessary adjustments and tests, and the DO-X has also abandoned the trip.

Maj. Reed G. Landis, Chicago world war flyer, chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission, today was elected vice president of the new National Association of State Aviation Officials, which is intended to bring about aviation coöperation between states. Frank M. McKee, director of aeronautics in Ohio, was elected president and H. C. Bennett, New York, secretary and treasurer.

Weather Delays Race Planes.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Reports of adverse weather between here and Cleveland tonight caused a second postponement of the takeoff of eight of the nation's fastest racing planes on a $15,000 dash to the national air races.

The eight pilots agreed to wait another day after a meeting with R. W. Cantwell, chairman of the contest. The contestants are Art Goebel, Maj. Jimmy Doolittle, Capt. Ira Eaker, Walter Hunter, Lou Reichers, Harold S. Johnson, Beeler Blevins, and James G. Hall.

LEGION CHIEF

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The grand jury handed up this afternoon a blanket indictment against the four white men and the Negro woman who kidnaped Charles M. Rosenthal, the young Wall street broker, and held him a prisoner until a ransom of $50,000 was paid by his family.

Rosenthal, before going before the grand jury as a witness, denied the story that he had won $50,000 from his two guards while he was held a prisoner for sixteen days. As a matter of fact, he said, he lost $30 in cash, all the money he had when he was kidnaped, in a few games of cards.

He said he was loosely handcuffed during his imprisonment, when he slept he was tied to a bed. On one occasion when he made an involuntary movement, which was construed as an attempt to escape, his captors drew pistols and threatened to shoot him.

The prisoners are Nicholas Rutigliano, alias Nick Green, proprietor of the Hotel Vendig, in West 47th street; Marcus Blumenthal, alias Jack Markham; Theodore Adinolfi, Jack Rocco, and Betty Green, said to be a Negro woman, who acted as the decoy.

Miss Green admitted participating in the kidnaping without having been aware that it was a kidnaping. She said she dined with Rosenthal and then took him to a house in Hamilton terrace at the behest of Blumenthal, who, she said, had told her he had a group of friends who wanted to meet the broker.

She said she introduced Rosenthal to Blumenthal after Blumenthal had pulled up to the curb in a motor car with his companions, neither of whom she knew. After the introduction, she was quoted as saying, Rosenthal and the men disappeared in the automobile.

No one was with him at the time, but it was assumed he was cleaning an automatic pistol and it was discharged accidentally. Young Haggin, a noted horseman, was fast gaining a reputation as a polo player.

SCHOOL BOARD TO BE HEARD BY REVENUE BODY

Will Meet Commission at Dinner Tonight.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The school trustees, who have asked a hearing before Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission, are to be given that opportunity tonight.

The commission has indicated it believes there is a needless expenditure of millions of school funds. It has produced expert witnesses who have testified to an estimated waste of $500,000 on one school building. President Lewis E. Myers of the school board has been told by the commission that school expenses should be cut.

School Trustee Robert F. Carr has suggested that the grand jury investigate the cost of school buildings. He has said that "the board has a reputation of such a character that the public has no confidence in it."

Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, another trustee, has charged that the board has paid exorbitant prices for building materials.

Raps Governor's Commission.

In criticism of the governor's commission, School Trustee Joseph P. Savage has several times asserted that the commission has been given misinformation. He has criticized the commission on the ground that "it has given the public the impression that the school board is squandering the taxpayers' money." He has referred to the hearings of the commission as "burlesques."

Trustee James A. Hemingway, chairman of the board's finance committee, has used the words "brow-beating," and "bulldozing" in describing the commission hearings which he has termed as "big business dipping into the garbage can for material." He has declared there is "not a man on the commission with sufficient ideas to prepare legislation."

The school board, in its appeal for a hearing, said that it desired to submit "its plans, suggestions and recommendations relative to legislation so that the board can perform its statutory functions." These have not been printed in the board's proceedings nor thoroughly discussed at a public meeting of the board.

$50,000,000 Bonds Proposed.

The last big deal which the board proposed was to obtain the power from the last session of the legislature to issue $50,000,000 in bonds with which to build new schools and buy added sites. Mayor Cermak, who proclaimed some time ago that the school board needed a house cleaning, intimated that the real purpose of this bond issue was to obtain cash from bonds to borrow for the operation of the schools for the remainder of the year.

The board owes, probably, more than $11,000,000 in overdue salaries to teachers, janitors and engineers, and payments to contractors doing school construction and repairs. The board has been unable to sell tax anticipation warrants. The schools will open next Tuesday with no cash on hand.

To Meet at Dinner.

A dinner at the Union League club, at which the members of the governor's commission and the school trustees will meet, is to precede the hearing tonight at which the school trustees will present their case. Two members of the governor's commission said yesterday that they were interested in any plan the school board might suggest for restoring its temporary credit, as they were eager to have the teachers and janitors get their salaries, some of which has been due since last April.

These two members said that the savings ordered by the board are insufficient and therefore unsatisfactory. These savings were represented by the board to be in excess of $2,000,000, but no supporting figures confirming that total have been made public.

COMMITTEE O. K.'S BIDS ON $300,000 COAL FOR SCHOOLS

Low bids for supplying the public schools with coal for the remainder of the year were approved by the school board committee on purchases yesterday. In one case approval was withheld pending a test of the coal. It is expected that the contracts will be let at the next meeting of the school board on Sept. 9. The bids call for a total of 74,625 tons of coal at an aggregate price of about $300,000.

The following is a list of the approved bids: For lump or egg coal: L. T. Huston company, 5,425 tons; Excelsior Coal company, 5,825 tons; Beverly Fuel company, 6,200 tons; Silver Creek Coal company, 7,500 tons; Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, 5,650 tons. For No. 4 nut coal: The Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, 1,500 tons; for screenings, the Consumers company, 19,975 tons.

The bid of the Consumers company for 15,400 tons of No. 3 nut coal was deferred pending a heat test of the coal. The average price for lump coal was $3.95 a ton; for No. 4 nut, $3.65; for screenings, $3.55, and for No. 3 nut, $3.50. The Wisconsin Lime and Cement, Consumers, and Excelsior offer southern Illinois coal.

WIFE DEMANDS ACCOUNTING BY ATTY. MALATO

Mrs. Dora Malato filed a bill for an accounting yesterday in the Superior court against her husband, Stephen A. Malato, former assistant state's attorney and one of the nine lawyers whom Judge Thomas Taylor recently recommended for disbarment for their sanitary district pay roll activities.

The Malatos have been separated since 1921, and the wife charges that her husband has failed to live up to the terms of a separation agreement entered into at that time.

Her bill sets forth that Malato owns property worth $350,000, in which she claims a $135,000 equity. He owes her $10,000, and in addition is in arrears on the payments of $225 a month which he agreed to make for her support, she alleges.

FRANK KALTEUX, WARD LEADER, GETS STATE JOB

Gov. L. L. Emerson yesterday appointed Frank M. Kalteux, Republican committeeman from the 39th ward, as secretary and chief clerk of the Chicago office of the state waterways division under Ben H. Miller, superintendent of construction.

Politically Kalteux is considered a protege of Eden T. Brekke, a member of the West park board and committeeman from the Thirty-seventh ward. In general they have been lined up with the Barrett group on the west side.

It was reported that about two years ago Kalteux had been promised the secretaryship of the state athletic commission. He has been active in promoting amateur outdoor sports, particularly skating. He is the fifth committeeman to receive an appointment from Gov. Emmerson in the last ten days. Other committeemen said to be slated for jobs are Elmer A. Brown, 10th; Paul W. Rothenberg, 24th; Thomas Brockmeyer, 24th, and John McKeone, 40th. Their appointment would make a total of twelve committeemen on the state pay roll.

CITIES OPPOSE STATE BOARD TO RULE FINANCES

Mayors and representatives of more than twenty Illinois cities at a meeting of the Illinois Municipal league in the Hotel Sherman last night, expressed opposition to any extension of state control over municipalities. Mayor John Coleman of Mount Carmel, president of the league, presided. Clyde M. Reed, former governor of Kansas, was a guest.

Acting on information that a movement is afoot to create a state board for the control of municipal expenditures, the league adopted a resolution to be presented to Gov. Emmerson expressing the unanimous opposition of its membership.

Among the speakers were Mayors C. H. Bartlett of Evanston, Homer L. Ahrends of Peoria, J. H. Hallstrom of Rockford, Frank Doyle of East St. Louis, and Frank Novotny of Berwyn. The meeting was in preparation for the annual convention of the league to be held in Waukegan Oct. 22 and 23.

Lawyers Favor Juries of Six in Municipal Court

Ninety-nine out of every hundred lawyers in Chicago favor the use of juries of six instead of juries of twelve in the municipal jury court. This was the finding based on several thousand replies received at the office of Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the municipal court, who sent a letter to every attorney in the city asking his opinion upon the suggested use of small juries. The change was sought as a means of reducing the expense of the court, Judge Sonsteby explained in his letter. The annual appropriation for jurors for the court amounts to $150,000, he said.

FIGHT FOR FUNDS IS RENEWED BY TWO TAX BODIES

Board Will Hear Pleas Today.

The board of review and the board of assessors yesterday determined to make fresh attempts at the meeting of the county board today to get the $16,000 appropriations which were vetoed by President Emmett Whealan of the county commissioners on Monday. The decisions were reached after separate sessions which were almost equally tumultuous.

Andrew W. Gatenbey, chief clerk of the reviewers, presented a formal letter of a meeting of the county finance committee asking that the veto and appropriation of $58,500 for the reviewers be reconsidered. He explained that the money was for extra help without which the board could not extend the 1931 tax books.

"We've got absolutely no money," was President Whealan's comment on this request. "We cannot borrow money from one department of the county for another. The only thing that is left is to borrow clerks."

Help Might Be Transferred.

He explained that men from the office of County Recorder Clayton Smith and girls in the tax machine division of the department of public service might be placed in the reviewers' offices.

Those employes, he said, are familiar with real estate tax matters and consequently could immediately take over the work.

Commissioner Mrs. Edward J. Fleming spoke up.

"Hiring of clerks is a moral menace of the law," she said. "It would be better, I think, to come out in the open and transfer funds between departments."

"Nevertheless," interjected Commissioner Peter Kelly, "it would be a way of saving money and that's what we are after right now."

"This would nullify the state law which causes us to hesitate to transfer funds from one department to another," Mrs. Glenn Plumb stated.

Jacobs Backs Veto.

A moment later another clash occurred when J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency expert, in expressing his approval of the suggested plan, declared that President Whealan's veto was good.

Mrs. Fleming sprang to her feet. "We didn't ask you for your opinion," she cried. "You are supposed to be an impersonal machine to merely present the facts."

President Whealan made soothing remarks and the committee decided to call a meeting of the department heads to work out a plan for borrowing a number of men and women for the assessors.

Urge Money for Assessors.

Meanwhile the assessors were meeting with Charles M. Bates of the Chicago Real Estate board and Henry Rohrs, representative of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers. They agreed to go before the commissioners to urge a reconsideration of the vetoed $115,000 appropriation for the assessors today.

If the plea is unsuccessful, the assessors have another scheme, John E. Conroy, secretary of the body, said. Under the law, he declared, the board of review is the only body which can authorize the number of employes to be hired by the assessors.

If the county board is obdurate, he asserted, the assessors will obtain the approval of the board of review and proceed to hire the men necessary for the work. When the pay roll is refused by the county board, mandamus proceedings will be instituted to force the payment.

BONDED, BOUND IN OFFICE.

Anthony Antenoseo, 7845 South Winchester avenue, head of the Antenoseo Motor Sales company, was robbed on Tuesday night of $50 and two diamond rings valued at $3,000, it was reported to police. Three bandits who bound him in a chair in the office of his company at 6718 South Western avenue. Unable to loosen his bonds, Antenoseo spent the night in his office.

Alimony at Stake

Mrs. Dewey Evelyn Meyer.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude today will determine the marital status of Mrs. Dewey Evelyn Meyer, third wife of Hugo Meyer, president of the Motorists' Association of Illinois. Meyer is attacking the validity of their marriage in a fight against alimony payments of $75 a week. They were married at Reno, where Mrs. Meyer had obtained a divorce a few days after Meyer had divorced his second wife in Chicago. On the train while returning here they disagreed and Mrs. Meyer left him, later filing suit for divorce. Meyer who already is paying alimony estimated at $1,500 a month to his former spouses, charges that Mrs. Meyer's Reno divorce from her first husband was illegal.

I'm a Tough Guy, see! I said I'd kick out any pair of Sears "Tough Guy" shoes—but they've got me licked, and they said they'd lick any tough guy. Gang—we can't let 'em get away with it— Let's Get 'Em!

What'll I Do, Gang?"

Rover G-R-O-W-L-E-D: "Let me at those shoes—I'll tear them to pieces. G-R-O-W-L!" Little does the purp realize how tough these shoes are—they're of solid leather—strongly sewed—reinforced where-ever wear is hardest. Shoes built for Tough Guys. Well—the purp, seeing he has no use for shoes, might chew them up a bit at that!

"Sparky" said: "Listen, Tough Guy, betcha if you use my scooter for a couple o' days, those shoes will be all in!" Sparky doesn't know that these shoes have Korry Krome Bend leather soles (tough on wear)—Goodyear welted to keep their shape—solid leather heel bases and high quality rubber heels. Takes more than a ride on a scooter to lick these shoes!

Frankie, "Curly" had fire in his eye when he said: "Hitch on a truck and skid over asphalt and cobblestone streets—that'll knock 'em out!" Well, for one thing—the soles will never get hot (as some do in even ordinary wear). The full grain thick leather insoles—and a layer of oiled insulators—then the Korry Krome soles—make more than half inch of wear resisting bottoms. More than half of the inside of the shoes are lined with Leather—chrome tanned leather. This is why "Tough Guy" shoes can lick any Tough Guy.

"Aw, let those shoes alone," came from Eddie, "Spunky." "I wish I had 'em—I wouldn't treat 'em rough—I'd take care of 'em." Yes—a shine once in a while will keep these shoes looking new, wearing as long and as comfortable as they do with the roughest kind of treatment—you can imagine what they'd do under just ordinary wearing treatment.

"Hank," the big fellow, said: "Listen, Tough Guy, you need more weight in this battle—why don't you eat everything your mother tells you to—then you could pound heavy on those shoes—and the weight would flatten 'em sure." But "Hank" will find out that these are just the shoes he should wear—they won't flatten nor will they flatten his feet. They're built to support active feet. Footform lasts with fine Kip side leather tops—genuine Goodyear welt construction and guaranteed counters. The uppers, inseam, and Goodyear stitching are all sewed with the best thread obtainable. Weight makes no difference to "Tough Guy" Shoes.

"I know what to do," said "Slim," "let's start football practice. Kicking the ball—tearing around ends—bucking through the line—will put those shoes in a tough spot—who's got the football?" . . . and so on—etc., etc., etc.—trying to wear down Sears "Tough Guy" Shoes.

What makes the Tough Guy so tough? It's the way Ma and Pa are making over these shoes, and because the Tough Guy has to change his song. Now he can only say—"Betcha I can kick out—ALMOST—any pair of shoes in a week." And Betcha Tough Guy's next pair of shoes will be another pair of Sears "Tough Guy" Shoes—at 2.98.

FARMERS SHOWN USE OF SPRAYS TO KILL WEEDS

Chemical Demonstration Seen by Hundred.

Demonstrations of the use of chlorate sprays to kill the noxious Canadian thistle were made yesterday in patches of the weeds on the Palos park portion of the Cook county forest preserve district. More than 100 farmers, Cook county farm bureau representatives and members of the state department of agriculture were present.

Before the state's equipment was driven out into a field, talks on the effectiveness of various methods of thistle and other weed control were given by O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm advisor, and Philip Haner and Lane Johnson, of the seed inspection department of the Illinois state department of agriculture. The latter is in charge of work at Camp Grant, near Rockford, where 700 acres of the thistles are being treated in experimental and wholesale patches.

No Danger to Operator.

The farmers questioned the speakers on the dangers associated with the use of the sodium chlorate and calcium chlorate. They were told that if hip boots were worn and washed each night as well as other clothing worn during spraying the weeds, there was no danger to the operator. One pound of the sodium chlorate in a gallon of water is considered sufficient for the treatment of a square rod.

Quack grass and "Johnson" grass also can be killed with the same chemicals. According to Johnson, the thistles should not be disturbed for 90 days prior to or six months following application of the spray, which is applied at a pressure of 300 pounds.

Many Acres Overrun.

It is estimated that 32,000 acres are overrun with the thistles in Will county alone, also thousands of acres in Cook and other counties.

Although it might take $12 to $25 an acre for full treatment, this is cheap reclamation, according to Johnson. J. H. Carmean, state seed inspector, assisted in the demonstration which will be duplicated again today at 2 p. m. just east of the Des Plaines river at Ballard road and Dempster street.

BRING CONVICT BACK FOR TRIAL ON TAX CHARGE

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—George Graham Rice, internationally known stock racketeer, was brought back from Atlanta today to stand trial for not paying income tax on the proceeds of his promotion schemes to the government.

Rice is serving four years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for using the mails to defraud in connection with sale of Idaho Copper company stock and in promotion of the Wall Street Iconoclast, a publication he used to boost the value of Idaho Copper stock.

He will go on trial next week for defrauding the government of income tax due in 1925 when he is alleged to have had an income of more than $2,000,000, on which a tax of approximately $400,000 should have been paid.

SON OF BROKER DIES; 4TH VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH

Chicago Youth Held in Wisconsin Accident.

William Marsh, 17 years old, 5620 Woodlawn avenue, son of John P. Marsh, an investment broker, died at the St. Elizabeth hospital in Appleton, Wis., yesterday, the fourth victim of an automobile accident on the highway near there Tuesday afternoon.

Alice Zern, 9 years old, of Marshfield, Wis., died at the hospital a few hours after the collision of two cars in which her mother, Mrs. Louis Zern, and Mrs. Albert Matthes of Appleton were instantly killed.

Chicago Youth Is Held.

Seaborn Whatley, 17 years old, 329 Lake Shore drive, son of S. T. Whatley, general agent for the Aetna Life Insurance company, is held by the authorities. He was driving the car in which Marsh and Sheldon White, 17 years old, of the Moraine hotel, Highland Park, were bound for the latter's parents' summer home. Neither White nor Whatley were seriously hurt. Matthes and the 14 year old son of Mrs. Zern, riding in the automobile with the woman, escaped injury.

Emmett O'Donnell, 40 years old, of Chicago, was instantly killed at Baltimore, Md., yesterday when his automobile crashed head-on into a heavy motor truck. O'Donnell was employed in the testing laboratory at the Aberdeen proving grounds.

Three deaths in Cook county yesterday brought the year's total to 801. The victims:

Florence Gerhl, 16 years old, of Decatur, Ill., died at the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, a few hours after the automobile in which she was riding with her father, Henry, crashed into a motor truck at Waukegan and Dempster roads. John Egan, 2541 Leland avenue, driver of the truck, was held.

Mrs. Mary Wagner, 66 years old, 3237 Herndon avenue. Died at the Swedish Covenant hospital from injuries sustained Aug. 28 when an automobile in which she was riding ran into a ditch in Morton Grove.

SPAIN JAILS AIDS OF GEN. DE RIVERA FORMER DICTATOR

MADRID, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Members of the formerly powerful group that formed Gen. Primo de Rivera's military directorate in 1923 were arrested early today.

The prisoners, including eleven former ministers, admirals, and generals, were confined in the Madrid military prison. They will be held until the republican government decides what disposition shall be made of the leaders accused of responsibility for the dictatorship.

The arrests were ordered by the parliamentary committee investigating "responsibilities" for all past governmental derelictions, including those of the monarchy and of the Primo de Rivera and Berenguer régimes. Meanwhile, Former Premier Berenguer remains in the Alcazar prison at Segovia with no announcement as to when he may be tried for his methods in suppressing the republican movement.

NEW ISO-VIS TEST TOUR

AAA REPORT

certifies to excellent lubrication by New Iso-Vis in Chevrolet

1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.

2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, all parts of engine and chassis were lubricated effectively.

3 Consumption: Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 m. p. h.—only 1 quart. At higher speeds, all oils showed greatly increased consumption.

4 Carbon: only 4.4 grams per cylinder at 30 miles per hour, using Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy).

DON'T miss seeing this "laboratory car." It will be at your Chevrolet dealer. What a demonstration of the effectiveness of New Iso-Vis this Chevrolet has given.

Its engine is still in fine condition, after ripping off a year's average mileage on the Indianapolis Speedway in a little more than 3 weeks. It was used there in a series of day and night tests during the lubrication study conducted by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association. Now the 13 cars are individually high spotting through the middle-west, gathering more data on the road. See this Chevrolet today.

Further proof of the excellent lubrication given by New Iso-Vis is shown in the A. A. A. report. Try this tested motor oil yourself. You'll find it worth while to change to New Iso-Vis—the only motor oil that will not thin out from dilution.

SEE CUT IN RAIL LINES' TRAFFIC IF RATES INCREASE

Shippers Predict Use of Trucks and Boats.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Two major questions emerge from the mass of testimony and exhibits being put in daily before the interstate commerce commission hearings at the Hotel Sherman on the application of the railroad executives for a 15 per cent horizontal increase in freight rates.

The first is as to the public policy of imposing such a new burden on industry in a time of depression. Never before, in bad times, have the railroads asked for an increase.

The second question, which assumed new importance through the testimony yesterday, is whether the rate increase would actually produce a substantial new revenue for the roads. The railroad presidents believe that it would, but the testimony of many shippers is that it would divert so much business from the roads, through competitive traffic and decentralization of industry, that they would lose business.

Seek Repeal of Rate Clause.

One result of the proceedings is a new agitation from farm bureau sources for the repeal of section 15-A of the transportation act which gives railroads the theoretical right to rates which will produce an income of 5½ per cent on their investment.

Farm representatives who will be heard tomorrow will argue that the time has come in the life of agriculture when no more earnings should be guaranteed for other industries by the government unless agriculture also has some assurance that it can continue to operate with some justifiable return. While one arm of the government, the farm board, is trying to lift agriculture out of depression, another branch, the commerce commission, is being asked to push it down, they contend.

The carriers have virtually finished their testimony and have shown that they need increased revenue to keep their credit sound. Shippers and public service experts from the western states began yesterday to present their case. From the same reservoir of statistics that the railroads had the opponents of the rate increase showed that the carriers are in a generally better position than they were ten years ago.

Corporation Incomes Cited.

It was shown by an exhibit prepared by the late J. W. Scott of Kansas that the net income of 113 industrial corporations, forming a cross section of business, declined 59.6 per cent in 1930, compared with their 1929 incomes, while the class one railroads declined 88.60 per cent for the same period. While corporation dividends in 1930 were 93.6 per cent of 1929, the railroad dividends were 104.42 per cent.

In the matter of water competition, the statistics for the Mississippi-Warrior federal barge service show a decline in business of about 30 per cent from the peak of 1928. The same is true of eastbound freight traffic in the Panama canal. The argument is that all business has suffered and that the railroads are faring as well as, or better, than most industries.

"The railroads, having increased their operating revenues from year to year over a period of ten years, might reasonably be expected to weather a storm," said I. C. Peterson, statistician of the Kansas public service commission.

Turn to Water Routes.

A concrete example of the possible effect of the rate increase on revenue was given by W. J. Mathey, traffic manager of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. He had gathered statistics from 263 newspapers as to their methods of transporting newsprint. These showed that in 1926 only 15 per cent of this commodity was moved by water, while in 1931 the proportion had increased to 26 per cent.

Mr. Mathey said the total increase probably was greater than this, as he did not have complete figures. He showed that in Chicago the 1926 receipts by water were 34,044 tons, and in 1931 the receipts were estimated at 110,820 tons. In New York City the increase has been from 83,660 tons to 131,192 tons for this same period.

He was asked if it would be possible to supply the entire requirements of his listed cities by water. He said it would be possible and that any increase in rates would have a serious effect on rail movement of newsprint.

Mr. Mathey said there had been a decrease of 8.4 per cent in the use of paper in 1931 compared with 1930. He figured that if 325,000 tons were diverted to water that it would wipe out the increase under the proposed new rate, and it was his opinion that a 15 per cent increase in rates would divert at least 325,000 tons to water and truck transportation. It might amount to much more, he said. He said that the publishers were not opposing the increase if it was found justified.

Sees Decentralizing of Industry.

Attorney Leo Golden, representing shippers, told the commission that the proposed increase would drive the manufacturers to district plants in order to reduce their transportation problem to a local one which could be met by trucks. This same suggestion was found in the newsprint industry, where it was said that an increase in rail rates would cause the building of new warehouses and the diversion of the entire movement to water.

Mr. Golden suggested a new way for the railroads to recover credit. He proposed that the government cancel what the railroads may owe under the recapture clause of the transportation act. Under this clause the government may collect one-half of a railroads earnings above 6 per cent of its property valuation.

"It is safe to say that this amount is in excess of the $500,000,000 increase in revenue under the 15 per cent rate increase proposal," said Mr. Golden. "A cancellation of the indebtedness would more effectively meet the need for restoring confidence of investors than would the 15 per cent increase."

The Colorado and Kentucky railroad commissions and the paper board manufacturers appeared to oppose the increase. J. B. C. Dutz of the Illinois Live Stock Shippers' association said that organization was opposed to the increase, as the bankers would no longer loan money to farmers for the purpose of buying live stock.

P. F. Hansen, professor of economics in the University of Minnesota, testifying for the western states railroad commissioners, said that the only way for the railroads to overcome their present difficulties is through the lowering of operation costs. He pointed out that in his manner competitive industries were readjusting themselves and predicted that out of these industries, which are reducing costs, will come a revival of prosperity.

It was announced at the offices of the interstate commerce commission in Washington yesterday that oral arguments on the proposed rate increase would begin there on Sept. 21.

Pilot and Passenger Are Killed in Plane Accident

Barrett, Minn., Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Val Lund, 26, licensed Sioux City air pilot, and Elmer Hjelle, 45, contractor at Barrett, Minn., were killed in a plane crash at Barrett today. Lund had flown to Barrett, his old home, and was taking Hjelle for a ride.

LAST BREWERY OF DRUGGAN-LAKE IS SOLD AT AUCTION

The Hofmann Products company property at 2806 West Monroe street, last of the huge breweries operated by Druggan and Lake, was sold at auction yesterday by United States Marshal Laubenheimer to George Hofmann, the former owner, for $105,908. Hofmann, who sold the building to Richard Phillips, reputed emissary of Druggan and Lake, in 1928, was the only bidder.

The auction was a result of Hofmann's efforts to collect $109,908 on a mortgage given by Phillips. Because the property sold for less than the judgment, the government was unable to collect $47,686, a secondary lien on the property, representing principal and interest on corporation income taxes owed by Phillips. The auction was witnessed only by Assistant U. S. District Attorney John Potts Barnes and two passersby.

DRY WHO USED GIRL DECOY IS REPRIMANDED

Agent Will Be Returned to Buffalo Post.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—A reprimand was the punishment administered today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock to Ralph Dell, Buffalo dry agent, who used a 19 year old girl to do the drinking for him.

A. W. W. WOODCOCK

Dell and the girl visited four speakeasies, the girl drinking in two of them. On their way home Dell's car collided with another. The girl was arrested for drunkenness. Dell was not held.

He denied that he had done any drinking. Later, however, he was arrested for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. The case is still pending.

Dell will be returned to his duties in Buffalo, Col. Woodcock announced. Dell was summoned to Washington and pleaded his case with the director. At the conclusion of the conference, Col. Woodcock said that he deplored the use of women in collecting evidence, but he explained that he believed Dell's superiors, including himself, to be basically to blame for having permitted such a practice to continue.

The employment of women by dry agents was not stopped by official order until a week ago.

According to the story told Col. Woodcock, Dell's companion had gone to the agent in charge at Buffalo and offered her services in enforcing the prohibition law, saying that her brother had died of alcoholism.

Director Woodcock also passed on the case of another Buffalo agent, Arthur Peach. Peach, who was charged with drinking not in line of duty, was dismissed for the good of the service.

SUIT ASKS THAT ROAD WAGE LAW BE OVERTHROWN

Unconstitutional, Charge in Test Case.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A suit was filed in the Sangamon county Circuit court here today attacking the validity of the prevailing wage act, which has tied up $10,000,000 worth of highway construction, employment directly and indirectly for 15,000 men. The pleading contends that the statute enacted by the recent general assembly is a violation of the United States constitution and the public policy of Illinois.

The litigation is brought in the name of Harry A. Mayhew as a taxpayer of Illinois. He was formerly a furniture merchant in Springfield. His attorney, A. M. Fitzgerald, declined to say whether the cost of the court fight is being paid by some of the civic and commercial organizations opposed to the wage act. The defendants are Gov. Emmerson and other state officials.

Asks Injunction Halting Contract.

The petition asks for an injunction to restrain the state officials from awarding a contract under the provisions of the prevailing wage act for the paving of seven miles of route 157 in Madison county. On this project, not far from East St. Louis, the administration in its advertisements specified wage rates similar to the union scale, 75 cents an hour for common labor and teamsters, and $1.50 an hour for carpenters, mechanics and machine operators. This rate is twice as high as the scale fixed by the state in its advertisements for paving in "nearby agricultural districts where labor is unorganized.

The pleading contends that the prevailing wage act, by means of which union officials are trying to establish the union scale on road work throughout the state, violates the federal constitution by depriving persons "of their right to labor, which is that property." It prevents a person from selling his services at his own price, it is pointed out.

Charges Class Legislation.

The petition, continuing, alleges that the taxpayer plaintiff would be deprived of his property interest in the state highway funds if exorbitant wages are to be paid for road construction. A further allegation is that the statute violates the constitution in that it is class legislation, bolstering the wages on public construction and not on private jobs. It is also contended that the wage act violates the constitution by restricting the right to contract freely.

Other allegations in the petition are that the taxpayers, with an unreasonable increase in the cost of construction, would be deprived of a fair return on the taxes paid for public improvements and that the increased cost would decrease the volume of construction and the number of men employed proportionately. It is also contended that the act designates unconstitutional powers to the officials required to fix the minimum wage rates.

The prevailing wage act, house bill 307, was sponsored by a group of union officials and a group of paving contractors who had attacked the state administration for falling wages on road construction since the boom broke two years ago.

The law provides that contractors on public construction shall pay wages not lower than the scale prevailing for similar work in the community of the projects. R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and a group of associates contend that the union scale should be accepted as the prevailing rate, notwithstanding the fact that the union rate has never been paid on state paving outside of the metropolitan counties.

Law Brings Long Delays.

House bill 307, signed by Gov. Emmerson, also sets up that any ten taxpayers can protest against the rates fixed by the highway department, that the protest shall be heard by an arbitration board and can be appealed to the courts, indefinitely delaying award of contracts. Mr. Soderstrom and his associates are prosecuting a protest against rates everywhere outside of Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties and taxpayers in Little Egypt have filed a protest against the union scale adopted by the state for the Chicago district.

"The wage act has a decided red tinge," said Attorney Fitzgerald, who is a prominent member of the Illinois bar. "Communists used their subtle influences in securing its passage.

A second attack on the constitutionality of the law, involving one section of the act, was also filed in the Circuit court today by Attorney General Carlstrom answering quo warranto proceedings brought against the wage arbitration board by members of the Illinois Association of Highway and Municipal Contractors.

The contractors' association in its suit, protests against the members of the board as appointed by Gov. Emmerson, contending that there is no member on the board representing the contractors' association as intended by the law. The wage act sets up that the governor shall name the three members of the board from names submitted to him by organized labor, by contractors, and by the department of public works.

Say Limitation Is Involved.

The governor appointed George Cettens of West Chicago from the lists submitted by the unions and named Ray Wantz of Rockford and H. W. Hartman of Peoria from the department's recommendations, and did not name any one of the list submitted by the contractors' association.

Attorney General Carlstrom in the answer to the quo warranto sets up that the section of the law requiring a governor to select the board members from a list of names submitted to him is unconstitutional because "in the appointment of state officers the governor cannot be restricted nor prevented from exercising his discretion."

In the meantime the arbitration board, appointed by Gov. Emmerson, was hearing further evidence today at the beginning of the third week of existence. M. J. Fleming, district engineer for the state highway department; with headquarters in Ottawa, testified that investigation among the private industries in his district indicates that the state was justified in adopting 35 cents as the rate for common labor and 55 cents for skilled labor. The union scale in this territory is 75 cents for common and $1 to $1.25 for skilled.

$4,888 Insurance Is Paid for County's Lost Radium

A check for $4,888.10 was in the mail yesterday from the Chicago offices of the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company of New York, to the Cook county hospital to cover the loss of seven needles of radium, which disappeared a month ago after they had been used in a cancer treatment. An official of the insurance company said that no trace of the radium had been found.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DEFENSE OF AMERICAN PRIVATE ENTERPRISE.

Protest against the increasing powers of government and its multiplying invasions of private enterprise and private conduct has grown in recent years. Not only leaders in American affairs but even parties and organizations have given voice to it. But thus far it has had little effect upon the tendency—for reasons which are not far to seek. Party pronouncements have been taken in the Pickwickian sense and individual warning has escaped into the thin air. But, happily, we are now entering a stage which promises objective results—the stage of organized protest. Without agencies capable of bringing actual political pressure, the most general and indignant opinion breaks up in collision with political indifference and self-interest. It is only when it is organized and can be translated into political consequences that it can hope to produce practical results. In other words, "we can resolute till the cows come home" for less government in business without weakening in any appreciable degree the inherent inclination of all authority, from a chief executive to a bureau clerk, from the national senate to a village constable, to expand.

Americans who realize the ultimate destruction of our system of ordered liberty through the growth of government powers will welcome, therefore, every well considered and responsible effort to [illegible] action against it. The latest [illegible], where a charter has been asked for the [illegible] of American Business, an association of men and women in business pledged to nonpartisan but practical action to "get the government out of private business." The federation intends to coöperate with other organizations, such as the American Federation of Labor, United States Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, and National League of Women Voters, which favor the recovery of our original principles, and we think with its organizers that it will find a growing support among Americans who are not willing to sit meekly while their heritage of freedom is destroyed piecemeal.

STEEL HOUSES.

The editor of The Tribune has received a hundred letters, identical except for the signature, protesting against a recent cartoon. Mr. McCutcheon's sketch had suggested that the steel industry might work its way out of the depression through the large scale production of standard houses built of steel and glass. The protest is headed "From the Millwork Men and Lumber Dealers of the Chicago Area" and reads as follows:

"We wish to enter our protest against the cartoon appearing on page 1 of The Chicago Daily Tribune of Friday, Aug. 28. We feel that a gross injustice has been committed against the hundreds of dealers and manufacturers of wood building materials and their thousands of employés in the Chicago area. Many of these are constant readers of your paper and respect it for the issues for which it stands. However, we do not believe that you are repaying them fairly for the confidence which they have in you by publishing the type of propaganda contained in this cartoon.

"Not only is this cartoon unfair to those dependent upon wood building materials for a livelihood but unfair as well to the public in general. Numerous instances can be pointed out in some of the largest recently built structures of Chicago where wood rather than steel building materials have been installed. The superiority of steel has not been so well established that it can be as broadly advocated as this cartoon apparently attempts to do.

"We are very sorry that such misinformed propaganda is allowed to creep into a paper which we do highly respect."

No doubt the gentlemen in the industry know their own business, but to an outsider it would seem that anything which would stimulate house construction would also stimulate the demand for wood and wood products, whether the exterior walls are of wood or not. No wholly satisfactory substitute, so far as we know, has ever been found for wood in interior trim. When the Tribune Tower was built that fact was recognized in the use of wood paneling in executive offices, and it is perhaps worth noting that the current fashion for paneled offices owes much to the examples presented in the Tribune Tower. The fact that the Tower is built of steel and masonry has not prevented a widespread use of wood in the interiors and in construction; and the same result, we should think, would follow from the general use of steel dwellings. Every steel house that goes up should provide business for the lumber trade.

Meanwhile it is perhaps worth observing that in Chicago and other large cities there are sharp limitations fixed in the building laws upon the use of wood in exterior walls. Even in masonry buildings of any considerable size the amount of wood which may be used is more or less limited. So far as this city is concerned, at any rate, steel walls will not compete with wooden walls, but with walls of brick and stone.

It is to be regretted that the gentlemen who signed the form letter failed to grasp the point which Mr. McCutcheon was attempting to make. He was not so much advocating any particular kind of house construction as encouraging business men and manufacturers in all lines to look about them for new uses to which their products can be put. In that way, The Tribune believes and has often said, recovery from the present depression will be found. Is it not altogether likely that the prosperous future of the lumber industry, as of all others, will lie in the discovery of new applications for wood rather than in seeking frantically to retain old or obsolescent uses?

AIR PIONEERS.

Chicago welcomes the gallant German airmen who have just landed after a daring flight over the stormy waters of the North Atlantic and the wilderness of the Canadian forest lands. And this is the second successful flight of Capt. von Gronau from Europe to this country. The westward passage is more difficult and hazardous than the eastward, for the vast continent of North America generates most of the strong winds and gales of the North Atlantic, and bucking the west winds is at best a heavy handicap for speed and fuel supply. Chicago also appreciates the honor of being for the first time the terminal of a great trans-Atlantic flight.

Men like Capt. von Gronau are more than daring adventurers. They are true pioneers. What they accomplish at the risk of disaster is not to be adopted at once as practical for general, organized aviation, but it is only by such valorous experiment that the frontiers of our knowledge can be extended, teaching us not only the possible but the impracticable or inadvisable. Capt. von Gronau has investigated the dangers and difficulties of the arctic route and advises that at the present stage of aviation it is not to be adopted as a practical route to or from Europe. The ill-fated Cramer paid with his life for his contribution to the same conclusion. At the same time Col. Lindbergh has expressed his opinion that nonstop flight experiments along the arctic route to Japan are not ventures which are required at this time for aviation progress. Nevertheless, these pioneer invasions of the unknown are worthy of our applause and gratitude.

THE LEGION AND POLITICS.

Mr. Hanford MacNider urged the Illinois American Legion not to adopt resolutions on prohibition but to "keep clear of all political affairs." Mr. MacNider is now minister to Canada and wouldn't be if his activities in Legion affairs had not procured for him a political influence considerably greater than he could have won from any other of his relations or activities. He has profited conspicuously by the influence on political affairs exercised by the Legion, and it is not remarkable that the Legionnaires of Illinois did not heed his advice. It was in effect an invitation to play administration politics rather than to "keep clear of all political affairs."

The eventual action of the convention was a compromise with federal job holders which we are confident does not express the real attitude of the majority of the Legion in Illinois toward the prohibition régime and the widespread evils it is producing. But the opponents of prohibition never shirk the test of an honest referendum and favor it if the present political representation of the country is unwilling to act upon its own responsibility.

ANOTHER NOBLE EXPERIMENT.

The vice chairman of the federal farm board says the "board has discovered, and it hopes the American people have discovered, that continued purchases in the face of continued production is not a remedy for the agricultural situation."

It is almost as plain that pouring water into a bottomless pail is not a good way to fill up the pail, but we could wish a less expensive instruction than the board has given us.

Editorial of the Day

[Dallas Morning News.]

In the murkiness of confusion attending the utter failure of the farm board to achieve the impossible may be heard the hawking cry of venders offering old lamps for new—or new ones for old. But never is there any light, for the lamps have no oil. Just now the McNarys and the Haugens are furbishing up the equalization fee, and dervishes of farm relief are putting a loving shine upon the debenture plan.

It is true that the McNarys and the Haugens have not told us how the money, extracted from the farmers as an equalization fee, will accomplish what the money granted freely to the farm board out of the federal treasury has not been able to do. But swapping lamps has the air of industry, whether there be profit in it or not. Even if lamps do get broken in the process and dealers themselves come to grief thereby, consider how the lamp trade multiplies in the volume of everything except light.

As for the dervishes of the debenture lamp, they sense at least the burden of the tariff upon the farmer's neck and seek in their groping to do something about it all by means of doing something or other to the tariff. Literally they propose to measure his tariff disadvantage arbitrarily in proportion to the export quantity of his crops and to make him a present of stage money in that amount. This stage money is to be good at custom houses in payment of tariff duties on cuckoo clocks or Paris gowns or Christmas toys, according to the importing farmer's fancy. Of course, few farmers import direct, so there must be middlemen to deal in the stage money, with middlemen's discounts and cunning, so that the farmer's returns will not make him rich. The dervishes of the debenture lamp mean well and can go into trances of frenzy to prove it, but they stop short of a real tariff reduction in the farmer's interest.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. B. A. S.

YOUR ATTENTION, PLEASE, students in the schools of journalism! Notice these captions in the newspapers: "Ad with Which Bluebeard Lured Victims," W. G. N.; "Dig Up Bluebeard's Well," Chi. Her-Ex; "At Bluebeard's Garage of Horrors," Chi. American; "Fifth 'Bluebeard' Victim Found," Birmingham News; "'Bluebeard' Explains After Questioning," Cincinnati Enquirer; "'Bluebeard' Powers Tells Ghastly Story of Killing 5 in Day," St. Louis Globe-Democrat; "'Bluebeard' Says Murders All Took Place on Single Evening," Minneapolis Tribune; "'Bluebeard' Talks Spasmodically About Murders" Kansas City Times; "Wife of Alleged Bluebeard Says She Will Stick by Him," Dallas Morning News; "Fifth 'Bluebeard' Murder Victim Found," Washington Star; "Fifth Body Found as 'Bluebeard' Confesses Four Slayings," New Orleans Times-Picayune. And so on and so on, dear children, and only one newspaper that we have found which does not follow the unwritten law of the newspaper world that a gentleman who murders more than one woman is a "Bluebeard." The Topeka Daily Capital has made this sad error and unforgivable breach of journalistic ethics by printing a blackface headline, "Mail 'Romeo' Admits More Ghastly Murders." Tut, tut! A murderer is never a "Romeo" when he kills more than one. The Topeka Daily Capital will probably be spoken to very harshly by the various newspaper organizations, and do not be misled by this error. That is all today, students of journalism, class dismissed. Get t'hell outten here.

SONNET XXXIV.

Challenge me not with banners nor with drums.
How I am armed is now not your concern,
Nor if the blue fires of the armorers burn,
Nor if my camp with action roils and hums.
We have cried quits. Now when the new day comes
Above the empty pass, the untrampled fern,
I am content to watch your spies go forth
To bring you useless messages at call.
You are too small a spring to quench the drought

NANCY SHORES BURCHAM.

AND NOW that we're home again we must first of all thank Harvey Help Help Woodruff for keeping house for us while we were away, feeding the canary, putting out the milk bottle every morning, beating the rugs, and making everything nice and cozy for us when we got back. Thanks a lot, Harvey; and we did all we could for you in Canada while we were up there. We said, "Here's to you, Harve, old thing," two or three or maybe four or five times. It might have been six. It's hard to remember about things like that. Or possibly seven or even eight. Ah, Harve, that's a wonderful country.

WE MUST HAVE HINTED—and, my dear, we wouldn't have hinted for the world. But on our return to the office we found a nice letter from John D. Rockefeller Jr. inclosing a bright, shiny new dime and saying:

"The suggestion in your 'Line o' Type or Two' column in The Chicago Tribune has not escaped notice. At my Father's request I am happy to inclose herewith a dime, together with the assurance of his appreciation of your congratulations on his ninety-second birthday."

We remember now that in congratulating John D. on his birthday we did say something about how nice it would be if he sent us one of his famous dimes, but, goodness, we never had the slightest idea of hinting. However, it was mighty nice of John D. and John D. Jr., and we thank them both. We shall keep the bright, shiny, new dime among our treasures. That is, we hope to, but with a hard winter coming on we are not any too positive about that. However——

ANOTHER PLEASANT SURPRISE we got when we came home was the Chicagoan, which we left a month ago an embarrassing little imitation of the New Yorker, and came back to find a high, wide, and handsome magazine. Chicago is not New York and never was, and we congratulate the editors of the new Chicagoan for realizing it. Good for 'em, and not only for getting out a magazine that fits the expansive and expensive aspects of the old town to a T, but also one that is grand to look at and to read.

A MAN IN NEW YORK, who gave away a five million dollar art collection to the Smithsonian institution, tells the court in New York he hasn't six hundred dollars to pay his wife's rent bill. And, the Smithsonian institution being in Washington, the poor lady can't even have the satisfaction of going over and looking at the pictures. The gentleman should have given the collection to some New York gallery, where the lady could have looked at the pretty pictures while hunting for a place to sleep. Some husbands are so thoughtless!

THE POTTAWATOMIE INDIANS, who used to live around these parts, now claim they got bunked out of their land in the center of Chicago and are going to bring a suit for a billion dollars. They want the money and not the land, one reason being if they got that back they'd have to come here and live and they'd rather not come in collision with our other bandits, rum runners, and racketeers. There are some things a red Indian won't do.

AND ANOTHER REASON the Pottawatomie Indians don't want their Chicago land back is maybe they've been listening to Chicago real estate bondholders. To hear those birds talk even a Pottawatomie Indian would conclude that Chicago land isn't worth fifteen cents in Mexican money, let alone one billion dollars.

WHAT TO DO IN SOME EMERGENCIES.

LAST Sunday the writer witnessed a fist fight in which a drunken man was knocked down. To call the combat a "fist fight" is a misnomer, because the man knocked down was maudlin drunk, scarcely able to stand, and was not able to raise his hands in self-defense. He was standing on a corner cursing everybody and everything.

A nearby newsboy considered it was a good chance to show the people what a manly, courageous fellow he was. He stepped up to the man, cracked him on the chin, and laid him flat on his back on the stone pavement. His head hit the stone with a whack that would have caused a skull fracture in a man with bones of less than average thickness. To preach a sermon on the folly of getting maudlin drunk in hot weather is not the purpose of this article, nor does it have to do with the psychology of a coward who hits a helpless man. It has to do with first aid to the injured.

The sound of the man's skull hitting the pavement attracted the attention of people some distance away. A kind man, and a woman with the same type of impulse, raised the head and shoulders of the injured man a foot or so, and the man propped him up against his knees. The injured man was as limp as a rag, and the helpers made a poor job of their Good Samaritan act.

They did just exactly the wrong thing. Just that sort of kindness may cost a life. The proper first aid treatment was to leave the man lying flat, with his head protected against direct sunlight. If anything was to be done, having him whiff some smelling salts or ammonia would not have done any harm, in all probability, and might have done some good. There was no objection to washing the face with cold water.

Lifting the man's head did no good. He was unconscious and therefore did not know he was lying on stone. If his skull was fractured hauling his head and shoulders up put him in the risk of serious hemorrhage or other serious effects. Even if his skull was not fractured lifting his head was liable to do harm by putting undue strain on his heart. Lying flat, limpid, and being unconscious, everything was right to spare his vital forces just as much as they could be spared.

If we assume that the injury was of the slightest, and the man was unconscious because he fainted from shock, the indications would still be to let him lie quietly. It is probably not even good policy to bring back to consciousness a person who has fainted if his pulse is steady but weak. However, to use a little smelling salts and to fan or wash the face does but little harm, and usually does none.

SUMMER COLDS.

M. J. writes: I caught a summer cold some time ago, and when I cough I am hoarse for two or three minutes, and it is hard to talk. I seem to strain my throat. I am very healthy, but my colds have always broken up with a cough. They soon disappear. I have never seemed to choke up before as I do now. Do you think it is bronchitis? Some one told me they thought it was, but I do not think so. I am terribly lazy. I feel well, but am cross most of the time. What would you say to that?

REPLY.

It seems that your colds start in your nasal passages and extend to your bronchi. Your colds end in acute bronchitis. This is generally a self-limited disease, as you have found it. Just now you have a tracheitis. It is somewhere near your vocal cords. The hoarseness and inability to talk is due to a little phlegm getting between your vocal cords. Relaxation is the best remedy. Don't try so hard. This cold should clear up as the others have done. The laxiness and irritability may not be good signs. If your cough hangs on and you continue to be hard to live with, have your chest examined.

CRAMP IN FOOT.

Mrs. S. P. writes:

1. I am 51 years old. The veins in my feet have been aching lately and I fear varicose veins. Will you kindly tell me how I can prevent them?

2. I get a cramp in my right foot while I am sleeping. Has my diet anything to do with it? I eat very moderately. I am 5 feet 2 inches and weigh 135 pounds. I am otherwise in very good health. I do not work hard, and am not on my feet much except when I market every day.

REPLY.

1. Do not wear tight garters, or other tight bands, nor corsets. Avoid heavy, manual labor; all pressure on leg, abdominal, or pelvic veins; phlebitis; excessive hours "on the feet." Nothing you write indicates any special danger of varicose veins.

2. Not much, if anything. Some advise more meats and less sweets. The best single method of preventing such cramps is to keep the feet and legs warm.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

BOTH LIABLE.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My husband and I separated while living in an apartment hotel, he retaining the apartment for a week after we separated. I took another apartment in the same building. Three weeks later, after paying the bill on the apartment that I contracted for, I paid my bill and moved, leaving my own personal trunk to be called for later. Upon calling for it I was informed that they were holding it for a bill that my husband owed. Part of this bill accumulated during the time that I occupied the apartment with him. They let him move all his personal belongings knowingly, as he is a personal friend of the owner of the hotel. Can they hold my trunk, as they are now doing, for his bill? B. A. S.

Under Illinois law, husband and wife would both be liable for rent accruing while they were living together. Hence, as we understand the facts, the hotel would be entitled to hold your goods if you were a transient guest. If you were merely a renter, then they would have to bring distress proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ILLINOIS WILLS ACT.

Mishawaka, Ind., Aug. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a beneficiary under a will signs that will as a witness does this fact invalidate the will under Illinois law? C. W. P.

Under section 8 of the Illinois wills act a gift to a witness is void and the witness is required to testify unless there are enough other witnesses to prove the will without reliance upon the beneficiary. But if the witness would have taken a share in the absence of a will his bequest will abate only as to the excess above such intestate share.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man working for the county as a highway patrolman [one who keeps highways in condition] is killed in an automobile accident during working hours, leaving a widow and two minor children. Who must the widow see and what are the conditions under which a widow can collect compensation from the county? The man has been dead two and one-half years and attempts to collect compensation so far have failed. J. S. M.

We cannot advise to advantage without knowing what difficulties have been encountered in the application for compensation. In view of the lapse of time, it would seem that there must have been serious difficulties which you have not adequately placed before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 3, 1915.

BERLIN.—Germany, according to Count von Bernstorff's instructions, offers to submit the claims for compensation arising out of the Lusitania and Arabic cases to The Hague tribunal for adjudication.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The administration was without official information from Berlin that Germany will propose to send the Lusitania and Arabic cases to The Hague tribunal. From high official quarters it was learned, however, that such a proposal will not be received heartily by this government, but rather that the United States would insist that Germany completely apologize for the killing of the American citizens who lost their lives in the two disasters and that the reparation shall be arranged by diplomatic correspondence.

PETROGRAD.—An official communication from the Russian war office announces the evacuation by the Russian forces of a point near the fortress of Grodno and the retirement of the troops to the right bank of the Niemen river.

LONDON.—The Russians are rapidly giving up their little remaining territory in Galicia. Brody, only three miles from the frontier, has been entered by the Austrian troops, and south of Tarnopol, 12 miles from the border, Austrian aviators report that troops and supply trains are speeding in great numbers toward Russian soil.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—Mexican bandits burst into action anew, killing two Americans, burning considerable property, stealing live stock, and suffering the loss of one of their own number in a running fight with United States troops eleven miles north of this city on United States soil.

CHICAGO.—"Not a single teacher will resign from the Chicago Teachers' federation." This was the message of defiance sent out from federation headquarters to the school board, which passed a resolution forbidding membership in the federation. The board will be given a fight all along the line. The test is expected to come today when Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, presents a list of names of teachers for promotion.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 3, 1901.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Vice President Roosevelt at the Minnesota State fair declared that the state and nation must possess the right to supervise and control great industrial combinations. He also declared in favor of strict enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine.

LONDON.—Dr. Krause, a prominent resident of the Transvaal and former governor of Johannesburg, was arrested here on a charge of high treason. He has been in Great Britain for four months and it is charged that he has been secretly forwarding information to the Boers. It was Dr. Krause who surrendered the keys of Johannesburg to Lord Roberts in June last year, following which he took the oath of allegiance to Great Britain.

CHICAGO.—More than 16,000 persons, including 1,000 women, marched in labor's big parade, which was the chief feature of the celebration of Labor day.

PARIS.—It is said that the French government will dispatch a naval division into Turkish waters tomorrow. Numir Bey, the Turkish ambassador to France, was ordered out of Paris tonight and went to Switzerland, where he will remain until the dispute over the French claims against Turkey is decided.

SEPTEMBER 3, 1881.

WASHINGTON. — The President gained slightly yesterday and his symptoms tonight were somewhat more favorable than on the previous night. During the day his pulse was lower and more steady than it has been for some time. The parotid gland continues to suppurate and has not yet commenced to heal. The bullet wound has not improved much. The most hopeful symptom is the patient's growing appetite. He evinces a great desire to be removed from the capital and while physicians do not think it safe to comply with his wishes at present they say that as soon as it can be done safely they will advise his removal, probably to Long Branch.

LONDON.—A Cape Town dispatch gives the loss of life from the sinking of the Union Mail steamer Teuton as much greater than at first supposed. There were 256 passengers, 85 members of the crew and eleven coolies on board and of these eleven passengers and twenty-five of the crew are all who survived.

VICTORIA, B. C.—An arrival from Honolulu reports that the island of Hilo, Sandwich Islands, was in danger of being overwhelmed by lava from the volcano Mauna Loa. The lava was moving at the rate of a sixteenth of a mile daily and advancing on the town of Hilo, which would soon be overwhelmed.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

ABOUT THIS PAGE.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 28.—I am an editor and a New Yorker, at that. When in Chicago I read, among other papers, The Tribune. For a long time I have greatly admired and apreciated The Tribune's editorials, which I consider the finest of any newspaper I have read.

Clothed in excellent and graceful English, they present a very high type of expression and, in addition, are sound, healthy, 100 per cent true Americanism.

I don't agree in all respects with your proud slogan, "the World's Greatest Newspaper," but I do agree that The Tribune has the world's greatest editorial expression from an American viewpoint.

A. C. CARRUTHERS,
President, Safety Engineering.

UNDER A BUSHEL.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—You appear, to this writer, to be inclined to hide your light under a bushel. What seems to be your most valuable contribution to the enlightenment of "American society" is buried on your editorial page and made difficult to read by the small type.

Two editorials deserve special mention: The one in The Sunday Tribune entitled, "They Want a Plan," and one this morning, "Anyway, It's Getting Jollier." There often is question concerning the balance of your treatment of the news, by at least some of your better informed readers. But your editorials, as a rule, are most admirable illustrations of the real and traditional American viewpoint.

Never, in this writer's opinion, has there been greater need of emphasis of the wisdom of our republican form of government. I am not one who sees any danger of the acceptance by the American public of political socialism, even when disguised as communism. Not when presented openly, as is done by socialistic propagandists.

There is, however, grave danger in the subtle socialism suggested by our scholastics. Nothing has appeared to this writer more subversive of everything for which American political sentiment stands than these recent proposals to turn farming, industry, commerce, and finance over to the tender mercies of our legalistic politicians. Superficially, they appear to be the result of constructive thinking. The names they carry give them pretense of authority on the subjects treated. But neither history nor common sense supports the contentions.

Have you considered the practicality of printing your leading editorial on the first page, possibly in a box under the admirable cartoons of John McCutcheon? You are aware, of course, that many readers never turn to your editorial page. I know this from my habit of asking acquaintances and associates if they have read certain editorials which have impressed me as being noteworthy.

There appears to me to be an opportunity for rendering an unusual service just at this time. If the above suggestion meets with any reception, please consider also ten point type as the smallest size easily readable, although even eight point would be an improvement.

EDGAR A. RUSSELL.

HAPPY ENDING.

Paris, Ill., Aug. 28.—In order to relieve a lot of suspense and also, to some extent, the depression, will you not let me suggest to Sidney Smith that he have Uncle Bim and Tom Carr meet by chance in the Widow Zander's apartment, and, in the ensuing confusion, have the widow's well known transformation fall off? Whereupon Uncle Bim and Tom would, of course, flee, rushing to the nearest speakeasy to drown their troubles, where they shake hands and pledge undying friendship. Then let them start the big factory again, thus relieving the unemployment. Even the widow might be given a job wrapping burglar alarms. E. O. LAUGHLIN.

THE VOICE OF THE COMMUTER.

River Forest, Ill., Aug. 27.—Many complaints about various services to the public are registered with the Voice of the People, but one seldom reads in your column an appreciative acknowledgment of the improvements brought about through your influence.

If one makes a "kick," it seems only fair that he should tell you when the source of complaint is removed as a result of publicity in the Voice of the People.

Recently the writer complained to your editor that the North Western railway had removed from service a suburban train very essential to the convenience of people living in Oak Park, River Forest and Forest Park. This train was the 5:31 [Chicago time] and taking it off left a gap of twenty-three minutes in the evening rush hour service.

The North Western handled our complaint with promptness. Within a few days the superintendent of the Galena division, Mr. L. A. Clapp, called at the home of the writer, talked to him about the situation and immediately consented to stop a fast train [which had hitherto skipped these stops] at Oak Park and at Lathrop avenue, River Forest, actually giving Oak Park, River Forest and Forest Park better service than had been provided by the train which was removed. With this new service one may leave the loop nine minutes later and still reach home at about the same time. Undoubtedly many residents of the communities mentioned appreciate the helpful publicity given this matter by the Voice of the People.

CHINA.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I am deeply impressed with your editorial of this morning, "The Chinese Disaster." Why should we not study more carefully the possibilities of helping China to get on her feet by improving her transportation and communication facilities, developing her waterways and internal resources? China offers the greatest possible outlet open to America for our surplus agricultural products, machinery, fabrics, and chemicals. I noticed a few days ago that the Chinese government had suggested a ten year reconstruction plan for China and that they had sent a delegation of experts to Europe to determine what were the best methods to pursue. Would it not be a good idea for this country to send a delegation of business experts to China and see what we can do in the way of stabilizing and improving their condition so that their four hundred and more millions of people could enjoy, at least to some measure, the great comforts that our unlimited resources could give to them?

R. M. CALKINS.

THE DES PLAINES.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—I see in this morning's Tribune that at last they have started a plan to clean up the Des Plaines river. It is absolutely a shame what pollution has done to this stream. Not many years ago there were bass and northern pike in this river. Now every bass and pike south of Irving Park has been killed or driven out by the slime dumped into the river.

Last winter, while hiking along the river with my pal, we saw hundreds of fish, dead, due probably to the negligence of some small town or corporation. A sight of this kind is enough to strike horror into the heart of any sportsman. ED RUSSELL.

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—As the next presidential election draws near we should forget that we are Republicans or Democrats and unite in one great endeavor, namely, to throw out forever that greatest example of hypocrisy, prohibition.

FINDS FARMERS DOING SHARE TO CARE FOR NEEDY

Many Provide for Hands Throughout Winter.

BY PAUL POTTER.

"What are farmers going to do about employment and the aid of destitute people in rural districts this fall and winter? Will they take care of them, or throw hungry hired hands back into the cities?"

A. H. KRAHL.

These questions put to the leaders in farm organizations and to farmers themselves in the Chicago region yesterday brought the answer that farmers are doing what they can, to the limit of their means, to feed and house their own families as well as unemployed relatives.

Keep Relatives on Farms.

"One of the reasons more cows are being milked than should be this fall in the Chicago milk shed, is because farmers are feeding unemployed sons and their families, or are keeping a worthy hired man and his family instead of throwing them on charity this winter."

This was the opinion of A. H. Krahl, Pure Milk association official who has attended many county farm bureau meetings in Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, where he discussed affairs with farmers.

"Most farmers who would in normal times do without extra help after corn picking are keeping their men, many of them being paid low wages or staying on for their board, room, and chewing tobacco," said Farm Adviser Kelly of the Kane county farm bureau at Geneva. "Only the few owners on the verge of losing out entirely have been obliged to let their help go this fall."

Farmer Keeps Three Men.

In McHenry county, a prominent farmer said he was keeping three men this fall and winter on the board and wages basis, instead of his usual one and hand. With their families to feed also, he believes he is not cutting wages, since his outlay is just as much, although in farm produce instead of cash.

A La Salle county live stock feeder said of being approached last week by a capable man who formerly worked for him, now out of employment, who volunteered to build fence, repair buildings, do chores, or any other work available, to find food and shelter for his family this winter.

"I didn't need him, but I couldn't turn down such a worthy fellow," was the farmer's comment, typical of many other rural cases this fall.

Agree to Keep Hands.

A dairy farmer in Porter county, Indiana, said he and his neighbors had agreed to keep their hired hands and their families instead of the usual "letting out" as winter approached, and were letting them put up fruit, vegetables, milk, butter and eggs for winter use without charge.

Several dairymen pointed to the contributions of milk they have been making, with other dairy farmers around Chicago, to enable the Pure Milk association to donate milk for poor children at summer playgrounds. They also told of allowing poor families in their own communities to have milk for children free.

"There won't be many extra jobs available on farms this fall and winter," stated R. E. Erickson, in charge of the Illinois department of labor free farm employment offices in Chicago.

SERIOUSLY ILL

QUEEN MARIE.

VIENNA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Word from Rumania today said Dowager Queen Marie was seriously ill and her physicians believed an operation might be necessary. She became ill soon after Princess Ileana's wedding recently, but recovered somewhat and has been advised to go to her castle in the Carpathians to recuperate. If her condition does not improve, the doctors say, an operation will be performed.

BANK OFFICIAL SUED ON FALSE ARREST CHARGE

Through Attorney William C. Scherwat, Hugo C. Fisher has filed a $100,000 damage suit in Circuit court against Charles G. Nelson, an assistant cashier of the Continental Illinois bank.

"I am suing for false arrest and malicious prosecution," said Mr. Fisher. "Last February Nelson caused my arrest, charging me first with forgery and then, in his formal complaint, accusing me of a confidence game. I was found not guilty and was discharged."

Fisher said that the original complaint was based on the fact that he had "O. K'd." a check of the Utilities Securities company for $1,748 and got Nelson also to put his O. K. on it before it was cashed. The check was payable to Philip and Bertha Albrecht. Fisher said the husband brought it to him bearing purported indorsements of both the Albrechts and that later the wife, denying she had received any of the proceeds of the check, had sought payment again of the full amount from the Utilities Securities company.

"The check was good," said Fisher. "I merely put my O. K. on it without indorsing it and the money was paid to Albrecht. I knew Albrecht and presumed of course that the indorsement of his wife was genuine. I was locked up all night and the story was given to the newspapers that I had been arrested for forgery."

Judge Delays Modification of Gross Divorce Decree

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday set over until Sept. 9 the signing of an order modifying the divorce decree which Capt. Christian C. Gross, member of the American foreign service, obtained from Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross, so as to fix legally the parentage of Mrs. Gross' 3 year old daughter, Anna. Lawyers for the parents were unable to agree on minor technicalities of the order.

A. H. MULLIKEN, MANUFACTURER, IS DEAD AT 77

Mr. Mulliken was a descendant of the Samuel Mulliken who came from Paisley, Scotland, to Salem, Mass., where the family was prominent for many generations.

Starts as Office Boy.

At fifteen Mr. Mulliken went to Chicago and there spent most of his life. He started in business as an office boy for Crerar, Adams & Co., a railroad supply house. Offered a partnership twelve years later, he declined in order to organize his own firm, joining with Asa G. Pettibone, a banker, to launch Pettibone & Mulliken, dealers in railroad equipment.

In 1885 the firm sold its jobbing business to Crerar, Adams & Co. and began the manufacture of the Jenne track-hack and the roller rail bender, the first tools of their kind in the world, which have since been recognized as standard by railroads. In the same year the business was incorporated with Mr. Pettibone as president and Mr. Mulliken as secretary and treasurer. In 1899 Mr. Mulliken bought his associates' interest and thereafter held the presidency until he disposed of his holdings in 1928. He went east to live in that year.

Forms Investment Company.

During the world war Mr. Mulliken was a committee of one at Washington, representing all the frog and switch manufacturers in the United States, fourteen concerns in all, in their relationship with the government.

In 1922 the investment banking firm of Mulliken & Roberts of this city was established, of which Mr. Mulliken served as president and chairman of the board until his death. His son is vice president.

Mr. Mulliken was a director of the National Association of Manufacturers, the Continental-Illinois Bank of Chicago, and the Railway Business association. His clubs included the Recess, Metropolitan, Bankers, and Railroad in this city and the Chicago, Midday, Old Elm Golf, and Glen View Golf in Chicago. His home in Chicago was at 1042 Lake Shore drive.

CARBON PAPER KING WILL BE BURIED IN U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The body of C. Harold Smith, world tramp at 13, who became the "carbon paper king of America" and the entire world, and died a multimillionaire, will leave London Saturday for New York, where burial services will be held. He was 71 years old. Smith's family left for the United States today.

Smith started from home here as an apprenticed seaman without pay and he made a tremendous fortune in carbon paper in the United States, where he started as a packer in a charcoal house at the age of 17.

He came from a poor family and he was the youngest of eight children. He was packed off to sea by his parents. He sailed for New Zealand, where he worked in a lumber camp. The boy was lost in the bush but reached a native village, where he was nursed back to health.

He reached Salt Lake City broke, and he tramped to New York and returned home penniless. He was sent away to America again with $25. He slept in parks until he got a job in a charcoal concern. He foresaw the possibilities of carbon paper and he eventually controlled that industry throughout the world.

COOKS CHARGE FEE RACKET BY JOB AGENCIES

A fight on alleged racketeering by some employment agencies as part of a movement to organize a cooks' union was started last night at a meeting in Fraternity hall, 19 West Adams street, which was attended by more than 150 cooks and pastry men. The cooks, most of them unemployed, signed a protest against the methods of certain employment agencies. The protest will be sent to State's Attorney Swanson.

Oscar Doyle, president of the Chicago Culinary club, who presided at the meeting, said that some agencies conspire with chefs and restaurant owners to collect a fee by giving a cook a job. The cook is fired after a short time, thereby furnishing a job for another man and another fee.

December Promises Dog Future for May If She Rejects Him

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 21. He is 55, and gives her a week more for her "Yes" to his marriage proposal. He is divorced. His ex-wife is remarried. The 21 year-old thinks she loves the man. Anyway, he has spent a lot of money on her the last year taking her around to the bright places. He has enough money, if not wealthy, to provide her a nice home. His argument is that if the young thing, 34 years his junior, answers "No" to his marriage proposal, she'll be sitting home nights crying her eyes out until she will get desperate, go out with any one and eventually go to the dogs.

May be that last is what you call high powered salesmanship. Any old argument to close the deal, so to speak. But twenty-one just doesn't sit home nights crying its eyes out after looking into a proposition that has its drawbacks and turning it down. There's too big a world of opportunities, marriage included, ahead yet.

When this question arises of the wisdom of marrying a man years a girl's senior, there's always that offchance that bears the earmark of success to reckon with. Some of these marriages turn out agreeably.

Between 21 and 55, there's a long way to go, as time flies, and as life is lived by the older one. The disparity in tastes, pursuits, of 55 and 21, as illustrated in father-daughter relationship, creates a wide enough chasm in most cases. Dad is willing to forego the strenuous activities for a younger man. Dad may be excused. But the husband must be the ever ready escort, the dancing partner, the dream-maker for this young person of 21.

The nice home may be all right and fine—but at 21, with the kind of girl who marries for comfort, it is more or less a place to hang the hat between dashes hither and yon. Besides, there is the most important issue of all—love. More of it is needed in these great age-disparity cases than in ordinary match making.

WIRE TAPPING EVIDENCE FREES 17 RUM VIOLATORS

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—On the ground its evidence had been obtained by wire tapping and other unlawful means the federal government moved a nolle prossequi today in a Volstead law case which involved fifteen men and two women arrested last year in this city, accused of bootlegging on an extensive scale.

The motion to "nolle pros" the indictments was promptly granted by Federal Judge William B. Sheppard of Florida, sitting in Brooklyn. Kenneth Voight, assistant United States attorney, who made the motion, said orders to do so had come from the department of justice in Washington.

"It is another illustration that public sentiment against gathering evidence by tapping telephone wires is becoming more widespread," Mr. Voight said in his office later.

British Dealers Drop This Book; Find It Stings

But 'Colonel's Daughter' Has Own Admirers.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Colonel's Daughter," by Richard Aldington [Doubleday Doran], published today.

NOT since the days of D. H. Lawrence has a book been banned so whole-heartedly in England as "The Colonel's Daughter," by Richard Aldington. The day before publication the largest booksellers in England announced that they would not allow "The Colonel's Daughter" in their circulating libraries [which lets the background of the English nation's reading] nor sell it in their shops.

Two weeks later the second largest book distribution firm informed its customers that the book was "withdrawn." The publishers promptly replied that "withdrawn" with vast sales in the heart of London. Meanwhile two Cambridge book stores refused to sell the book. The proprietor of one of them naïvely gave as his reason "One dislikes attacks, especially on our own class."

And while all of that was happening "The Colonel's Daughter" [naturally] became a best seller and a book which is far from radicalism in its literary opinions, called the book "rather Tess."

And today Americans who have read the bitter invectives against "The Colonel's Daughter" are rushing to get it and the second largest and next largest book-store and all the way down to their public books in quiet corners to convince themselves that England has not not made another gaffe about suppressing a book. [They would not allow "The Green Pastures" to be played in London, you know, before it did appears on the stage.] American readers are likely to be a bit dazed when they have finished "The Colonel's Daughter"—wondering what all the shootin's about.

"The Colonel's Daughter" is a brilliant and bitter and biting picture of English village life, with the characters drawn with cruel veracity and with the thesis that the bounders, among the new rich are bounders, and the stuffed shirts among the retired generals are stuffed shirts, that the loathsome women with insinuating ways are vipers, that a girl with nothing a year and a nose that is too big hasn't much of a chance of finding a man who would make a good father to the children which her nature and her spirit demands, that some of the cocktail drinking members of the younger intelligentsia drink too much and pet too much and talk too much, that a selfish bachelor is a selfish bachelor, and that it rains in England and the climate is not so good for the complexion, and that life is a mess, but if you know a better life you can go to it.

In other words, Mr. Aldington tries to prove nothing except that life is life. His camera photographs life in an English village and the life that goes on in the bodies and hearts of the people who live in an English village. He is one of those people is especially admirable or attractive, but they are definitely and amazingly human beings. Mr. Aldington's camera has a lens which is sharper and more cruel than most lenses in literary cameras, but I cannot see that it is a distorting lens. American booksellers might have as well cried for the suppression of "Main Street" because it was a true picture of life in a small town as made every one in the town unhappy, whereas every one knows that no group of people is wholly lovable.

Mr. Aldington does his photography with a good deal of humor, not kindly, to be sure, but vastly entertaining. He gives you pictures that almost endear a character to you. You begin to think "the author is liking this man, after all." And then, snap will go the camera and a foible will be registered that makes you sure that the author DOESN'T like the worm after all and is determined that you shall not like him or her either.

There must be some subtle poison in the book which is perceptible to the trained British taste intent upon finding poison, but which escapes the foreign reader. For to the average reader, either in or out of the British Isles, there would not seem to be much in the book to corrupt the morals of the present day.

To be sure there is a very short passage in which two creatures by the name of Bim and Bom discuss the state of present day England and make smart observations about the English like "A gentleman nowadays is one who practices the dead sports of other people's ancestors" and "He and his pals [speaking of the ruler of men in that village] have made a confounded mess of things and they'll make a worse one. . . . Just now I was thinking that he reminds me of an upstart and puny Napoleon who has stolen a dozen of the man-eating steeds of Diomedes; the reins are all mixed up, the steeds are getting restive and prancing and threatening to show their red teeth ominously." And more to the same effect. Such speech is so couched in metaphor that the average man's political mind would have a hard time being affected by it, because he probably wouldn't understand what it was all about. So, as either Mr. Moran or Mr. Mack observes, "Even if it was good he wouldn't like it."

Except for that epilogue, with its caustic criticisms, there is no preaching or pamphleteering. "The Colonel's Daughter" is a brilliant satirical novel of English village life, with appreciably less "immorality" than even the most proper of the English novels usually boast, and whose danger to the reading public must lie in the fact that the author has chosen to pillage rather "the "Best People" nor the "Low Lives," both of which are acceptable subjects for bitter satire, but the contempt for "pukka gentleman" of the "huntin', shootin', ridin' England."

QUALITY: Excellent.

MUSIC: Charming.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Good.

SETS and SCENERY: Pleasing. There are some lovely scenes along the Rhine that will bring a tear to the eye and a lump to the throat of the lonely exile from the Vaterland.

DIRECTION: Adequate.

STORY: Simple but entertaining romance of a girl orchestra leader and the son of a privy councillor. The heroine is one of four mädels who live together and attend a university. All are musical and when their exchequer runs low they decide to form an orchestra of four to be known as "The Rhineland Mädels" and make money by playing evenings in a café. The privy councillor believes his son's choice to be other than she is, till he calls on the young lady and learns—what he learns.—H. E.

REMARKS: There's a spontaneity and an aliveness about this number that captivate. The players are all personable and likeable, and, while I don't believe the leading man really sings, he moves his lips engagingly looking properly soulful the while.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Howard Hughes' recent public announcement that he could not finish the filming of "Queer People," in spite of $100,000 already invested in the story rights and film preparations, brought an unusual response from actors volunteering to take part. Hughes had announced that lack of a cast was his reason. Hughes now has received an offer from an independent producer to take over his story rights, so the $100,000 may not be entirely lost.

An independent producer, not being a member of the big producers' association, as Hughes is, would not be subject to the wire pulling and business pressure which is said to have been exerted on Hughes to let the novel's presentation of back scene Hollywood life remain off the screen.

On the strength of the popularity of their "barkies" topped by the studio's gratification with Buster Keaton's "Sidewalks of New York," which they directed, Zion Myers and Jules White have been given new contracts as full-fledged directors at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Myers, who is Carmel Myers' brother, and White started out by filming a couple of trained dogs in a rough burlesque of human actors at M. G. M. several years ago. The experimental short reel turned out so well they were assigned to continue the innovation, and the job of directing Keaton's latest was a promotion. Under the pair's new contract they will alternate on the dog comedies and on feature comedy work with Keaton and other stars.

Buck Jones has gone to a hospital with a couple of broken ribs and an injured vertebra as a result of too much realism during a movie fight in Columbia's production, "Heading for Love." Jones was hit by a chair. Mary Doran, Hank Mann, Walter Miller, and Russell Simpson were in the picture with him.

Whitemans and Greeter Gaw Meet Mrs. Rudy Vallee

Mrs. Rudy Vallee, minus her crooning husband, stopped in for a short visit here yesterday on her way to California. When she stepped off the Twentieth Century limited of the New York Central she discovered she wasn't to be lonely.

Down to meet her were the king of jazz, Paul Whiteman and his bride, the former Margaret Livingston of the motion pictures, and Chicago's official welcomer, Greeter Gaw, in his very official white greeting suit.

The wife of Rudy Vallee was whisked through a throng of her husband's young admirers, bowed into the official greeter car and whisked off with police escort to inspect the studios of the National Broadcasting corporation in the Merchandise Mart.

Mrs. Vallee, a bride herself, sang the praises of her husband, who she says "is the sweetest, most wonderful man in the world." She said she didn't mind a bit when Rudy goes out and has a good time because they trust each other and "there's not a bit of jealousy with us."

Famous Church Bell Moved When Belfry Becomes Too Weak

A historic bell was removed yesterday from its belfry atop the old brick church at the southwest corner of Monroe and Morgan streets. The belfry of the building, which dates back to the Forties, was too fragile longer to hold the large 2,200 pound brass bell. In 1864 the building, then the Second Baptist church, was moved brick by brick from the site on which it was constructed at the southeast corner of La Salle and Washington streets and rebuilt on its present site. During the Chicago fire the church served as a hospital for the injured.

In 1906 the Second Baptist church was moved to Jackson boulevard and Lincoln street and the bell tolled only for weekly Sunday school services until 1913. Then Aiken institute, a Baptist organization, occupied the building. The institute is named for Miss Lizzie Aiken, who served as a missionary for the church for 50 years.

G. B. Franks, Champaign, Heads Illinois Kiwanians

At the close of the four day district convention of the Illinois-Eastern Iowa Kiwanis clubs yesterday at the Shoreland hotel, George B. Franks of Champaign, Ill., was elected governor of the district. New divisional governors include J. S. Cornelius, Chicago, first; Harold W. Ward, Park Ridge, second; Clarence C. Valentine, Aurora, third; Fred W. Patterson, Hyde Park, fourth, and Ira R. Hendrickson, Mount Morris, fifth. Springfield was selected as the location for the 1932 convention.

Planetarium Visitors Pass Million Mark; Opened 1930

Visitors to the Adler planetarium on the lake front in Grant park passed the million mark yesterday. Dr. C. A. Dragstedt, professor of pharmacology at Northwestern university, was the one millionth visitor, and as such was presented with a set of binoculars by the Carl Zeiss company, makers of the planetarium instruments. The presentation was made by Dr. Philip Fox, director of the planetarium. The planetarium has been open since May 12, 1930.

"Birth of Nation" Ordered Off Philadelphia Screen

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—After completing nearly half of a scheduled two weeks' run at the Europa theater here, David Wark Griffith's 17 year old picture, "The Birth of a Nation," with added sound effects, was ordered removed from the screen today by Mayor Harry A. Mackey on the ground that it tended to arouse racial prejudices.

The innovations will be a day college and the addition of courses of third year college grads, Otto G. Schmidt, chairman of the board of governors of the schools, announced. This will be in effect on the opening of the college term, Sept. 28. Since its founding in 1921 the college has operated as a junior evening college.

National Parks Visitors, 2,010,868 Through Aug. 8

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The total visitors at all the western national parks, through Aug. 8, ran 5 per cent above that for the same period last year. The figure this year was 2,010,868, as against 2,774,561 for the entire season last year. A notable development has been an increase in motorists, particularly of the camping variety, and a falling off in the number of train tourists.

Kingsley Hall to House Gandhi While in London

Except for Short Visit to Wealthy Hindu.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Mahatma Gandhi's accommodations in London for the first part of his stay will be marked with an ascetic simplicity. He will reside for the first part of his stay at Kingsley Hall, an east end settlement, surrounded by the teeming millions of London's poor. The settlement, similar to Chicago's Hull House, is managed by Miss Muriel Lester, an old friend of Gandhi.

MURIEL LESTER.

Gandhi and his two secretaries, one of whom is his son, will occupy three small rooms in the men's section of Kingsley Hall, and Miss Slade, daughter of a British admiral, will be given a room in the women's section.

Gandhi's room faces south, overlooking the roof, where there is ample room for him to sleep in the open air if he likes. He will have far more privacy there than on deck, where has has often slept on the voyage from India.

The furnishings of the room will be comfortable and freshly decorated in a bright color—a small cot, a table, and a few chairs will be the only furniture.

On the other side of the house there is a roof garden adorned by a small fountain and a little statue donated to the settlement house by Alan Alexander Milne, English writer. Here the staff of the establishment generally gathers for prayer. Gandhi has been invited and is expected to join in these devotions.

One of the amenities of the view here is a huge red gas tank. This, however, assumes the bulky aspects of a mountain in the mists and fogs generally prevailing in London and is held to be an esthetic asset to the inhabitants of the settlement.

A railed in balcony on the second floor is expected to provide a setting for Gandhi's remarks to the crowds certain to swarm around his first London residence.

Gandhi will spend his first week-end in the settlement, but is going the next few days to a house provided by a wealthy Indian merchant as a hospice to Indian visitors in London. There foods familiar to the Indian palate, rich spices and curry cooked by natives, are provided.

The mahatma will return to Kingsley Hall the following week-end.

The reopening of the Indian round-table conference at first fixed for Monday, Sept. 7, has been deferred until the 14th. Gandhi is expected to land at Marseilles, cross France by rail, the channel by boat, and reach London, Saturday, Sept. 12.

JAMES BARRIE TELLS HOW THOMAS HARDY LIVED ONLY BY CHANCE

DORCHESTER, England, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Unveiling a life size statue of Thomas Hardy, the work of Eric Kennington, here in Hardy's native Dorsetshire today, Sir James Barrie, creator of Peter Pan, told how nearly the world came to missing altogether the late novelist's services. The statue is of bronze, a seated figure of Hardy. It is placed at the town's western entrance.

"When the child Hardy was born," said Sir James, "the doctor thought him dead and dropped him into a basket.

"That was an anxious moment for this country. But a woman stepped forward to make sure and found he was alive. A statue to this woman—Mr. Kennington could have done worse than give us that.

"What interests me still more is this:

"Was Hardy shamming in the basket? If so, that was the only time in his life that he ever shammed.

"Yet knowing what we know of him now, we may think that at his first sight of life he liked it so little that he lay very still. There never was any more faltering.

"The undaunted mind—that was Hardy. He was a great man. That was his hard fate."

Little Green House on K Street Now Open for Business

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Wide windows have been cut into the once secretive front of "The Little Green House on K Street"—it has gone commercial.

Seven years ago it was a fifteen day sensation as weeping Roxie Stinson spoke about her dead ex-husband, Jess Smith; his friend, Attorney General Daugherty, and others, before a crammed senate committee room at the capitol. Again and again "The Little Green House on K Street" cropped up.

Back in the Harding administration, Miss Stinson testified, there had been "meetings and deals there, because they could be private." "The Little Green House on K Street" has three stories with fifteen rooms.

Sugar Hastens Cancer Deaths, Chemists Say

Alcohol Found in Drys, Also in Pigs.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Sugar is a "fuel" for cancer and its regulation in diet is essential for cancer treatment, the American Chemical society was told today. The report came from the cancer research department of the University of Pennsylvania, from work done by Gladys E. Woodward and Edith G. Fry, under direction of Ellice McDonald, M. D.

"In cancer," said Mr. McDonald, in explaining the technical report, "the essential difference between tumor tissue and normal tissue is the ability of cancer to digest the animal sugar [or glycerin] in a different and more expeditious way than normal.

"The greater the amount of sugar there is in the blood of cancer patients, the shorter is the expectation of their lives. There is a greater growth of the cancer when there is a large amount of sugar in the blood. Cancer patients with a low blood sugar respond well to treatment and have a better chance of survival with slow growth of the tumor."

New evidence of existence of alcohol in brains, livers, and blood of persons who are not known either to drink or take it in any known form, was presented to the biological division.

The alcohol was "ethyl," the same substance as the "100 proof" used in drinks, and was found in all persons tested.

The results bear on an old scientific controversy, some previous tests having found no alcohol while others reported detecting it. The amounts obtained by the new method were exceedingly small, and appeared in dogs and pigs as well as in humans.

"The alcohol which we isolated," said Dr. Gettler, "is present normally in the living tissues during life. The facts which prove this are that many of the tissues used were analyzed within 15 minutes after death. The human blood samples were taken from living individuals and analysis started right after the taking of the blood. Analysis of the same sample of tissue or blood after standing 24 hours in a refrigerator gave the same alcoholic content."

The average alcohol found in the human brain was .0004 per cent; liver, .00256 per cent; blood, .004 per cent; dog's brain, .0003; liver, .0007; blood, .0013; pig's brain, .00007.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Employment of Jacob L. Crane Jr. of Chicago to make a survey on which to base the state's 25 year conservation program was recommended today by a joint committee representing the state board of conservation and the fish and game commission. Ralph Pittinger, secretary of the executive council, was instructed to draw a contract for submission to the two bodies and to Crane.

Ask 13 Million Relief Fund for the Jobless

Cook County Agencies Busy with Budgets.

Cook county residents must supply $5,000,000 this winter for public relief in addition to the $8,000,000 for use throughout the state to be raised by Gov. Emmerson's commission, chiefly for private family relief. That's the opinion efpressed yesterday by Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

W. S. REYNOLDS.

Mr. Reynolds, who is also chairman of the advisory board of the bureau of public welfare, appeared before an executive session of the county committee on public welfare. He told how the bureau already is meeting with private agencies to discuss ways and means of relieving suffering among the unemployed this winter. He said the county board should also meet with private agencies, adding that only by a combination of public and private funds could the approaching emergency be met.

"The governor's committee is setting out to raise $8,000,000 by public subscription. Of that about $7,500,000 will go for private family relief," Mr. Reynolds said. "It is absolutely imperative that the county find at least $5,000,000 somewhere for public relief. In conjunction with private agencies a plan can be worked out and it must be done."

Among the suggestions offered was that the highway tax on real estate which is expected to be near the sum needed, be transferred to the contingent fund for use in public relief. The commissioners, however, announced that more meetings will be held until a workable plan is formed.

Coincident with the anticipation that the additional five millions will be needed to aid in the alleviation of suffering came a call for nonprofessional women to aid this winter in administering care to the thousands of needy families. This was issued by Mrs. Helen Cody Baker of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

A volunteer training and placement bureau headed by Mrs. Edward Brown, a graduate of Smith college, has been opened in room 1210 of the council's offices at 203 North Wabash avenue. She will interview volunteers and advise them in their choice of work.

"Every welfare agency in the city will be taxed to the limit of its resources to meet the demands of want and privation during this coming winter," Mrs. Helen Cody Baker of the council said in issuing the call. "Much of the routine work of our relief organizations can be done by nonprofessional women who are not looking for paid employment but who want to help hold needy homes together by giving their time, energy, and enthusiasm as well as their money.

"There are countless ways in which intelligent women can be of service. There are babies to be weighed, dressings to be made for the sick, neighborhood visiting, classes for boys and girls in the settlements to be directed, 'case work aid' for the charities and county bureau, office work, and motor service."

So that they may understand the social service program of the city, a brief training course in volunteer social service work will be given all applicants accepted by the bureau, Mrs. Baker said. These applicants must first be interviewed by Mrs. Brown.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Four Chicagoans, it was announced today, have been appointed as members of one of the three main subcommittees which will function as parts of the President's new relief organization, headed by Walter S. Gifford.

H. A. WHEELER.
[Kaufman-Fabry.]

Harry A. Wheeler, chairman of the board of the First National bank of Chicago, were appointed chairman of the committee on unemployment plans and suggestions, and three other Chicagoans were appointed to serve with him. The three are W. Rufus Abbott, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company; Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the board of the Hurley Machine company of Chicago and war-time head of the United States shipping board, and Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester company and former chairman of the federal farm board.

Mr. Wheeler's committee will be responsible for the development and extension of any emergency industrial policy which may be found necessary. It will also give consideration to means for providing additional employment through the numerous suggestions for relieving the present unemployment situation which are being received at the organization's offices.

Will H. Hays Heads Movie Group's Relief Committee.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Will H. Hays was made chairman today of a nation-wide committee of motion pictures producers, theater operators and others of the industry for unemployment relief.

The committee, formed at a meeting in the Hays organization offices, will undertake to coördinate the industry's resources, it was announced, in conjunction with the relief program initiated by President Hoover.

SYNOPSIS.

[illegible] is owner of a ranch which drought has almost ruined and starved the [illegible] friends from the east come as paying guests. Lee quarrels with her ranch [illegible] Brennan, partly on account of a new hand, named Smith, she hired [illegible] permission, and partly because she rejects his love suit. Brennan is discharged [illegible] foreman. Dunc Darrett, an old ranch helper, recognizes Smith as Jack Hadley, [illegible] man of California, whose father was murdered by outlaws. Hadley tells [illegible] he is searching for the murderer of his father. Lee leases a Mexican ranch [illegible] the herd there. Mrs. Doris Silver, a flirtatious friend of Lee's, goes on ahead [illegible] ranche. Brennan drops in on her just before Jack Hadley, who has been [illegible] Lee, arrives. Hadley drives to Palo Duro for supplies and takes Doris with [illegible] wanders off and is abducted and Hadley has to fight several natives to rescue [illegible] breaks out. Megares, boozy man of the border, is head of it, with [illegible] hand man. Brennan tries to get Hadley, but he escapes. Hadley and [illegible] Megares to get their story to him before Brennan.

INSTALLMENT XVI.

LUNCHEON WITH A WAR CHIEF.

"[illegible] the John Hadley connected with the Visalia Oil company?"

"Out of a clear sky," Jack said with a shrug.

"I [illegible] I have not kept you waiting. It is unfortunate. I did not retire [illegible] dawn."

"[illegible] does not matter, since we have the pleasure of seeing you [illegible]," Jack assured him. "By the way, general, we are not quite sure [illegible] we are to regard ourselves as prisoners."

"Consider yourselves my guests while here. In such times, with cut-[illegible] riff-raff floating about, it is necessary to protect neutrals. You will [illegible] that, I am sure."

His gaze rested upon the young woman. Her brown beauty he found [illegible] to look at. Her silk knitted suit set off to advantage her slender curves. [illegible] something gallant about her poise, about the lift of the spirited [illegible] head. Megares was fond of women. There had been times when they [illegible] brought him to the verge of ruin, he had more than once admitted.

"We have come to see you, Gen. Megares, about Miss Reynolds' cattle. [illegible] brought them to the Costillo rancho by arrangement with the then [illegible] government. She comes to you in person because she desires to have [illegible] understanding with the new régime."

"That is well. I feel sure Miss Reynolds and I can work together. You [illegible] with me while we discuss such little matters as are necessary."

"That will be a pleasure," Lee said.

He could have done justice to a much worse luncheon than the one to [illegible] sat down. The cabrillo, fresh from the gulf, was delicious, and [illegible] were excellently cooked.

"You have saved two starving tourists, general," she told him, not too [illegible].

"I pay a debt, señorita, for you, I understand, desire to help save our [illegible] army from possible hunger," he answered.

There was something gallant about her poise.

[illegible] amount of saving, general. An army can get so hungry. It [illegible] me out of my little herd so quickly."

"We mustn't permit that," Megares assured her. "We must find a way, [illegible] I, to prevent it. Eh, Señor Hadley?"

"I'm sure Miss Reynolds can rely on your sense of justice," the Amer-[illegible] replied evenly.

"Indeed, yes! My sense of justice!" The bandit chief laughed, seeming [illegible] the flavor of the phrase as applied to him. Megares' manner made [illegible] money. She reverted to the business that had brought her here. She [illegible] the situation, the enmity of her ex-foreman, his determination to [illegible] her.

"Col. Brennan is a diamond in the rough," Megares said with a sweep [illegible] of the hand that disposed of that officer. "It will be better for us to settle [illegible] little matters together, you and I, Miss Reynolds."

"I want to be reasonable," she said. "But that is not what Ranse [illegible] wants." He came to get twenty-five beef steers. He grew annoyed [illegible] at last fifty."

"War is war, my dear," he said. "It is well to have a friend at court. [illegible] must put a curb on Col. Brennan, I think."

"Tell Col. Brennan to wait until I'm through lunch," Megares said [illegible].

During the cigarets Megares broached again the business that had [illegible] them. He suggested that she sell to the insurgent government a few [illegible] in order to satisfy public opinion. Unfortunately he could not pay cash. [illegible] would give a promissory note on the treasury.

Lee agreed. "I'll be frank, general. I can't afford to be generous, because [illegible] need money. Would twenty-five beef steers be enough?"

"Quite." The rebel chief turned to the soldier waiting on them. "Tell [illegible] I will see him now."

Lee had her back to the door. She could not see Ranse as he strode into [illegible] room, but at his first words she knew he was black as a thundercloud.

"I've been up all night getting supplies for your rabble," he stormed. "We had no food today."

"You forget that you're in the army now, colonel," the Mexican cut in [illegible]. "Have you something to report to me?"

"Report to you?"

"You man!" he cried.

"My guest you refer to, colonel?" Megares asked silkily.

"Your guest? Do you know who he is? He claims his name's Smith. It's a lie. He's tricking you. If you knew—"

"Am I be wrong?" The eyes of the bandit chief flashed warning at Brennan. "Isn't this Mr. John Hadley, president of the Visalia Oil Products [illegible]?"

"I don't know anything about that. He's the son of that Jack Hadley [illegible] killed at the Isabella mine fifteen years ago."

"Regrettable, I'm sure, though I am not acquainted with the circum-[illegible] and never had the pleasure of meeting your father, Mr. Hadley." The black eyes of Megares met the gaze of his guest steadily. "I judge, from [illegible] Col. Brennan says, rather abruptly, that he is better informed than I."

Jack looked at Brennan. "This man worked for my father at one time. [illegible] betrayed him to his death by bringing Francisco and his gang to hold [illegible] the mine pay roll."

"Ah! A bad man that Francisco. Indeed, yes. He was a devil from [illegible]. I sent him back to the father of all devils. Perhaps Mr. Hadley [illegible] a slight debt for that."

Jack bowed, his face impassive. "I shall try to repay my debt to you, [illegible]. I acknowledge it a great one."

Brennan had made another discovery. The lady with her back to him [illegible] her former boss. He broke out bitterly.

"Is this a party of my enemies, Megares? Did you invite them here [illegible]?"

The rebel leader struck the table with his knuckles. "You forget your-[illegible], colonel. My title is general. I am your superior officer. Remember that."

Brennan struggled with his rage and choked down the expression of it. "All right—general, if that's what you want," he said sullenly. "But as [illegible] offense. I've got my rights. This woman shot me—tried to kill me—less [illegible] a month ago. She made trouble yesterday when I went for the cattle. [illegible] though she's your guest I'm going to tell you that she's against us."

"Against us? Or against you, colonel?" Megares asked, almost in a [illegible].

"And this man—this Hadley. He's the fellow came to town and raised a [illegible] three or four days ago, the one who sent Juan Peres and two others to [illegible] hospital."

Megares raised his eyebrows. "Is he raving, Mr. Hadley?"

"Unfortunately no, general. Soldiers will be a little rough when they [illegible] been drinking. They had enticed a young lady who was with me into [illegible] house and carried her upstairs. The lady is a guest of Miss Reynolds, [illegible] wife of a prominent capitalist in Philadelphia. Perhaps you have heard [illegible] of—Harold Silver. I went in and explained to the men that it wouldn't [illegible]. Some of them got a little excited, and we pushed each other around. A [illegible] broke on the balcony and two or three fell and got hurt. I regret it [illegible] greatly. It would be a pleasure to me to pay all bills and plaster all hurt [illegible] with poultices of greenbacks."

"And when I went out to the Costillo hacienda yesterday he refused to [illegible] let me arrest him," Brennan cried. "He ran to a bunk house and bar-[illegible]ded it, then slipped out of a back window."

"After Col. Brennan had shot at me twice. I didn't dare trust my life [illegible] him, general. I preferred to come in and see you in person."

"You shot at him, colonel? Why?"

"I told you why. He wouldn't surrender."

"That's not why," Lee corrected. "He shot at Mr. Hadley after he [illegible] Brennan of killing his father."

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Picking a Stranger's Flowers.

A club friend had told me to come [illegible] her garden any time and pick all [illegible] flowers I wanted. She said I might [illegible] find her at home, as she went out [illegible], but to just go in and help my-[illegible]self. One day, wanting some flowers [illegible] a hospital, I decided to take ad-[illegible]vantage of her offer.

[illegible] the door bell and receiving no response, I went back to where the garden was a riot of gorgeous color in midsummer, and picked a goodly number of fine blooms. I was just going out, when I met an unknown lady coming in. She looked at me coldly.

"Mrs. B. wasn't in," I said, still confidently, "but I know she'll not mind."

Mountains Call to Chicagoans During Autumn

BY THALIA.

THE White Mountains resort district in New Hampshire has had several Chicago visitors recently and more are expected for the smart season which begins after Labor day. Eastern people go to the seashore for the early part of the summer, and the mountains for September. The Donald Ryersons, who have been motoring through New England, have been at the Mount Washington in Bretton Woods, and the Albert Blake Dicks, who are visiting friends, and the young Fairbank Carpenters have also been at Bretton Woods.

Dick Neff and his sisters, Miss Barbara and Miss Louise Neff, were at Franconia, N. H. Bradford Wells has been spending three weeks at the Waumbek in Jefferson, where the Calvin Kings, Mrs. N. C. King and Newton King are also staying. Mr. King played in an exhibition golf match this week, and both he and Mrs. King attended a moonlight putting match last night which was followed by a supper cooked over the coals of a big bonfire and served around a campfire. Miss Helen Wadsworth entertained at the dinner and cabaret at the Mountain View house on Saturday evening. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham is to open her Playhouse at Sugar Hill on Friday evening for the third and last of the three subscription supper dances she has arranged for the benefit of the Littleton hospital. Mrs. Winterbotham will remain at her summer place until quite late in the season.

Helen Rend Gets Indain Name During Canadian Trip.

The beguiling label "Chief Yesterday's Fish" was bestowed on Miss Helen Rand during a solemn ceremony whereby she became a member of a tribe of Indians up in Canada recently. Her induction into the tribe was one of the incidents of her cruise with Commander and Mrs. E. F. MacDonald aboard the Mizpah up in Georgian bay and around there. She departs on Friday to spend the Labor day week-end with the Frazier Jelkes at Newport, after which she is to meet her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Rend, in New York City and return with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Harvey of Lake Forest are in Santa Fé, N. M., for the wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Laura Cornell to their son, Stewart Harvey, and they won't be returning to Lake Forest for a week or so. The bride is an artist and is the daughter of Mrs. John Cornell of New York.

Another Winnetka debutante will be Miss Dorothy Eustis Gerhard, daughter of Dr. E. Ashley Gerhard, rector of Christ church, and Mrs. Gerhard, who will be presented by her parents at a tea on Friday, Dec. 18. Miss Gerhard is a student at Bryn Mawr, so her debut is timed for his Christmas vacation. She will be assisted by a group of Winnetka buds.

I hear tell—that Princess Aleka Rostislav has deserted her job in the loop and is now with one of the Upper Avenue dress shops . . . that Miss Betty Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poole, is visiting Miss Cornelia Fairbanks at Harbor Point . . . that the Louis Sudlers have gone back to Harbor Point after coming down from there to be at Frances Richardson's and Mike Crawford's wedding last Saturday . . . that Johnny Lock, one of the more popular amateur entertainers hereabouts, has gone to New York and is to go on the stage.

More returned summer travelers—Mrs. M. Paul Noyes and Mrs. William S. Ennis, from a motor trip and round of visits in the east . . . the W. Paul McBrides from a trip to Murray bay, Canada . . . Mrs. Victor C. Sanborn from a visit at Westport Point, Mass., with Mrs. K. Spicer . . . Mrs. John Adams Chapman of Lake Forest and her daughters, from Bar Harbor . . . Mr. and Mrs. Burt A. Massee from a month in the Colorado mountains . . . William Benson Storey, from a longer than usual summer stay at his place in Santa Barbara. Mrs. Storey is remaining on for a while and has with her for a fortnight her son, Hall Roe, and his son, Benson Roe . . . the William H. Mitchells and their children, from Santa Barbara, whence they went for the wedding of Mrs. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. John Irving Shaw, née Barbara King.

Because the bride's family is in mourning the wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Theodora Platt to George V. Bobrinskoy was a comparatively small affair. The ceremony took place in the Lady chapel of St. Luke's church in Evanston and afterwards there was a reception at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Henry Russell Platt. The bridal gown of white satin had insets of rose point lace in the bodice and a flounce of the lace at the skirt hem. A cap of rose point held the tulle veil in place.

The bride's cousin, Miss Martha Chase of Concord, Mass., who was her only attendant, wore a pale blue lace frock with a hat of deeper blue and carried pink roses. Mrs. Platt wore mourning white. John Reeves of Philadelphia was best man for the groom.

After Nov. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Bobrinskoy will reside at 1366 East 57th street, close to the university, where he is assistant professor of Sanskrit.

Women Show Wisdom In Reducing Methods, Claims Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I was greatly impressed with the high order of intelligence exhibited toward the whole reducing business, as indicated in the letters submitted in the contest. Of course, a great deal of information has been broadcast during the last few years and it would be difficult for any newspaper or magazine-reading woman to escape eye contact with this information.

Even so, there has developed a most satisfactory class of pupils throughout the land of womankind. The knowledge of foods that are fattening and those that are not; knowledge of maintenance diets; knowledge of calorie value; of exercise needs, of all the other things involved in keeping the weight under healthy control, is what pleases this instructor, anyway.

And the discoveries women have made for themselves in regard to quick and easy means of fat removal are another encouraging factor to those interested in seeing that weight control is wisely practised. Some casualties were reported, of course. Some women had to put themselves in a physician's hands to be convinced that they were pursuing a wrong reducing course. But the fact that they were willing to see and be guided along more sensible lines is good stuff, too.

The most satisfactory thing of all appeared in the reports of weight losses of anywhere from fifteen to fifty pounds, the loss conducted on sane programs. It was not only excess weight loss I refer to, but reports of ailments, such as constipation, eczema, pimples, acne, oily skin, to name a few, that had been corrected through wiser eating and exercising.

No matter what may be said about the casualties due to the hectic pursuit of leaner silhouettes, it must be agreed that thousands of women have found better health, renewed vigor and youth in their pursuit. That I have fully proved by letters submitted in the contest.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

C. M.: PEROXIDE OF HYDROgen diluted with water—half and half—may be used for bleaching the elbows. Lemon juice is effective as a bleach.

E. H. B.: MASSAGE OLIVE OIL or a good cold cream into the parts which have become calloused to soften the callouses.

JOBLESS IN GERMANY INCLUDE 30,000 WITH UNIVERSITY DEGREES

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—At least 30,000 of Germany's four million or more jobless are graduates of universities—men and women who studied at universities and took their degrees of doctor—according to figures published in the Jena monthly, Die Tat. This number threatens to swell considerably in the course of the next four years. A yearly average of 25,000 students will complete their university studies and ask for jobs. The chance of their getting work is next to nil.

The number of trained university men far exceeds the demand with the single exception of theologians. Of 40,000 engineers who graduated from institutions of higher learning recently, approximately 12,000 are out of jobs; of 50,000 practicing doctors in Germany, at least 4,000 cannot earn their living. There is no chance for students of philology and law, because those professions are overcrowded. At present there are about 17,000 lawyers in Germany, or one lawyer for 3,800 inhabitants.

The churches are better off. Students of theology have all found jobs; 25,000 university men are employed by the Catholic church in Germany and 16,000 by the Lutheran church. There is room for more, but young German students are not keenly interested in church careers.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Bear of 1145 Sheridan road, Evanston, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanore Hornbeck Bear, to William Prufrock Pope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pope of 5555 Hyde Park boulevard. Miss Bear is a graduate of Wellesley college, class of 1930, and Mr. Pope was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1928. He is a member of Sigma Phi fraternity. The date of the wedding is not yet definite, but is to be sometime in October.

WEDDING

Prof. and Mrs. D. H. Trowbridge of Oak Park announce the marriage of their daughter, Virginia, to Willard E. Lowry, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lowry of Toledo, O., on Aug. 22 at Douglas Lake, Mich. Both the bride and groom were graduated from the University of Michigan in 1930. Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island and Les Cheneaux islands, they are to reside in Milwaukee.

Sally's Boys, Girls to Attend Movie of Racing World Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Are you all set for a marvelous time today, boys and girls? You know this is to be our last party of the season, and we're celebrating at the Oriental theater, where one of the best shows of the summer is in progress.

We'll see Clark Gable and Madge Evans in "Sporting Blood," an excellent picture, the plot of which revolves about a race horse. And we'll see a splendid stage show which boasts as its leading attraction that musical comedy and vaudeville favorite, Nan Halperin. Yes, the hundred boys and girls who won invitations to this party were indeed fortunate and they may expect to have a rollicking good time.

I hope that all your invitations arrived. They were mailed a few days ago, and you should have received them by this time.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The secretary of state and Mrs. H. L. Stimson will make a visit to their country home, Highhold, near West Hills, L. I., before returning to their Washington home after landing tomorrow from England. They will remain at Highhold until after Labor day.

Col. and Mrs. Morris E. Locke, the latter a granddaughter of the late Senator and Mrs. James McMillan of Detroit, Mich., have returned to this country accompanied by Mrs. Locke's daughter, Miss Mary Preston Gibson, who has been visiting her aunt, Lady Harrington, nee McMillan, in England.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Fulton of Winnetka, Ill., have taken an apartment at Wardman Park hotel for an indefinite stay. They have their two small children with them.

Bright Sayings of the Children

While preparing toast for our breakfast, on an electric toaster, my son, age 3 years, said, "Please, daddy, may I have some?"

"Some what?" I inquired.

Mother was coaxing Sally Lou to eat. "If you don't eat these carrots mother is going away."

Jackets Are Preferred for Spectator Sports

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—When the call comes for football this fall whole herds of smart little fur jackets are going to come running. Paris dressmakers are getting out new editions of the fur sports jacket all the time. Furriers are doing ditto. Women with half-worn fur coats wholly demoded are cutting them down into smart wraps which they can begin to wear by the time of the first frost in France.

French couturiers are talking about miniature dolmans of ermine, and pelerines of mink to wear with period frills and furbelows, but the sports jacket of fur is staying modern, thank you. These sports jackets as shown by Paris are any length from bolero down to three-quarters, and they are fashioned of the hardier breeds of pelts like caracul, pony, and nutria. They are cut on tailored lines, and the newest ones have great big revers and pocket edition collars. That's what gives them the French accent. You're supposed to wear big woolly scarfs around your necks, my dears, if it turns cold.

The white caracul jacket from Worth, sketched today, gives you the idea of the accepted Parisian cut for the sports jacket. It doesn't meet down the front at all, but that is where the wooly scarf comes in, and thus, the jacket can be worn as early as September. The extravagant revers of this model, and its in-front-only belt with tab ends, made of cloth, give it heap big cachet. The bishop sleeves, with their fur ruffles at the wrists, are tricky details. At the back this jacket is fitted in by curved seams as shown in the figure seated in the background.

Food Talk.

Miss E. B. S. writes: "What are you able to tell me about the care of canned food in the home? I have always been afraid of ptomaine poisoning resulting from leaving the foods in the tin after they have once been opened and have been recently informed I was wrong in so thinking."

Canned foods, whether they are home or commercial products, are so much in use at the present time that we are prone to consider ourselves poor housekeepers if we haven't a good supply on hand. For this reason and because several more of you may think as Miss E. B. S. does I want to quote a statement from the National Canners' association to reassure you:

"The home maker is often worried about leaving canned food in the can after the can has been opened. There is nothing in the can or in the material going into the structure of the can that is in any way injurious to health. The bureau of chemistry and soils of the United States department of agriculture carried on a three year study which demonstrated that there is nothing about a tin can that can in itself cause spoilage or be harmful from a health standpoint.

"Foods left in an open vessel of any kind should, of course, be kept cold and should be protected from dust, flies, or vermin, which will contaminate food, causing it to spoil. As soon as a can is opened the food is no longer sterile, and it is subject to spoilage just as any other cooked food would be if it were improperly cared for."

MELON BALL COCKTAIL.

Cut the melon in half and remove the seeds. Scoop out in balls, using either a French cutter or the half-teaspoon of your measuring set. Cover the balls with ginger ale. Place in a tray in your refrigerator and chill thoroughly, but do not freeze. Serve in cocktail glasses garnished with mint.

BAKED BROWN BREAD.

1 cup of sugar
1 teaspoon of salt
2 cups of sour milk
2 teaspoons of soda (dissolved in the milk)
2½ cups of graham flour
½ cup of white flour
1 teaspoon of baking powder (sifted with the two flours)
2 eggs (well beaten)
Raisins and nuts if desired

Put the ingredients together in the order given and bake 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Behavior Difficulties May Have Foundation in Child's Companion

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

A man embezzles—or he commits a murder—or he neglects his family and his business. It is puzzling. "Cherchez la femme," detectives used to say—look for the woman.

A child is disobedient—sprouts unaccountable habits—develops temper tantrums. His mother writes, "What can I do to him?" The answer should be, in nine cases out of ten, similar to that of the detectives—cherchez la femme. Or rather look for the grown person whose management of him calls forth this behavior. Because it is the adult in charge who is probably the behavior problem—who creates the trouble.

Take the following description in a letter: "I have a little boy, 4 years old, who screams at the top of his lungs if things are not just as he wants them, or if he doesn't get his way. If my patience lasts I try not to mind him, but sometimes I cannot stand him and I punish him. How can I help him to avoid these temper tantrums?

How can I help this mother?

If it were humanly or economically possible and I were this mother, I would give up my work and take care of the little boy myself.

If, however, I were my own support and his, I would dismiss the maid and go on a thorough search for the right kind of girl to run my child and my house. It is wrong for a little 4 year old, developing so interestingly and fast, to be cared for by an impatient person. It is enough to make him scream and have tantrums. It's a good thing he reacts that way instead of being crushed by it.

In choosing a maid I would consider first her qualifications as a nurse, and secondly as a housekeeper. One couldn't easily train her to be kind and patient, but one could train a person to cook and clean.

That is my advice. In addition I think this mother would be helped by ideas on management such as those contained in our rather full treatment of "How to Win Obedience" and "Sidelights on Stubbornness."

FARMERS GO ON STRIKE AGAINST MILK COMPANY

Demand St. Louis Concern Enter Agreement.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Farmers of southern Illinois and eastern Missouri affiliated with the Sanitary Milk Producers, Inc., of St. Louis are on a strike in an effort to prevent the sale of milk to the Pevely Dairy company, the city's largest distributor, which has refused to enter into an agreement with the producers' association.

Several hundred members of the association met at St. Jacob, Ill., several miles east of St. Louis, Monday and voted to sell no more milk to the Pevely company. This was followed shortly by the seizure of two Pevely trucks near St. Jacob and the destruction of between 5,000 and 6,000 gallons of milk.

Police Guard Trucks.

The Pevely company appealed to the Illinois state highway police, which guarded its trucks yesterday and today between milk stations in Illinois and the center of the several bridges spanning the Mississippi river here. However, several privately owned trucks with milk consigned to the Pevely plants in St. Louis were seized yesterday and the products destroyed.

Twenty-two men describing themselves as Illinois dairy farmers were arrested yesterday by St. Louis police after they had trailed two Pevely trucks to the center of the McKinley bridge. They later were released. Other arrests on charges of destruction of property were reported in Illinois counties yesterday.

Company Claims Surplus.

No reports of violence had been received here today. A conference to discuss the situation was called at Effingham, Ill., this afternoon but the Pevely company refused to participate, its officials declaring they had not received an invitation to attend.

Pevely officials declare that while their supply has been cut down, there is no danger of a milk shortage in St. Louis, as they have a large surplus on hand. Other large St. Louis dairies are cooperating with the producers' association under a contract entered into a year ago as a result of negotiations sponsored by the consumers' milk commission of St. Louis.

CYCLONE HOVERS NEAR VIRGIN ISLES FOR THREE DAYS

HAVANA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A reported cyclonic disturbance near the Virgin islands today was classed by Father Gutierres Lanza, in charge of Belem observatory here, as nothing more than an "abnormality," without danger for Cuba or other territory.

The phenomenon, located this morning just north of St. Thomas island of the Virgin group, is not moving, Father Lanza said, nor has it taken on any threatening aspect, although it has been in existence three days. Barometric conditions in other territory under observation by the Belem station were normal or nearly so, Father Lanza said.

Embezzlement Suspect Sought 8 Months Seized

Elmer Selz, 42 years old, 781 East Northmore road, Lake Forest, formerly a cashier for THE TRIBUNE, was held in the detective bureau last night, charged with larceny by embezzlement, in connection with the theft of $6,200 from his former employers. Police had searched for him for more than eight months. The thefts totaling the above amount occured nearly a year ago. Selz was seized by Sergts. Benjamin Ryan and Michael Phelan in the Jordon Chicago Sales company at 2550 South Michigan avenue, where he had been working.

Bullet Grazes Policeman, Held Up by Three Gunmen

Three gunmen held up Policeman Alfred Deuver as he was putting his automobile into the garage at his home at 1923 Oakdale avenue late last night. "I know that fellow, he's a copper," shouted one of the men. "Give it to him." There was a shot. The bullet pierced Policeman Deuver's coat and grazed his body, leaving a welt. Deuver fired in return and the robbers fled.

De Priest at White House to Plead for Negro Unit

NIGHT CLUB GIRL AND MAN HELD FOR GANG DEATH

New York, Sept. 3 [Thursday].—[Special.]—Paul Carbo, New York gangster and "muscle man," and Virginia Lee, former Atlantic City night club entertainer, were arrested early this morning in the Cambridge hotel in West 68th street in connection with the murder in Atlantic City last Saturday of Michael J. [Mickey] Duffy, Philadelphia racketeer.

Their arrest was the result of a phone message received here from the Atlantic City chief of police. Both prisoners were charged with being fugitives from justice pending the arrival of New Jersey police.

Carbo, who is 27, and said he was a "bus inspector," is variously known to the police as Paul Martin, Frankie Tucker, Dago Frank, and Jimmy the Wop.

According to the police he is wanted in connection with the murder of a Bronx butcher named Weber.

Miss Lee is 19. She said she merely was visiting Carbo at the hotel and knew nothing of the murder of Duffy. At one time she was an entertainer in the Silver Slipper club in Atlantic City.

JUDGES ASK O. K. ON PAY ROLL OF PUBLIC DEFENDER

Superior Judge Ross C. Hall and Judge Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday asked the county board finance committee to approve the pay roll for the public defender, Benjamin Bachrach, and his five assistants, who were left off the rolls approved by board action last week. The committee agreed to reconsider the matter and reserved action until Chief Justice Elect Harry Fisher of the Criminal court returns from his vacation to add his request to those of the other judges.

Both the jurists who appeared yesterday praised the work of the defender and declared that the action of the board in including an appropriation for the office in the 1931 budget was within the power of the commissioners.

Judge John P. McGoorty, now chief justice of the Criminal court, declared in a letter addressed to the board that $250,000 in jurors' fees had been saved by the office and crowded jails and court dockets cleared. A total of 1,695 defendants were represented in the courts and 1,829 cases were brought to trial through the office this year, he said.

FOSHAY DEFENDANTS LOSE EFFORT TO HAVE BONUS EXHIBIT BARRED

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Efforts of defense counsel to have rejected an exhibit regarding a half million dollar bonus voted officials of the W. B. Foshay enterprises failed today in the federal District court trial of Foshay and six former officers of his companies.

Judge J. W. Molyneaux ruled the exhibit pertinent to the case. It was presented by the government to support allegations the defendants, charged with using the mails to defraud in operations of $30,000,000 enterprises, did not abide by sound business principles.

Defense counsel contended the indictments contained no reference to bonuses and Attorney Josiah Brill asked for a bill of particulars to clarify the allegation of unsound business principles. Judge Molyneaux denied a motion for a bill of particulars.

7 INCHES OF RAIN DOWNSTATE END WATER SHORTAGE

Johnston City, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—More than seven inches of rain were recorded here for the last twelve hours, setting what is believed to be an all time record.

Water Shortage Over.

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Fear that a water shortage would overtake several southern Illinois towns this fall has been virtually dispelled with the falling last night of the heaviest rain in four years, measuring 3.1 inches.

One Shot, One Stabbed in Quarrel over Woman

Kannie Guide, 30 years old, 827 North La Salle street, was shot in the left leg and Santajo Peras, 32, of 604½ North Clark street, was stabbed in the right hand early this morning in a fight in the latter's room. Both are Filipinos. Police said that Peras resented Guide's treatment of Mrs. Eleanor Guide, white, and that Guide slashed him with a knife. Peras then shot Guide. Guide's wife and the two men were arrested.

TWO VETERANS, SIX JUNIORS WIN IN U. S. GOLF

SOX WIN, 3 TO 2, DESPITE LUKE; THEN TIE, 4 TO 4

Darkness Stops 2d Indian Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Red Faber suffered along to another hairbreadth victory yesterday when he beat the Cleveland Indians, 1 to 0, in the first game of a double header. Old Red pitched well but in the face of some of the most shocktopping ever perpetrated in a junior league ball park.

In the second game Tommy Thomas started in a fair way to set a precedent by protecting a fat lead—4 to 0, it was on this occasion—but Tommy weakened just in time to give the Indians a 4 to 4 tie before the second game was called in the sixth on account of darkness.

It was Faber's ninth victory and might have been his 20th if the Sox were in the habit of furnishing Red with the kind of leads Thomas blows every time out. But they make Red work for his wins and yesterday certainly was no exception.

Last Call: Luke's Gonna Throw.

Appling's clumsy wabbling about let the old boy constantly in hot water. Luke made three errors and would have had three more but for some inspired acrobatics at first base by Lu Blue.

As usual, the Sox started off in Red's behalf with a string of zeros, but in the sixth Faber opened with a single, his fourth hit of the season and his second of the week. This started a rally which reached its climax when Johnny Watwood doubled with the bases full to drive in two runs and give the Sox a 2 to 1 lead. The Indians tied the count in the seventh, but the Sox came back to score the winning run on a single by Blue, a sacrifice by Faber, an error, and a single by Billy Sullivan.

In the second game the Sox made two runs in the first inning and two more in the third to give Thomas the usual plump advantage. For four innings Tommy pitched great ball and it looked that he might bear up, at least until rain and darkness would end the contest. But Tommy couldn't stand it. The Indians made four hits or two runs in the fifth and they made three hits for two more runs and a tie in the sixth.

Mr. Jolley Just Forgot.

Just the game might not revert to the fifth and give the Sox a 4 to 2 victory, the umpires ordered the last of the sixth played in the dark. Appling was on base with two out in the sixth, after forcing Watwood, who had singled. Jolley batted for Kerr, and, after fouling off numerous strikes while waiting for a cloudburst, forgot to swing at one and was called out. Then the game was called.

The Detroit Tigers will arrive today for a four game series. In view of the fact that the groundkeepers did not place the tarpaulin over the diamond after yesterday's show, it appears that the management would not be adverse to giving the ladies' day customers a double header tomorrow. But that's just a guess.

FIRST GAME

In the third inning the Indians got home the first run of the afternoon. Wyatt led off with a double and scored on Kamm's single to left. Harder sacrificed and Kamm went to third on Averill's out. The inning ended when Blue made the first of his miracle stops on one of Appling's crazy throws.

Appling didn't give Blue a chance to catch his throw on the grounder with which Averill opened the fourth. Averill was on second when the ball eventually was found. Averill went to third, but Vosmik flied to Reynolds and Averill was doubled at the plate.

Of Red Starts Rally.

It was three up and three down for Faber from the second inning until the sixth. Faber led off the sixth with his fourth hit of the year, a single to right, and Blue walked. Sullivan forced Blue and Faber pulled up at third. Reynolds popped a weak fly to Averill and Faber held first, then Fonseca walked, filling the bases. Watwood doubled over third, scoring Faber and Sullivan, Fonseca

Pity the Poor Amateur; He Is on the Spot

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The New York prize fight commission has taken over control of amateur boxing throughout the state, and in the first demonstration of this new authority the police drove away 2,000 customers from an unauthorized meeting which was to have been conducted under a license of the Amateur Athletic union. The A. A. U. refused to recognize the authority of the prize fight commission and threatens to disqualify for the national amateur championships and the Olympic championship competitions of 1932 all amateurs who fight in meets sanctioned by the commission but not approved by the A. A. U.

This puts the amateur fighters exactly in the middle of a political quarrel, and, according to precedent, they cannot hope to escape merely by going into temporary retirement. Both the commission and the A. A. U. in the past have assumed the right to command their subjects to perform whether they wished to or not, so a young man who announces that he does not choose to fight will have to fight or lose his ticket. He will then have to decide which ticket he does not choose to lose.

But if he decides to keep his A. A. U. ticket he will still not be allowed to fight, because the prize fight commission will not let him. In fact, the commission might even lock him up for attempting to fight contrary to law.

So he is damned if he does and damned if he doesn't, and the whole situation is such a one as is likely to exert a certain influence on the young athlete's respect for authority and his devotion to fair play.

Almost any authority except that of the commission would be better than the authority of the boxing department of the metropolitan A. A. U. This is the authority which drove the last Intercity Golden Gloves tournament out of New York by insisting on the employment of local officials, although local referees and judges had shown themselves incapable of nonpartisan judgment in the past.

In this case, involving the greatest amateur boxing meet ever conducted, the conduct of the A. A. U. was so similar to that of the prize fight commission in several notable affairs of the professional ring that one might have thought the prize fight commission was prompting the A. A. U. The best that can be said of the prize fight commission as a governing body in amateur boxing, however, is that it probably will be no worse than the A. A. U., which is flattering to both of them.

It is puzzling to find the prize fight commission so interested in the amateurs all of a sudden and I wonder if perhaps there is not more money in amateur promotion just now than there is in the professional racket in the depressed condition of the prize fight business. Possibly there are some deserving Democrats on the professional side who wish to organize amateur boxing clubs in order to inculcate chivalry, manly independence, and a love of fair play in the young.

It may be that even Primo Carnera, who seems to enjoy good standing and extraordinary privileges as a local Democrat, wishes to turn amateur until such time as the racket picks up again. Primo was once disqualified permanently on the testimony of an opponent who said he had to lie down to avoid being shot, but I note that he is now eligible to fight under the auspices of one of the most deserving Democrats in town, James J. Johnston.

The prize fight commission has one advantage over the A. A. U. in that it is more flexible in its judgment. When the A. A. U. makes a wrong decision it sticks by the wrong decision and alters it only to make it wronger. But when the prize fight commission makes an occasional right one it can usually be relied on to reverse itself abruptly.

The A. A. U., moreover, is badly hampered by a reactionary respect for old laws and traditions, whereas the prize fight commission makes its own precedents and rules at will and breaks them as rapidly as they are established. Thus, while the A. A. U. might find some insuperable objection to the amateurization of Primo Carnera or Jack Dempsey for the duration of the depression in the professional racket, the prize fight commis-

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—The Cubs today reached the low point of their own 1931 depression. They lost both ends of a double header to the lowly Reds, who all season had been considerate of Chicago's baseball ambitions. The scores were 7 to 4 and 8 to 4, making five triumphs the Rhinelanders have registered in 19 starts against the Cubs this season. The sad feature of it all was that only about 1,000 were on hand to see the Reds put on their biggest act of the year against foes who seemed to be just a little bit weary.

Thinking that good pitching would assure a double triumph, Hornsby gave the Reds the best he had, but it wasn't enough. Charley Root came first, but necessity moved him out for a pinch hitter. That brought Jakie May into the battle with score tied, but his southpawing let the tie dissolve in a hurry and the Cubs didn't knot it up again. Then Guy Bush stepped into the second game, but in less than five innings he was on his way and the affair was settled. Mr. Bush was hit for three runs in the fourth and two more before Les Sweetland attempted a rescue in the fifth.

Herman Has Good Day.

In both games the Chicagoans were impotent with their bats. Against Sy Johnson in the opening contest they tuned in with only seven hits, three of them by Young Billy Herman. The kid also was a dashing defender around second base. In the second game Larry Benton, once a pitching sensation with the Giants, did just about as well as Johnson had done before him. The Cubs began to hit him toward the close, but with the protection of a big lead he could afford to laugh back at them and show no concern about the eventual outcome.

Pat Malone, at present the nominee for pitching honors in the charity struggle against the White Sox next Wednesday, will work in the third of the five game series tomorrow. If he conducts himself impressively he may not be asked to labor again until the south siders are encountered. Carroll or Rixey will be the Reds' nominee.

FIRST GAME

The scoring of three runs for the Reds in the first inning of the first game began when Root hit Crabtree. The ancient Mr. Roush singled to right. The two runners scored when Hendricks' long fly dropped in the right field corner for a triple. Cuccinello looped a short hit over third to send Hendrick over the plate. The unhappy start for Root was cut short when Adair inaugurated a double play on Beck's grounder.

The Chicagoans picked up their first run in the second inning on singles by Barton, Grimm, and Herman. One more scored in the third. Adair beat out a bunt and took second on a wild pitch. Two infield outs moved him around to the plate. In the fourth the Cubs tied the score at three all. Herman whacked a double to the left in left field and scored from second when Durocher, after picking up Hartnett's grounder in deep short, threw wild to first base.

Crabtree Triples, Scores.

Root was able to maintain the tie until the sixth. Crabtree, who probably wished to celebrate a one handed catch he had pulled on Barton a moment previous, tripled to right and scored on a single by Hendrick. The Cubs tied it up again in the seventh, but only temporarily. Herman singled and went to third on Hartnett's single. Teachout ran for Gabby and Blair batted for Root. He delivered a fly to left, Herman scoring after the catch. The next two batters couldn't move Teachout off first.

May retired one man in the seventh before the Reds resumed the lead. Durocher doubled past third and scored on a somewhat fluky single to short right by Johnson. Then in the eighth Roush singled, Hen-

FOLLOWING THE AMATEUR FIELD OVER BEVERLY COURSE

Plenty of room for trouble. The twelfth at Beverly Country club, a water hole measuring 110 yards, was difficult for many contestants in the national amateur golf tournament yesterday, but Chandler Harper and George Dunlap are safely on the green. Dunlap won the match.

A putt's next. Arthur Yates, 268 pound Rochester (N. Y.) golfer, hits an approach shot to the seventh green in match with Charles Seaver of Los Angeles. Yates beat Seaver and Carey Bellew yesterday.

ALLISON, VAN RYN TAKE NATIONAL DOUBLES CROWN

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn today defeated Berkeley Bell of Austin, Tex., and Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., in the final of the golden jubilee national doubles championship at the Longwood Cricket club.

In one hour and five minutes after the start of the match, the English champions of 1929 and 1930 were receiving the huge challenge cups, filled with roses, from Referee Richard Bishop, who presented them also with jubilee medallions and small gold tennis balls. The scores were 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

CUBS PURCHASE TINNING, HURLER, FROM DEMONS

Lyle F. Tinning, a pitcher for the Des Moines club of the Western league, was purchased yesterday by the Cubs. Tinning, 24 years old, this season, has won 21 games while losing 2. He holds what is claimed as a minor league record of 16 straight victories. He won 16 and lost 11 with Des Moines last year.

Yates' 30 Foot Chip Into Cup Is the Best Shot

Arthur [Ducky] Yates executed one of the best shots of the day in the United States amateur at Beverly yesterday when he sank a 30 foot chip shot on the 13th for a birdie three in his first round match with Charlie Seaver. The boys were even at the time and the shot placed the pudgy easterner one up, the first advantage he had enjoyed during the match.

Paul Jackson of Kansas City, Mo., one of the youngster qualifiers, got quite a hand in his second round match with Fred Wright when his tee shot on the short sixth hit the pin and dropped three inches from the cup, where he holed out a birdie 2.

There was much excitement at the 4th green in the afternoon as Francis Ouimet and Frank Connelly were preparing to putt. A youngster perched high up in a tree overlooking the green toppled groundwards when the limb on which he was sitting broke. He dropped 20 feet before his fall was broken by another limb. A policeman promptly went about the task of removing all spectators from the trees.

The Seaver-Yates match attracted the largest gallery of the morning, 500 following the pair, both of whom were tied with Johnny Lehman for medalist honors. Bobby Jones joined the match

OUIMET, YATES GIVE OLD GUARD TITLE CHANCE

Jack Westland Only Chicago Survivor.

Today's Pairings

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Francis Ouimet, an elderly golfer of 38; Arthur [Ducky] Yates, who is only four years younger, and six members of the younger generation this morning are the sole survivors of the 35th annual United States amateur golf tournament at the Beverly Country club.

Fay Coleman, Los Angeles, 25 years old.

The opening match play rounds yesterday gave the experts a working basis on which to figure who might win this first tournament in which Bobby Jones is merely a spectator. The situation will be less complex this evening with the conclusion of the four 36 hole quarter final matches. The four survivors will play 36 holes tomorrow, with Saturday's title match at the same distance.

Ouimet Beats Connelly.

Ouimet, who won the amateur title in 1914, advanced to the quarter final argument by defeating young Frank Connelly of Mount Clemens, Mich., in his second round match, 5 and 4. Westland eliminated George T. Dunlap Jr. of East Orange, N. J., national intercollegiate champion, 3 and 2.

Howell, a precocious young towhead who holds the Middle Atlantic, Old Dominion and Virginia state titles, beat Owen Covey of Salt Lake City, 4 and 2. McCarthy, twice captain of Georgetown university golf team and former metropolitan winner, went into the quarter finals by defeating R. Emmet Spicer Jr. of Memphis, Tenn., one time Big Ten and public links champion, 5 and 3.

Bolstad was forced to go 19 holes, the longest match of the day, to subdue Dick Martin of Chicago, present Big Ten champion, 1 up. Yates, a familiar figure in the amateur who has never come quite this far in it, disposed of Cary Bellew Jr. of Kansas City rather easily, 6 and 4.

Coleman Upsets Somerville.

Coleman, who has made himself known in the last two amateur meets, staged somewhat of a surprise when he defeated C. Ross Somerville, Canadian amateur champion, 4 and 3. Jackson, more or less a stranger to national competition but who cuts quite a figure around Kansas City courses, fought his way to a 1 up victory over Fred Wright Jr. of West Newton, Mass.

The golfers were considerably handicapped on their last five holes by a driving rain, which soon developed into a hail storm that lasted for nearly ten minutes. The storm was more or less of a boon to young Jackson, for he and Wright came up to the last green, a par 5, all even. What with the hail and rain, it took him fifteen feet for a 7, but that was good enough, for Wright had an 8.

Defeats in Morning Round.

The morning round brought about the defeat of several pre-tournament favorites. George Voigt of New York lost to Dick Martin, 2 and 1; Johnny Lehman of Chicago, who tied for medalist honors with Yates and Charlie Seaver of Los Angeles, was upset by Jackson, 1 up. Seaver lost to Yates, 1 up. Johnny Goodman of Omaha was pushed aside by Howell, 3 and 1. Eugene Homans, runner-up to Jones last year, was beaten by Somerville, 3 and 1.

Makes Billiard to Halve Hole.

The Bolstad-Martin second round match was one of the best of the day. Les won the first two holes and clung to this advantage until the 9th, where he missed a short putt for a par 4. They halved the next two holes, but at the 12th the St. Paul golfer dropped his tee shot eight feet from the pin and sank the putt for a birdie deuce.

The 13th produced one of the freak shots of the tournament. Dick's second shot was in the rough to the right and he pitched on four inches past the pin. Bolstad, whose iron shot was trapped, chipped 15 feet past. He then nudged the ball toward the hole, but it was wide. It struck Martin's ball and caromed in for a four, halving the hole.

Bolstad drew another birdie on the

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Alvin Crowder pitched the Senators to a 5 to 2 triumph over the Philadelphia Athletics here today for a sweep of the two game series. Crowder held the champions to six hits and blanked them until the ninth inning.

Roy Mahaffey started for the Macks and was charged with his third defeat of the season. George Earnshaw finished. Bluege and Manush hit home runs for Washington. Score:

LONDOS ARRIVES TODAY FOR BOUT WITH M'MILLEN

Jimmy Londos will arrive in Chicago today to finish training for his first wrestling match in a month. Londos is leaving a California vacation to meet Jim McMillen at Soldiers' field next Monday. He gained five pounds while on the coast and now weighs 205 pounds, more than at any time during his career.

According to Ed White, his manager, Londos has been perfecting his new neck lock. It is an adaptation of the strangle hold but Londos claims that it is not illegal. He will be willing to demonstrate this hold before the Illinois Boxing commission and wrestling experts, according to White.

The Indians tied it at two all in the seventh and fortunately nothing was hit at Appling during the inning. Vosmik opened with a double and Hodapp walked. The runners moved up on Myatt's sacrifice and Vosmik scored on Kamm's fly to Reynolds. Harder fanned.

Then Luke Drop Kicks One.

The Sox scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh. After Kerr had been called out on strikes, Tate singled to left, advanced on Faber's sacrifice and went to third while Blue was reaching first on Morgan's error. Sullivan singled to center, Tate scoring and Blue taking third. Reynolds was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases, but Fonseca tapped to Kamm to force Reynolds.

After two were out in the ninth, Falk batted for Harder and singled to center. Burnett sent a nice grounder to Appling, but Luke kicked it all over the place. Porter also grounded to Appling, who came up with the ball. He made a terrific heave over first, forcing Blue to make an amazing leaping, one handed catch to end the contest.

SECOND GAME

The Sox staked Thomas to a two run lead in the first inning. Blue launched the Chicago offensive with a single to center and was safe at second when Hudlin made a wide throw to Burnett in an attempt to force him on Sullivan's tap. Reynolds forced Sullivan, Blue reaching third. Fothergill singled to right, Blue scoring and Reynolds taking third, and Reynolds scored while Watwood was forcing Fothergill. Hudlin threw out Appling.

The Sox made two runs in the third inning and seemed to have an even larger harvest under way until a double play bobbed up. Blue walked and stopped at third on Sullivan's double. Reynolds singled over second, scoring Blue and putting Sullivan on third. Fothergill grounded into a double play, Sullivan scoring, and Watwood filed to Averill.

The Indians got two runs after two were out in the fifth. Hodapp pushed off with a single to left and stopped at second when Sewell singled to the same spot. Kamm forced Sewell, Hodapp taking third. Hudlin fanned, but Burnett singled to right, scoring Hodapp and putting Kamm on third, and Porter singled, scoring Kamm, Burnett stopping at second. Averill filed to Watwood.

The Indians harassed Thomas for two runs and a four-all tie in the sixth. Morgan beat out a slow roller toward third. Vosmik lined to Reynolds and Hodapp singled through short, Morgan stopping at second. Sewell doubled to right center, scoring Morgan and Hodapp. Kamm was called out on strikes and Hudlin filed to Watwood. Jolley, darkness and a tardy cloudburst all got together at this point to prevent a Sox triumph.

Reds Conquer Cubs in Two Games, 7-4, 8-4

drick sacrificed, Cuccinello walked, and Beck singled. This much scored Roush. Smith then relieved May and a squeeze bunt by Durocher, on which nobody covered first base, scored Cuccinello with the last run.

SECOND GAME

Everything moved along with neatness and dispatch in the second game until the Reds turned loose on Bush in the fourth inning. Roush started it with a single to center and was forced by Hendrick on what would have been a double play if Adair hadn't made a wild relay to Grimm. Cuccinello doubled over D. Taylor's head and Hendrick scored. There was more bad luck for Bush when English threw low to first on Beck's grounder. Durocher doubled to left, scoring Cuccinello and Beck. Then Styles walked, but Benton helped by fanning and Durocher was thrown out in an attempt to steal third.

All the Cubs had to show for four innings of effort against Benton was one hit, but they did a bit better in the fifth, two runs resulting. Dan Taylor led off with a pass and Grimm followed with a single to left. Herman singled between first and second, Taylor scoring. Hartnett filed to center and Grimm went to third after the catch. He scored while Cuccinello was throwing out Bush on a slow roller.

Parade of Pitchers Begins.

When Douthit singled and went to third on a double by Crabtree to start the fifth, Hornsby decided Bush was badly in need of help. Sweetland was sent in, but hampered as he was by a bum leg, the southpaw didn't remain long enough to become acquainted. He got Roush on a popup, but Hendrick singled and Douthit scored. After Cuccinello filed to Adair, Beck drove a double over Cuyler's head, Crabtree and Hendrick scoring. Durocher also doubled and Beck scored. At this point Welch relieved Sweetland and the rally ceased.

With one out in the sixth Cuyler emerged from an all day slump by doubling down the right field line. He scored on Barton's single. The Reds duplicated this feat in their half. Douthit provided the two bagger and Roush's single shoved him home. The Cubs also were a bit active in the seventh. Hartnett walked, went to third on Welch's double to the right field wall and home on Adair's fly to Roush. This made the score 8 to 4.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

"LOW NET."

NOW that golf holds sway with the National amateur tourney at Beverly, we may tell a hitherto unpublished story of a tourney a few years ago in which there was a "low net." The event was offered by a corporation which thought good will toward its product might be stimulated by conducting a tourney for newspaper writers with a generous prize list and lavish entertainment, including liquid. The scene was some south side course—Dixmoor, if we remember rightly.

On the day in question there was a small deluge. The links was heavy and sodden. Players, if wet within, certainly were wet without, generally synchronously. Scores naturally were on the "high side," and 93 gross was low when a late player arrived. None would brave the elements again. So he went out alone, keeping his own score, returning in the dusk after the prize list had been compiled. He turned in an 83 gross, handicap 25, net 58.

Now, it is not considered polite to question a golfer's scoring arithmetic. Especially was that so in this instance, where the object of the whole affair was to create "good will." The principal prizes of the day were for net scores. The managing committee were troubled frowns. What to do? A hurried meeting was called. The committee emerged without a seeming care. Their carefreeness was explained when prizes were announced at dinner. The chairman arose and said:

"Low net honors of the day were won by Ananias Lyre with 58. He is awarded custody of this perpetual challenge trophy for one year. Second low net was taken by Ernest Count with 74. He will receive this jeweled gold watch," etc., etc. Which may or may not be a warning not to have them too "low netty."

Beverly Scores.

To an innocent bystander failing to study its narrow fairways, calling for accurate shots, and its cruel traps, Beverly might not appear as difficult. But if he looked at the score card and saw par 71 for 6,702 yards and then studied the fairways and traps he'd have a most wholesome respect for this course, on which the thirty-fifth annual National tourney is being contested.

If any one is skeptical, just consider that in the two qualifying rounds of eighteen holes each only one player shot the course in par or better—Johnny Lehman. Even allowing for wind the first day and heavy grounds the second, one par or better score in more than 250 rounds by players of this caliber is unusual.

The Wake has not played Beverly since it was remodeled to championship difficulties. We are glad now that our sportsmanship in not wishing to deface the fairways before the tourney caused us to decline Harry Knox's invitation last week to "try it."

For Charity Game.

Friend Harvey: Let me make a suggestion for the Cub lineup against the White Sox in the charity game next week. Here it is: Adair, ss; English, 3b; Cuyler, cf; Barton, rf; Blair, 1b; D. Taylor, lf; Hemsley, c; Herman, 2b; Teachout, p. Here is youth, speed, and plenty of dash. It would give the fans something to think about and opportunity to size up future Cubs prospects. The outfit has a composite batting average of .375. Barton, weakest in the averages, would be dangerous on account of his homers. H. A. Miller.

LATE ARRIVALS BOOST CARDS' SQUAD TO 36

Five more players reported to Coach Leroy Andrew for the second practice session of the Chicago Cardinals yesterday at Mills stadium, swelling the squad to thirty-six. Twenty-five will be selected to comprise the Cardinal squad.

Among the new arrivals was Duke Slater, lineman on last year's eleven. Other linemen were Francis McNally and Hoot Herrin, former St. Mary's college players. Irving Hill of Trinity and Ted Bucklin of Idaho are new backfield men.

The Cardinals will open the season on Sept. 20, when they will face the Pullman Panthers in a nonleague game.

The commission declared Harry Wills the logical contender for the heavyweight championship of the world at a time when a number of the most deserving Democrats in New York wished to conduct a Dempsey-Wills fight and ignored Gene Tunney's claims. Therefore, when Tunney beat Dempsey he was not the commission's heavyweight champion. On the contrary, Wills was champion by Dempsey's default. But after a time the commission quietly dechampionized its own he

MY DANDY BEATS MALOLO, KING OF 'BUSH' MEETINGS

BY FRENCH LANE.

Malolo, the old horse from the "bush" tracks that has been beating all the best sprinters in the west coast, finally met his master in the South Shore Country Club handicap at Lincoln Fields yesterday.

His master was the former matinee idol, My Dandy, and My Dandy did no half way job about squelching his rival. He began throwing mud into Malolo's eyes soon after the start and he simply played with the champion from the "bushes" the rest of the way home.

Just an Easy Romp.

My Dandy won by six lengths. Malolo was second. The brilliant Satin Spar, making his first start in nine days, was third. He wasn't quite ready for this engagement. In his best form Satin Spar could have beaten both My Dandy and Malolo.

My Dandy, despite many failures in Chicago this year, has not lost his popularity, and when he paraded to the post he was the favorite at around 7 to 5. He won so easily that the folks who backed him had nothing to worry about from the time the race started until it was finished.

The track was sloppy from the overnight rains, yet exceptionally good time was made. My Dandy stepped the six furlongs of the South Shore course in 1:14 and some private clocks caught him in even faster time. He ran like it. My Dandy of old in his encounter and the victory caused him to loom up as a dangerous contender in the $5,000 added Crete handicap which is to be decided here Saturday afternoon.

Pays $4.30 to Win.

In the mutuels My Dandy, which had been ridden energetically by Jockey C. E. Allen, paid $4.30 to win, $2.40 to place, and $2.10 to show. Malolo, with no excuse to offer, paid $2.24 to place. Satin Spar in the mud field was only at $2.22 to show.

The race was decided before one of the big mid-week crowds of the Lincoln Fields season, there being about 14,000 present and most of them were My Dandy fans.

In the Wolf Lake claiming purse of six furlongs for some of our fashionable 3 year olds, I Say, owned by Albert Sabath of Chicago, found the going to his liking and was a easily winner from Switch and the favorite Miss Tulsa. I Say let Miss Tulsa make the pace in the early going, but took command when her rider, the veteran E. Pool, pleased in the stretch. She was drawing away at the end and wound up with a length and a half margin.

Try It a Master in Mud.

It takes a powerful mud running horse to beat Try It and they couldn't name any that could trim him in the Dyer claiming purse yesterday, although during most of the battle it looked like Try It was to finish far back.

Then he started running at the head of the stretch. He ran past one horse after another until he got up in the last stride to beat In Haste, which had been leading all the way. The margin of victory was half a length. Jockey Jones grabbed third money. The time for the mile and a sixteenth was 1:48 and the mutuels Try It paid $8.58.

LEVINSKY SIGNS TO BOX O'KELLY AT WHITE CITY

Promoter Mique Malloy has signed King Levinsky to box Con O'Kelly at the White City outdoor arena next Wednesday night.

Levinsky and O'Kelly boxed ten rounds in Boston earlier in the season, Levinsky winning an unpopular decision. O'Kelly will leave Boston today to finish his training here.

Exchange Plan Is Great Boon to Bird Hunting

BY BOB BECKER

Sportsmen partial to pheasants hunting are going to see a greater development of the "hunting exchange" idea this fall. Inasmuch as there is a growing tendency for sportsmen and farmers to get together on a common game bird production and hunting program hunters in the middle west would do well to keep apace with this movement and inaugurate similar projects in their territories.

Even in Michigan the Williamston pheasant hunting exchange is considered a mode for these farmers whose combines About one hundred farmers make up the organization and their adjoining lands comprise more than 3,000 acres.

On this acreage you find no conflict between the hunters and the landowners. They work together to save game birds for good hunting. The farmers believe the plan offers a way by which the old time hospitality of visiting hunters can be continued.

Here is how the hunting exchange works: Farmers holding adjoining lands exchange hunting rights for members of their families their hired hands and guests. The total number of persons who may hunt over the entire area at one time is definitely set at a maximum figure, consistent with good conservation

The number of hunters who can be in the area at the same time is regulated by tickets, for which a quota is set each day. These can only be secured at the farmhouses. Cars must be parked in the farmer's yard. These restrictions cause the visiting nimrods to arrive and leave the grounds at the same place.

So far farmers have shown no disposition to sell the tickets. Apparent they are not mindful of the economic aspects of the farm game restoration problem. But they do see through this exchange idea a way to keep game avoid having their farms overrun by undesirable hunters, and at the same time have good hunting themselves and friends.

Postpone Semi-Finals in Oak Brook Polo Tourney

Polonaise Wins Albany; Lucky Tom Runs 2d

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—W. R. Coe's Pompey filly, Polonaise, won the Albany handicap for juveniles here today and gave further evidence that the distaff side of the two year old division has powerful representatives this season.

C. V. Whitney's filly, Top Flight, generally is accepted as being best of the division, while Polonaise today conceded weight to John J. Robinson's Lucky Tom, winner of the Grand Union Hotel stake last Saturday, and beat him by a nose at the end of a hard run of six furlongs.

Polonaise ran and won under 121 pounds, as against 123 for Lucky Tom, but considering the sex allowance under the rules of racing, the filly was giving the colt a pound. The nine others which ran were more lightly weighted, with the Greentree stable's colt, Espinaca, getting third under 119 pounds, a length and a half back of Lucky Tom.

The value to the winner was $4,700, and the score was the second for Mr. Coe since the Albany was inaugurated in 1901. He won with Pahaska in 1920. Jimmy Burke was the winning rider, and after a rush to the front in the first furlong he never was headed.

As good as 5 to 1 could be had against the chances of the Coe entry, Jambalaya, running coupled in the betting with Polonaise, and there were comparative few takers. Lucky Tom and Walter J. Salmon's Peter Pridd went to the post joint choices at 13 to 5.

Sun Beau Champion of the Turf

BY FRENCH LANE.

The folks who know and love Sun Beau best describe him as a "matter of fact" horse.

F. COLTILETTI.

No prima donna tantrums for this stalwart of the turf, who has rolled up earnings which approach a half million dollars.

He has traveled back and forth across the country more often than any other horse. A long train ride is generally a true test of a thoroughbred's nerves. Sun Beau seems to enjoy it. He sleeps most of the way and as a result is seldom out of condition. Train noises lull him to sleep. He stretches out and snores through most of the journey. Then he comes off his car kicking and playing.

The only time he shows a temper is when he has been beaten. For one whole day after each beating he sulks in his stall, making no bones about the fact that he wants to be left alone in his misery.

His sulks were quite frequent at the time he was beginning his campaign as a 4 year old and while he was making his début in the handicap division, which included all the good horses in America over 3 years of age. He encountered one defeat after another.

At the start he was beaten in the Captain handicap at Aqueduct. The chartmaker scribbled into his notes: "Sun Beau raced well all the way, but tired as if he wasn't in best condition."

Next came the famous old Brooklyn handicap. The chartmaker's comment was: "Sun Beau, a factor all the way, ran a good race." Yet Sun Beau finished third, back of Light Brigade and Diavolo.

He traveled west to Chicago for the Stars and Stripes handicap on July 4 at Arlington Park. He was beaten this time by Dowagiac and Misstep. Yet the chartmaker's comment was still lenient, "Sun Beau, taken back repeatedly when racing next to the inner rail, was finally taken extremely wide, came steadily in the stretch under urging and would have given the winner a strong contest under a better ride."

Gloomy Days for Young Sun Beau and His Stable.

A fortnight later Sun Beau went to the post in the Midwest handicap at Arlington. Misstep beat him by a neck. He tried again in the Arlington handicap four days later and finished last. Once more the chartmaker offered an alibi, "Sun Beau stumbled and almost fell on the first turn."

STEEL REVIEWS REVIVE SPECTER OF WAGE CUTS

Cite Waning Hopes of Expansion.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The specter of wage cutting in the big steel industry again was raised yesterday by the midweek trade reviews. The reiteration, following considerable discussion in the last two weeks, was given more than ordinary attention on the theory that where there is so much smoke there must be some fire.

"With autumn close at hand," the Iron Age says, "hopes for seasonal recovery in the iron and steel trade are waning. In neither production or demand are current tendencies of such a character as to point to an immediate expansion of activity. Pig iron output in August showed a decline of 12 per cent from July, continuing the recession that began in May. Steel ingot production, unchanged from last week at 31 per cent, remains at close to the lowest level of the year to date.

Press Public Works.

"Increased pressure on public works programs is now being urged, not merely as a method of alleviating unemployment but as a possible means of getting industry off of dead center. Unless this or some other way is found to build up general business activity and restore confidence, iron and steel producers fear that retrenchment policies, which began with the reduction of dividends and salaries, will have to be extended to include wage cuts."

Another angle is taken by Steel, which says that "the probability of a steel wage reduction about Oct. 1 may be a factor in convincing buyers that steel is fully liquidated." And it goes on to say that "steel producers are confident the expected reduction in common labor rates will not have a sequel in pressure against prices.

"September has arrived on a wave of structural steel buying and substantial releases of line pipe but consistently lacks the life which usually marks the closing weeks of the third quarter," Steel continues. "In fact, actual steel production has eased off another point this week to 31 per cent. By next week works have surrendered practically all of the improvement of mid-August and, on account of Labor Day, next week's operating rate may set a new low for the year."

The Iron Age says that operations in the automobile industry are still on a diminishing scale, that betterment in railroad demand seems contingent on the carriers winning the pending freight rate case, and that business in agricultural machinery is dulled by the abnormally low level of prices for farm products.

STOCK PRICES IMPROVE

Despite the vacillations of the stock market last month, prices made some progress on the up side, according to a computation by Frazier Jelke & Co. The market appraisal of 100 representative common stocks increased $376,851,000, or 2 per cent, during August. The total value of these stocks was $18,663,456,000 on Aug. 31, compared with $18,286,575,000 on July 31. This total and also the appreciation is influenced somewhat by the merger of Standard Oil of New York and Vacuum Oil.

The oil shares made the largest gain, moving up 18 per cent, while the [illegible] gained 14.9 per cent; [illegible], 4.4 per cent; steels, 2.8 per cent; merchandising, 2.5 per cent; utilities, 2.1 per cent; electrical equipment, 1.8 per cent, and foods, 1.1 per cent. On the other hand, the railroad [illegible] declined 8 per cent, equipment, 6 per cent; motors, 4.6 per cent; miscellaneous industrials, 2.6 per cent, and mines, four-tenths of 1 per cent.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Consummating a decade of agitation for agricultural relief, the country, through the last congress, gave the American farmer the agricultural marketing act, the federal farm board, and the use of a half billion dollar revolving fund.

This was in addition to the work of the department of agriculture with its $200,000,000 annual appropriation, some $55,000,000 of which is spent for the farmers' direct and particular benefit. It was in addition to various tariff acts raising the duties on farm commodities, and to various other remedial measures, such as the Capper-Volstead act exempting coöperatives from the anti-trust laws, and the acts setting up the farm loan and intermediate credit systems. It was in addition to seed and feed loan legislation.

Millions in Loans.

In attempting to help agriculture, the farm board has made such extensive loans that today it has less than $60,000,000 of its revolving fund left. It bought wheat and cotton in an attempt to stabilize their prices and stands to lose $200,000,000 of the public funds by its effort.

What did agriculture do by way of giving thanks for this latest and greatest act of assistance?

It did, so it has been remarked, what any other group would have done under similar circumstances. The federal government having relieved it of the burden of its error, it continued to overproduce, and it was not until it learned definitely that a kindly farm board was not going to take another surplus off its hands that it began to wake up to the fact that the man who must solve the farm problem is not a congressman or a government official, but the farmer himself.

The Farmer's Side.

On the farmer's behalf it has been said that his error has not been so much because he was a farmer but because he was a human being. If he has constantly overproduced over the past few years, says his defenders, there were certainly others better organized to control their production and in a better position to see ahead, who rode the good horse prosperity so fast that he foundered back there in the fall of 1929.

That very fall of 1929, however, marks the beginning of the difference. The banker, the business man, the industrialist, the white collar man, and the worker hit the dirt. Agriculture —to use a favorite farm board phrase —had a "cushion" put under it.

The country at large ruefully picked itself up and took the pledge. Agriculture went ahead, and in the very two commodities which the farm board spent millions to stabilize will produce bigger crops this year than last.

Ignored All Warnings.

With a nation-wide cry going up about the money the board was going to lose in stabilization; with the reiterated counsels of the board to cut production ringing in their ears, the cotton farmers of the south and the wheat farmers of the west will, it is estimated, produce crops a million and a half bales in cotton and 30 million bushels in wheat larger than last year.

It is true that the cotton acreage was cut 10 per cent. But thousands of marginal acres of low production and high cost are still being worked. It is also true that the growers of spring and durum wheat cut their acreage, but the winter wheat producers blithely planted over a million acres more than the year before.

When this year's cotton crop is harvested there will be almost enough domestic cotton on hand to supply the world for two years without planting a single acre in 1932. There will be a stock of wheat on hand large enough to supply this country's needs were only half a crop put in next year.

Lesson Is Sinking In.

It is beginning to get home to the farmer that he is not going to get a money making price for his products until he fits production to consumption. It is being realized by some of those in the forefront of the relief movement that a type of farm relief which induces the farmer to think that he can raise as much as he wants and a beneficent government plan will take care of it for him is worse than no relief.

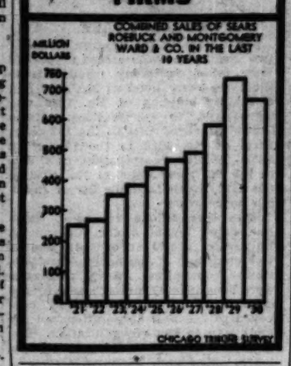
Agriculture is learning that it does not matter what particular direction such a relief plan takes and whether its name be stabilization, equalization fee, or debenture plan. As has been pointed out by several generations of sapient economists, there is a law of supply and demand, and any measure which seeks to raise prices without providing for a parallel means of controlling supply is headed for disaster.

Board Stops "Handout."

That is one lesson the farm board has learned in its two years of existence. And by its recent decision, as announced by Vice Chairman Carl Williams, not to do any more buying of surpluses, it is going to see that the lesson is passed on down to the producer.

If, as has been suggested, there were only some way of passing the lesson on to certain members of congress and certain farm leaders, agriculture might have a better chance of working its way up again.

LAST DECADE WITNESSED HUGE EXPANSION BY MAIL ORDER FIRMS



LEHIGH VALLEY RAILWAY OMITS 62½c DIVIDEND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—Directors of Lehigh Valley railroad today omitted the quarterly dividend of 62½ cents a share due on the common stock at this time. Following the meeting the directors stated that no action was taken on the common dividend for the third quarter "because of business conditions and inadequate earnings."

The Lehigh Valley dividend was reduced in March this year from a $3.50 annual basis to a $2.50 basis after having paid the $3.50 regularly since 1920. Earnings last year were $2.07 a share, compared with $6.07 in 1929. In the first half this year Lehigh earned nothing on the common, compared with 69 cents a share in the period last year.

Dividends were first paid on Lehigh Valley common stock in 1837 at the rate of 4½ per cent. Payments at varying rates up to 5¼ per cent continued until 1894. Between that year and 1903, in a period of generally poor business, none was paid. In 1904 the company resumed payments at the rate of 1 per cent and continued with an unbroken record of some return each year until today.

Controlled by Pennsy Road.

Lehigh Valley is controlled by the Pennsylvania railroad through ownership of 362,900 shares by Pennsylvania company, 10,000 shares by Pennroad corporation, and 259,929 shares by Wabash, in which Pennsylvania also has a large interest.

Pennsylvania railroad acquired control of Lehigh Valley in 1929 with the purchase of 362,900 shares for $43,551,208, or around $119 a share, which may be compared with the present market around $33.

The loss which Pennsylvania has incurred in its ownership of the Lehigh Valley is in contrast with the profit made by the Delaware and Hudson company in the sale of the stock to the Pennsylvania. Delaware and Hudson had purchased its holdings at an average cost of about $72.51 a share. Including the Wabash stock, which Pennsylvania also took, the Delaware and Hudson received about $63,000,000 for stock which had cost $41,233,442.

Holds Strategic Position.

Lehigh Valley with strong terminal facilities and a direct route from New York to Buffalo is a strategic position in negotiations for four-party mergers in eastern territory. The merger plan contemplates allotting the Lehigh to the Van Sweringen controlled Chesapeake and Ohio Nickel Plate group, providing another line to New York in addition to the Erie. But one of the important unsettled points in the eastern negotiations is the price to be paid by the Van Sweringens for the Lehigh and the question of any rights to be accorded the Pennsylvania over Lehigh mileage.

The Pennsylvania railroad has been cited by the interstate commerce commission for ownership of control of Lehigh and Wabash as a violation of the Clayton anti-trust laws.

An order has been issued by the commission for the Pennsylvania to divest itself of Lehigh and Wabash holdings. Pennsylvania announced that this order would be contested by them to the last legal ditch.

Foreign Trade Shows Drop of 1½ Billions This Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—American foreign trade in the first seven months of 1931 declined by more than a billion and a half dollars from the total for the corresponding period of last year, the department of commerce announced today.

Exports, according to the department, dropped by more than eight hundred millions, while imports showed a decline of more than six hundred millions.

The balance of trade, however, remained in favor of the United States by a margin of $215,061,874, despite the fact that the drop in the value of exports was heavier by approximately two million dollars than the decline in the value of imports. Exports during the January-July period of this year totaled $1,496,894,242, the department's figures showed, whereas imports totaled $1,281,832,368. In the same period of last year, exports were valued at $2,342,478,965, and imports at $1,958,543,106.

Declines Are Shown.

Exports to Europe declined by $348,895,935, in the first seven months of 1931 as compared with the same period last year. Similar declines were shown for our exports to North America, which dropped by $260,180,116; to South America, which dropped by $104,885,000; to Asia, which fell by $80,494,540; and to Africa, which declined by $23,719,276.

Imports, according to the commerce figures, dropped by $200,441,525 from Europe; $158,351,356 from North America; $185,557,434 from Asia; and $24,943,566 from Africa.

The United States retained its favorable balance of trade with each of these major divisions, except South America and Asia, the figures showed. Exports to South America in the first seven months of 1931 totaled $107,925,804, while imports were valued at $194,522,178. Exports to Asia were valued at $216,398,119, with imports from Asia totalling $359,736,871.

Exports of finished manufactures took a sharper drop during the seven month period than any other class of commodities, the department pointed out. In the first seven months of last year, it was shown, exports of finished manufactures were valued at $1,252,613,000, while in the same period this year they totaled but $743,717,000. On the import side, the sharpest decline was noted in the value of crude materials, which dropped from $648,335 in 1930 to $391,523 in 1931.

Asiatic Gain in July.

Foreign trade figures for July, 1931, as compared with corresponding figures for July, 1930, reflected the general downward trend shown by the figures for the seven month period. In the case of exports to Asia, however, an increase of $2,563,173 was reported for July of this year as compared with the same month in 1930.

Exports during July, 1931, totaled $180,669,501, as compared with $266,761,372 in July last year, according to the department's figures, while imports were valued at $174,474,422 in July of this year compared with $220,555,356 in the same month last year.

URGE DRASTIC CUT IN EXPENDITURES OF UNITED STATES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—Drastic curtailment of governmental expenditures during the next fiscal year was recommended today by Chairman Will R. Wood of the house appropriations committee. The Indiana Republican, following a conference with President Hoover, asserted that a tax increase could be avoided by paring the cost of operating the government.

The Wood attack on the high cost of government, coupled with his opposition to a tax increase, served to emphasize the differences of opinion that have developed among the President's advisers on the question of whether taxes should be boosted at the coming session of congress.

It was disclosed today that at the present time some of the President's closest advisers are opposing any tax increase on the ground that the United States can afford to accept a few deficits during the depression period. This group argues that inasmuch as the treasury made advance payments of more than three and a half billion dollars on war debt retirement during the years of prosperity, the country can afford to live on its fat for a year or two at least.

Another group, which is reported to include Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, favors the passage of legislation which would revise and increase the revenues of the government. It is members of this group who take the position that the government should prepare to balance its budget by not later than the 1933 fiscal year.

LELAND GIVES UP FIGHT WITH FORD ON LINCOLN DEAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—Henry M. Leland today gave up the battle to force Henry Ford to pay losses of stockholders in the original Lincoln Motor company.

"We have no further recourse in law," he wrote. "There is no step we can take at this time to gain for you the day in court to which every American citizen is entitled. But the equities and the Ford obligation have not changed. Henry Ford, by the terms of his agreement, owes you the amount of your stock investment in the Lincoln Motor company."

The litigation was based on an oral agreement which Leland maintains Ford made when he bought the Lincoln Motor company at a receiver's sale. Under the agreement, Leland holds, Ford was obligated to repay $8,000,000 in losses incurred by the original stockholders.

The case started in Oakland county Circuit court, was dismissed and the Supreme court upheld the ruling. There is no legal action Leland may now take.

TRI-UTILITIES STOCK FIGURES IN EXCHANGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—The Federal Water Service corporation has arranged to exchange its special $4 cumulative preferred stock for such holdings of Tri-Utilities corporation common stock as were purchased by the federal company's customers under a sales campaign sponsored a year or more ago by the parent company's bankers. Tri-Utilities was placed under a receivership Tuesday.

Less than 3,000 shares of Tri-Utilities common were distributed in the course of this campaign, and the holders will receive full credit for the price paid for their stock in the exchange. The special preferred of the Federal company was created for customer-ownership distribution exclusively at $62.50 a share. Those who bought Tri-Utilities at $38 a share will receive that principal amount in the new stock.

N.Y. Curb Market Weakens When Realty Issue Breaks

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The curb market weakened today, with some of the specialty issues breaking rather spectacularly. National Short Term Securities class "A" stock broke 17 points to a low price of 3½, and closed at 6, in feverish trading. The company is engaged in real estate financing, and has just reported earnings of $1.03 a class "A" share for the six months ended July 31.

Officials of the company said it was in the strongest position in its history, and attributed the collapse to a "bear raid." An unconfirmed rumor widely heard in brokerage circles was that a block of the stock which had been held in escrow had come on the market.

Parker Rust Proof dropped 14 points to a new low for the year at 62 in a few sales, and A. O. Smith, which recently had a run up on merger rumors, dropped 13 points to 100, in a few odd lot transactions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—An increase of 21.52 per cent in gross cash receipts for August, 1931, is reported by National Bellas Hess company. Gross cash receipts for August amounted to $2,350,085, compared with $1,933,904 in August, 1930.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—An overstuffed budget of offcolor news provided the fixings for a regular bear blowout on the stock exchange today. Values were pared down from 1 to 3 points over a rather wide range. About the only redeeming feature to the gloomfest was the small volume of trading, the transactions total holding to about 1,000,000 shares.

Omission of the common dividend of the Lehigh Valley railroad, coming as it did in the wake of the Florida East Coast receivership yesterday; a disappointing car loadings report, fears of other dividend omissions, a batch of fresh bank failures, and the collapse of a real estate financing company security on the Curb exchange were some of the day's unfavorable developments. Announcement of statistics showing a 3 per cent decline in electric consumption and a drop in steel operations were other items which the bear party was able to turn to its account in a drive to batter the list to generally lower levels.

Rail Shares Lead Decline.

Railroad shares led the decline, Lehigh Valley taking a tumble of 3 points following announcement of the dividend omission and Pennsylvania, which holds control of Lehigh, selling off nearly 3. Other notable losses in the group included Atchison, down 5¼ points; Union Pacific, off 3½; New York Central, 3⅛; Norfolk & Western, Southern Pacific, 2⅜; Illinois Central, 2⅛; Rock Island, 2⅞, and New Haven, 2½ points.

The drop in Lehigh Valley sunk it to the lowest trading level in nearly thirty years, or since 1902. Dribbling liquidation was sufficient in the absence of nearby demand to keep the issue bumping its new bottom for the rest of the day.

New Low for Movement.

Steady weakening of the railroad list had a disturbing influence on the general market, particularly when Atchison and New York Central joined the group of carrier stocks on the toboggan. This dribbling pressure on the rails influenced rather persistent selling in most of the stocks in other groups which had been the center of recurrent bullish activity over the last month or so. U. S. Steel common, American Can, United Aircraft, United Corporation, Case Threshing Machine and Radio, among others, were rather freely offered at times—in fact sufficiently so to cause no little conjecture relative to whether the selling in those directions indicated an attempt on the part of pools recently active to slip out of their stocks.

Case Threshing Selling.

The selling in Case Threshing Machine, which has a dividend meeting set for tomorrow, accounted for near-

COMPETITIVE FORMS OF POWER DEPRESS WORLD'S COAL TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—The present depressed condition of the world's coal trade is due to "increased efficiency in consumption, the displacement of coal by fuel oil, hydro electric power, and natural gas, and the rise of new centers of production," according to expert observers of the department of commerce.

J. R. Bradley, commerce department coal expert, said today:

"The net result of these changes has been a dislocation between supply and demand which has visibly affected the coal trade of all nations and has brought about the increased use of subsidies in various countries in the attempt to sell in foreign markets. These government aids have involved the granting of long term credit and in some cases, according to reputable reports, barter of coal for other commodities. The extent of the various aids has, of course, depended upon the appraisal of the position of the export coal trade in the general economic schemes of the various countries.

"The rise of competing sources of power is indicated," according to Mr. Bradley, "by the fact that while between 1900 and 1930 world coal production practically doubled, petroleum production was multiplied by nine, and that developed water power has doubled within the last ten years."

The commerce department expert holds that greater efficiency in the use of coal has probably been another principal cause of the generally reduced coal consumption.

J. I. CASE CO. OMITS DIVIDEND ON ITS COMMON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Sept. 2.—A decision to omit the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on common stock of the J. I. Case company, manufacturers of farm implements, was made late today at the regular quarterly meeting of stockholders here because of unfavorable farming and business conditions.

A statement issued after the meeting declared that crop failures caused by drought have seriously affected the farming business not only in the United States but in South America and have resulted in substantial reductions in the volume of sales of the company's products and slowed up its collections. This situation has raised unemployment problems in the company factories requiring special consideration this winter, it was pointed out.

The regular quarterly preferred stock dividend of 1¾ per cent, however, was declared, payable on Oct. 1, to holders of record Sept. 12.

Wheat Feeding Heavy; 175 Million Bushels

Low prices for wheat are inducing extensive feeding nearly all over the country. Nat C. Murray, the Clement Curtis & Co.'s statistician, has returns indicating that about 175,000,000 bu will be fed to live stock this season. This is almost 20 per cent of the crop and Mr. Murray said he would hesitate to believe that such a large part of the crop would be fed were it not that their estimates a year ago indicated 117,000,000 bu, which figures now are fully confirmed by evidence of supply and distribution of last year's crop. Canada will feed a much larger percentage of her crop than last year, or normally 5 per cent of the Saskatchewan crop and 20 per cent of the Alberta production, according to latest estimates.

Bank of United States to Pay 30 Pct. Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—Bank of United States depositors, whose funds have been tied up since the failure of the institution last Dec. 11, will receive a 30 per cent dividend on their balances within a few days. Supreme Court Justice John F. Caren today handed down a decision formally authorizing Banking Superintendent Joseph A. Broderick to mail dividend checks, already prepared.

CHICAGO STOCK SELLERS HUNT OUT WEAK SPOTS

Traders on the Chicago Stock exchange went gunning for weak spots yesterday on the theory that prices can be hammered down if they won't go up. This time they found a vulnerable spot in U. S. Radio and Television, which has had a considerable rise in the last month or two.

Offerings at the opening of the market disclosed that the pegged price had been lowered and first sales were made a point or two lower than the previous closing quotation. Then a considerable volume of selling drove the price down to 25¾, from which point moderate covering brought a rally to 28 at the close. The turnover in this issue exceeded 33,000 shares, which represented more than a third of the day's total transactions of 94,000 shares.

Stock Is Quieter.

On the other hand, North American Light and Power, which had borne the brunt of the bear attack for several previous days, quieted down to a volume of only 1,800 shares and a further small fractional recession.

The rest of the radio group didn't do much. Grigsby-Grunow finished unchanged, and Q. R. S.-De Vry was off a bare fraction, with moderate trading in both issues. Most of the active public utilities registered moderate and irregular price changes. Central Public Service A, Cities Service and Middle West Utilities sagged fractionally, while American Public Service preferred gained a point. Central Public Service reported that July sales of electricity were 11.02 per cent larger than in July, 1930, while sales for the seven months ended with July were 1.21 per cent ahead of the corresponding period in 1930. Gas sales in July were 13.15 per cent above a year ago, while seven months' sales were 15.63 per cent ahead of the same period last year.

Norge Shipments Gain.

In the automotive group, Bendix Aviation declined a point but Borg-Warner made a fractional gain coincident with announcement that its refrigeration division, the Norge corporation, had made shipments last month that exceeded August, 1930, by 473 per cent and that shipments for the eight months this year ran 512 per cent above the same period in 1930. Cord corporation eased a small fraction.

In other sections of the list, Insull Utilities Investment was down a fraction but Corporate Securities certificates advanced a point. John R. Thompson lost a point, Swift made a fractional gain, and Continental Chicago was unchanged.

The board of governors of the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday approved the listing of an additional block of 473,742 shares of common stock of the Appalachian Gas corporation for issuance in exchange for common stock of the Empire corporation, holding company for the Empire Gas and Fuel company.

PRICES OF WHEAT DECLINE AS MILD SELLING ARISES

Low Levels of Values Fail to Stimulate Demand.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Low levels for wheat prices have failed to stimulate the demand to any great extent of late, and the outstanding feature of the world's situation has been the lack of aggressive buying. Mild liquidation developed in the market yesterday, and while the selling was not heavy it proved to be well in excess of the ability of buyers to absorb, and the deferred futures dropped 1½c from the early high to a new low for the season. The close was at the bottom, with net losses of ⅞@1¼c, while September, 45½@45⅝c; December, 48⅝@48⅝c, and May, 53½@53⅝c.

The main pressure in wheat was directed against the May, with persistent selling in evidence, while there was sufficient buying of September against sales of the deferred delivery to narrow the discount under the September fractionally. Weakness in the stock market in New York had considerable influence on sentiment.

Export Demand More Active.

Scattered buying of futures based on relative firmness in Liverpool and reports of a better cash demand abroad caused a minor upturn here at the start, but everything of a bullish character was ignored after the market started downward. Winnipeg finished ⅛@¼c lower, with October, 62⅝c, although it was claimed that export sales of Manitobas on Tuesday were around 1,000,000 bu, or materially in excess of what had been reported, and there was a further demand from the continent during the day, with sales in all positions estimated around 400,000 bu. A little hard winter was taken by Europe, and the trade had reports Greece was in the market.

According to Broomhall, a leading European authority, the quality of this year's wheat crop abroad generally is inferior. Cables reported sales of farm board old crop winters as low as 52¾c, or about in line with offerings from Russia. This is regarded as further evidence that American prices have at last reached the world's parity. Liverpool futures finished ⅛@¼d lower, with October at 34c.

Less than U. S. Estimate.

Private estimates showing an average of 115,000,000 bu for the American spring wheat crop, or 3,000,000 bu less than the government August returns and 126,000,000 bu less than harvested last year, had no effect on the market, although it is the smallest crop secured since the northwestern section of the country became a factor in the domestic situation, and was reported by local statisticians as almost a complete failure. The crop of the three Canadian provinces was placed at 221,000,000 to 235,000,000 bu, compared with 374,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Damage to the corn crop by the intense heat and drought late in July was reflected to a considerable extent in the private crop estimate given to the trade yesterday, showing an average of 2,725,000,000 bu, or 42,000,000 bu less than the government's August returns and compared with 2,894,000,000 bu harvested last year. The reports, however, failed to stimulate any speculative buying of consequence, and the close was ⅛@1c lower, with September the strongest, the latter finishing at 43@43¼c, while December was 38⅛@38⅝, and May, 43¼@43⅝c.

Oats finished unchanged to ⅛c lower, with September, 21⅝c; December, 23c, and May, 25¼c. Commission houses were fair buyers and offset to a large extent the scattered liquidation which developed in sympathy with other grains. Rye weakened with wheat and closed ⅜@⅝c lower, September finishing at 33⅝c; December, 36⅛c, and May, 40¼c.

MEAT STOCKS DECREASE

Stocks of meats at western packing points decreased 33,478,000 lbs in August and were 232,654,766 lbs. For the same time last year there was a decrease of 26,746,642 lbs, when the total was 276,134,510 lbs. Present stocks are the smallest in recent years, with the exception of 1930, when they were 205,487,000 lbs.

Lard stocks decreased 23,316,869 lbs last month, against 21,011,605 lbs last year. Total stocks are 79,345,890 lbs, against 63,-615,117 lbs last year, with the exception of last year, present supplies are the smallest in recent years.

The reduction in stocks throughout the week had no influence on the market yesterday, trading in futures being the lightest of the year. Nearby deliveries were 2¼@3c higher and the distant months neglected and ⅝c lower. There was one trade in bellies for September at 2¾c decline. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d higher. Export clearances were 341,625 lbs of lard and 308,-600 lbs of bacon. Hog prices were higher, with receipts smaller than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

Contemplating a good demand for fresh pork this week-end, when housewives are expected to buy in twice the usual Saturday amount of food to last over the two day holiday, local packers bought hogs freely on yesterday's session at mostly 10@25c higher prices.

Whether or not the anticipated expansion in consumer demand develops, the fact remains that five small packers and about a dozen city butchers have backed up their judgment to the extent of 20,000 hogs, making a total weight of almost 5,000,000 lbs. of pork. This active buying on local account has buoyed up hog prices and traders look for a slight increase in offerings in the near future.

Weather Boosts Demand.

Cooler weather has also stimulated demand for pork and some retailers have increased their purchases in hopes that the ending of the vacation season may also add to the demand in the next two weeks. Vacationists and picnickers will soon be back in their regular routine of "three meals a day." Demand for cured meats usually tapers off at this time of year and fresh meats come into their own in the butcher shops.

The extreme top for hogs advanced 10c, at $6.85, yesterday, this price being paid for 210@260 lb averages, while the general average came up 15c, at $5.95. The range of prices reached the narrowest point since June 25, barring Saturdays. The top and average prices were only 90c apart.

On the corresponding day in 1926 the record "spread" was made when the top hogs sold up to $14.45, while the general average figured $11.45. While light weight hogs are selling lower than early last week, butchers weighing over 300 lbs show gains of 50@75c in ten days.

Deliver Future Hogs.

More than twenty carloads of September hogs were delivered to buyers during the first two days of the month. It is estimated that about fifty carloads more will be delivered during the month, a good many of them for a "pool" in Nebraska. The Brennan Packing company, at Chicago, slaughtered 1,100 head that were delivered yesterday.

Traders are showing more interest in September contracts for heavy grades, and considerable more life is noted in the "cash" trade for 260@310 lb averages lately. One load of September heavy sold on the futures market yesterday at $6.75, and other bids for similar contracts were made at $6.25@6.60. More were offered at $6.75. December mediums were offered at $5.50 and bid $5.25.

The cattle market was a slow affair yesterday and sellers showed little resistance when buyers seemed satisfied with a slight cut in quotations during the opening rounds, but balked when bids dropped to a mostly 25@35c lower level in midsession and later It took a load of fancy 926 lb yearlings to scratch up a $10.00 top at the high point of the forenoon. The price was also paid for medium weights averaging 1,292 lbs. The available supply of fat cattle in the corn-belt is reported in strong hands, and curtailment of supplies since the reaction of prices substantiates this report.

West Stops Shipments.

The sharp break recorded in fat lambs during the last few days has caused the western producer to limit shipments to common to medium grades of lambs lately and the price range for western lambs shows a sharper cut than in natives, which is due to quality. The market has slumped 50@75c since the middle of last week and sorting has been heavier, as usual on a break.

Only a scattering of natives to city butchers reached $7.75, while bulk sold to packers at $7.00@7.50. Range lambs went at $7.25 and below, although choice grades are quoted at $7.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were dull. Feeding lambs met good demand at $5.50@5.75, with best quoted at $5.80@5.85.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Offerings of butter were smaller and the market steady to ½c higher. Receipts, 4,852 tubs. Fresh eggs sold at former prices. Receipts, 5,535 cases. With the exception of a decline of 1c in live heavy hens, poultry prices were unchanged. Receipts, 4 cars and 32 trucks. Potato receipts were smaller, but the demand was slow and prices little changed. Receipts, 50 cars and 198 cars were on team track.

LOWER CROP ESTIMATES

A general lowering in the indicated crops of corn, spring wheat, and oats as shown by the private reports given to the trade yesterday, the spring wheat crop showing an average of 115,000,000 bu, the smallest since the government first started to separate the Winter and the spring grain yields in 1885, there being a loss of 3,000,000 bu as compared with the official estimate of the previous month, and of 126,000,000 bu as compared with last year's harvest. Owing to the unusual situation which prevails this season local statisticians say it is difficult to make estimates on the yield. Corn estimates were lowered 42,000,000 bu from the official August figures, while there was a reduction of 33,000,000 bu oats. Heaviest losses in corn during the last month were in Iowa, South Dakota, and Nebraska. Murray estimated that corn production at 178,000,000 bu, against 232,000,000 bu last year. BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Butter prices moved up sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, opening ½@¾c above the previous close on lighter receipts in local and eastern markets later moving to higher levels on reports of storage news, the greater buying being at the higher prices. Final sales were ½@⅝c higher. Eggs opened unchanged, sold off ¼c and finished unchanged to ¼c off. Though receipts of eggs were light, storage figures showed less out, keeping prices practically even. Fair volume of trading in potatoes with prices remaining unchanged except October Green Mountains, which closed 1c higher. Storage movement in the four markets showed 593,191 lbs butter more out; eggs, 3,225 cases less out than year ago. Sales: Butter, 2,918,400 lbs; eggs, 552,000 doz.; potatoes, 1,000,000 lbs.
